Cholera Mixture.
C. C. JOHNSON would inform the Public,
that he has, by the influence of a friend,
through the German Consul, a prescription of
Dr. Schroder, of Germany, for the cure of the Cholera, who has used it with the greatest success in more than seven thousand cases.
Dr. Schroder says, "I have seen the Cholera in all its forms, and seen the effect of certain, alcohol, opium, &c., and none of them are to be relied upon. I have used this mixture with perfect success when the patient has been sorely afflicted."
Dr. Cox of New York, when the Cholera
was rife there, said, "It is a person has a dar-
dard, he already has the Cholera, and a remedy
should be administered immediately, not wait until he is seized with those dreadful cramps in his arms and legs, which soon bury him into the collapse stage when remedies are
of no avail."
All persons who go into the country or to the seashore should have themselves of this mixture, when they are on the water, and of knowing that in case they should be afflicted with diarrhea, that they have a remedy on hand to cure them.

Cholera Mixture.
C. C. JOHNSON would inform the Public,
that he has, by the influence of a friend,
through the German Consul, a prescription of
Dr. Schroder, of Germany, for the cure of the Cholera, who has used it with the greatest
success in more than seven thousand cases.
Dr. Schroder says, "I have seen the Cholera in all its forms, and seen the effect of certain, alcohol, opium, &c., and none of them are to be relied upon. I have used this mixture with perfect success when the patient has been sorely afflicted."
Dr. Cox of New York, when the Cholera
dard, he already has the Cholera, and a remedy
should be administered immediately, not wait
until he is seized with those dreadful
cramps in his arms and legs, which soon bury him into the collapse stage when remedies are
of no avail."
All persons who go into the country or to the seashore should have themselves of this mixture, when they are on the water, and of knowing that in case they should be afflicted with diarrhea, that they have a remedy on hand to cure them.

Selected Poetry.

LIFE.

Oh! life is but a dream,
A sunbeam's play,
A flow on a stream
Passing away.
A song upon the air,
A festal gay,
A something wondrous fair
Passing away.
A prison-house of woe,
A wintry day,
A dark gulf's ceaseless flow
Passing away.
A bird upon the wing,
A meteor ray,
A wild mysterious thing
Passing away.

Farmers' Department.

HEALTHFULNESS OF CURRANTS.

A correspondent of the American Agriculturist, says: "Whenever I see the abundant planting of currants recommended by you, I feel as if I must tell you that I have found this excellent fruit a sure preventive of dyspepsia. For three summers past, I have made my breakfast of them as long as they were to be had, and eaten them frequently during the day besides. I find that a plentiful of currants eaten with sugar in the morning, disposes of all the bad accumulations of the stomach, without giving diarrhoea, and helps to strengthen the digestive power through the wholesome acids this fruit contains, in which it is superior to the strawberry, raspberry, etc., for I have tried each in its turn. I can digest without trouble a hearty dinner after I have had a breakfast of currants, while at times my stomach has been so weak that a cupful of broth or soup only, would give me pain as if a cancer was gnawing within me." This accords with the experience of many others, but in the treatment of dyspepsia, or any other disease, it should be borne in mind, that "what one man's meat is, another's poison." Each must experiment and determine for himself what is suited to his particular case. In general, however, it may be safely asserted, that a more liberal use of this and other fruits during summer, in place of meat, would greatly diminish dyspepsia and other ailments of the digestive organs. It is to be remembered, however, that when currants are eaten, every berry is to be broken before it is swallowed; the gastric juice of the stomach cannot act upon the unbroken skin, and whole currants produce irritation through the whole alimentary canal.

BORERS. A great deal of labor and trouble can be saved by heaping sand or earth around trees, at this season of the year, before the fly, which produces the borer, appears, which, as is well known, is the last of July. By doing this, the fly is compelled to lay her eggs above the earth or sand, and at a point on the trunk easily seen, and the eggs or young grubs can be readily removed. Mr. Kenrick, of Dover, Mass., who has one of the finest orchards in Norfolk County, told us that by this method, which he practices every year, it did not take him upon an average more than five minutes to a tree, and in his whole orchard of two or three acres, not a borer could be found.

CABBAGE LICE. A gentleman of Weymouth, Mass., recently informed the New England Farmer, that a very high tide washed over his garden and destroyed everything but his cabbages, which were not only uninjured, but flourished all the better for the drench. He also informed them that some people who live near the salt water use it to destroy lice on cabbages, drawing it for that purpose in barrels from creeks or marshes. Others make a brine by adding about one and a half pecks of salt to a barrel of water.

Most people, says the English Gardener's Chronicle, will be astonished at the effects upon plants, of a liquid made by adding to one gallon of stale human urine, at least a week old, two ounces of sulphuric acid, and soon afterwards two ounces of pulverized chalk. When wanted for use, stir the mixture, and apply to grass or plants.

Anecdotes.

ADAM'S FALL. "Julius," you tell me how Adam got out of Eden? said one day to another.
"Well, I sposed he climbed over de fence."
"No, dat ain't it."
"Well, den, he borrowed a wheelbarrow and walked out."
"No, s'n'r."
"I gobs it up."
"Well, he got snaked out."

A clergyman, catechizing the youth of his church, put the first question from a catechism to a girl:
"What is your consolation in life and in death?"

The girl smiled, but did not answer. The clergyman insisted.
"Well, then," said she, "since I must tell, it is a young printer named B—, in Hancock street."

When Benjamin parted with Jeff. Davis, he said, "We're both going to the same place."
"How is that?" asked Davis.
"Well," said Benjamin, "I'm going to Europe, and your going to your rope."

HYPOPHOSPHITES

THE SPECIFIC REMEDY FOR

CONSUMPTION,

NERVOUS DEBILITY,

And all disorders of the Lungs, Nervous and Blood Systems.

The success of the HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past ten years, in the cure of that greatest scourge of the race, Consumption, is "unparalleled in the annals of medicine." This new and thoroughly Scientific Remedy acts with Invariable Efficacy in all stages of tubercular diseases. It relieves the cough, checks the profuse sweating, reduces the chills and fever, diminishes the expectation, and promotes refreshing sleep. ALL THE GENERAL SYMPTOMS DISAPPEAR WITH A RAPIDITY WHICH IS REALLY MARVELLOUS. Care is the Rule—Death the exception.

Their beneficial effects are equally prompt and certain in all derangements of the Nervous and Blood System—acting unopposed as a Nervous Tonic, and generator of new and healthy blood—while for cases of General Debility, Loss of Strength, Flaccid, and Apathy, Dyspepsia, Neuritis, Paralysis, Chronic Bronchitis, Asthma, Scrophula, Chronic Diarrhea, it is the most efficacious treatment known. A fair trial is a certain cure. (Circulars free.)

These ingredients are known as the most valuable Diuretics afforded.

A DIURETIC

Is that which acts upon the kidneys.

Helmbold's Extract Buchu

ACTS GENTLY.

Is pleasant in taste and odor, free from all injurious properties, and immediate in its actions.

FOR THE SATISFACTION OF ALL.

See Medical Properties contained in Dispensary of the U. S., of which the following is a correct copy:

"Buchu—Its odor is strong, diffusive and somewhat aromatic, its taste bitterish, and analogous to that of mint. It is given chiefly in complaints of the Urinary Organs, such as Gravel, Chronic Catarrh of the Bladder, Morbid Irritation of the Bladder and Urethra, Diseases of the Prostate, and Retention or the Incontinence of Urine, from a loss of tone in the parts concerned in its evacuation. It has also been recommended in Dyspepsia, Chronic Rheumatism, Cutaneous Affections and Dropsy."

For the Patriot.

LIBERTY AND UNION.

The following lines were written a year ago on the Anniversary of our National Independence by a "Veteran Volunteer," then in the army—

All hail our Union free!

From treason foul, and slavery,

On this our natal day!

Henceforth our flag shall wave,

O'er noble patriot graves

In triumph, where no slave

Shall e'er be found!

Look back to days of yore,

On far Carolina's shore,

Where traitor's gun

Dared in vindictive scorn

To hurl defiance long

To freedom, true and strong,

And for the right.

A call to arms proclaimed,

And quick response was framed,

In martial might—

True loyal sons and brave,

Who would their Union save,

(Or fill a freeman's grave—)

From slavery's blight.

The conflict long did rage

From North to Southern wave

A principle to gain—

And shot and shell there crashed,

'Mid smoke and cannon's flash

From batteries which were massed

On treason's plain.

A proclamation true and grand

Emancipating o'er our land

The despots' slave,

Who had (the end attained) in view,

And which true freedom ne'er shall rue

From Freedom's native land.

Thank God the night of treason's past,

'Mid Peace and Union dawned at last

On our Republic grand!

LONG LIVE our stars and stripes—

In triumph free!

And what a fall was there and then,

When slavery passed beyond the ken

Of human vision.

Then fell our leader, noble, grand,

Selected Poetry.

SHE DIDN'T CARE.

I saw her in the crowded car,
I never saw her more,
She didn't seem to care a fig,
If I sat on the floor.
For with one look she lifted me—
My place she occupied,
Then spread her skirts o'er two or three
More seats on either side.
Another look—I passed her face
And passed her back the change;
She took it from my hand—I thought—
As if I had the change.
She looked—"Just ring that bell, I say,"
Could I that look refuse?
She calmly rose and picked her way
Among the boots and shoes.
I watched till she the corner turned,
And then with some chagrin Vowed to myself, "May I be hanged
If I do that again."

Farmers' Department.

REMOVING LARGE ROCKS

The best and cheapest method of removing out of the way rocks that are too heavy to be drawn with a team, is to bury them. We have, in the course of our farming, put several out of sight this way, and we consider it a very satisfactory job. In doing this work, one should consider well two things. First, dig the hole large and deep enough to bury the stone at least twenty inches under the surface. Somebody may want to subside there, sometime, and if it were left near the surface the subside plough would be very likely to strike on a rock. Second, if the rock be on the brow of a hill, it should be buried much deeper, as the slow movement of the soil by the plough and the rain brings it gradually to the surface again.

Make up your mind that you will no longer plough and harrow, now and then, around or over those great rocks. If they are in a pasture lot they do very well to salt the cattle on, providing there are no Canada thistles; we should give the latter the preference in salting—but in cultivated fields the rocks are a nuisance which should and can be abated.—Rural New Yorker.

LET HORSES REST OCCASIONALLY.

We know a physician, in large practice, who is frequently compelled to drive his horses hard. He formerly drove the two together, and used them up in a few years. He now drives them singly, and as far as possible on alternate days. They are now, though working hard, invariably healthy and strong. He attributes this to the fact that if a hard drive strains any of the muscles they have time to regain their tone the next day. Were the horses driven every day, a slight strain would produce a little stiffness; inflammation would set in, and the horse be lame—perhaps incurably so. Farm horses are not so liable to injury in this respect, as those driven fast over hard roads. But a day's rest occasionally will help them materially. At all events do not work them Sundays. Man and beast must rest one day in seven, or pay the penalty. Better work harder and rest longer.—Am. Agriculturist.

M. J. E. Bean, of Mt. Vernon, realized from one Baldwin apple tree, last year, the snug little sum of $68.50. We reckon he kept the caterpillars off.

From the fact that plum trees grow best near salt marshes, some fruit growers have taken the hint to shelter their trees with salt water. We recently saw some trees in North Weymouth that had been thus treated which were so very thrifty as to attract much notice.

Anecdotes.

"If you had avoided rum," said a wealthy though not intelligent grocer to his intemperate neighbor, "your early habits, industry and intellectual abilities would have permitted you to ride in your carriage."
"And if you had never sold rum for me to buy," replied the bacchanal, "you would have been my driver."

Two Irishmen in crossing a field came in contact with a donkey who was making "day idious" with his uncouthly braying. Jimmy stood a moment in astonishment; but turning to Pat who seemed as much enraptured with the sound as himself, remarked: "It's a fine ear that bird has for music, Pat, but sure he's got an awful cowl."

A young lady seventeen years of age attempted to commit suicide, by drowning recently in Paris; her sweetheart had forsaken her. The first words she uttered when she recovered her senses, were: "Mon Dieu! how cold the Seine is!" The boatman who rescued her stood near and exclaimed: "Ah! my little darling it has nobody to warm its bed."

A fashionable visitor thus addressed a little girl:
"How are you, my dear?"
"Very well, I thank you," she replied.

The visitor then added, "Now, my dear, you should ask me how I am."
"The child simply and honestly replied, "I don't want to know."

Aunt Betsy tells a story of one of her neighbors, who she lived in the country, who was "meener than parsley." "Why," she says, "whenever he had to get hold of a half a dollar he would give it such a squeeze that the poor eagle would squeal out."

FIRE! FIRE!

$200 REWARD!

WHEREAS a certain barn belonging to the Estate of the late Solomon Nightingale, of this Town, has recently been destroyed by fire, and as there can be no doubt that it was the work of an incendiary, the above reward will be paid to any person that will give such information as will convict the person or persons who set said fire.
And the above reward will also be paid to any person who shall detect any one setting fire to any building of the value of Two Hundred dollars, within the Town, until the first day of March next, on conviction of the offender.

Cholera Mixture.

C. C. JOHNSON would inform the Public,
that he has, by the influence of a friend,
through the German Consul, a prescription of
Dr. Schroder, of Germany, for the cure of the Cholera, which has used it with the greatest success in more than seven thousand cases.

Dr. Schroder says, "I have seen the Cholera in all its forms, and none of them are so dangerous as the one which is now prevailing. It is a disease of the bowels, and is caused by the use of impure water, and is attended by vomiting, and diarrhea, and is fatal in a few hours. I have used this mixture with perfect success when the patient has been seen early."

Dr. Cox of New York, when the Cholera
was rife there, said, "If a person has a diarrhea, he already has the Cholera, and a remedy should be administered immediately, not wait until he is seized with those dreadful cramps in his arms and legs, which soon hurry
him into the collapse stage when remedies are
of no avail."

All persons who go into the country or to the seashore should avail themselves of this mixture, when they will have the satisfaction
of knowing that in case they should be afflicted
with diarrhea, that they have a remedy on hand to cure them.

Poetry.
For the Patriot.
SERENADE.

Why should I wake thee, fair maiden from sleep?
Where angels have borne thee, ne'er dost thou weep,
Beings celestial thy pure spirit greet,
Companions alone for thy purity meet,
Heaven's soft melody falls on thine ear,
Why should I wake thee, earth's music to hear.

Sleep, maiden sleep, for where thou art now,
No sorrow of gloom, can darken thy brow,
Sleep, maiden sleep, to-morrow's bright beams, Shall call thee two soon from thy beautiful dreams.

When thy mission on earth, fair maiden is o'er,
Earth's light and its voices shall wake thee no more.

PURITY OF FEELING. A life of duty is the only cheerful life—for all joy springs from the affection; and it is the great law of nature, that without good deeds, all good affection dies, and the heart becomes utterly desolate. The external world then loses all its beauty; poetry fades away from the earth; for what is poetry, but the reflection of all pure and sweet, all high and holy thoughts?

THE FALLEN BRIDGE.

"I am sorry for you Mrs. Hall, said the landlord. "I would give you your rent if I felt able; but you know I have a family to support, and you know it would not be doing right by them."

"Give me three days, Mr. Jones," said the widow, "and something may turn up during that time which may enable me to pay you."

The landlord reluctantly assented and left the widow alone with her two children. It was scarcely a year since she lost her husband. His income had been small, and beyond a hundred dollars and the furniture, he had left his wife nothing.
Yet her sewing, and what odd jobs her son Henry could obtain she had been enabled to get along and keep her children at school. Her heaviest expense had been the rent, which, however, she was enabled to pay out of the hundred dollars above mentioned.

At the commencement of the second year, however, she had no reserve funds and found herself quite unable to meet the rent at the end of the first quarter.

After the landlord went out, she gave way for a moment to depression.

"I am afraid," she said, "that we shall have to leave this house. It has been our home so long that it will be very painful;
besides I don't know where we shall go."

"God will provide for us in some way, mother," said Jane, the youngest child.
That is what you have told me so often."

"And I had nearly forgotten it myself," said her mother, taking fresh courage.

"Yes, God will provide; we will not suffer ourselves to despair."

"To-day is Saturday," said Henry,
"and as school don't keep, I mean to go out and see if I can't find something to do.
Farmer Terry told me that perhaps he might give me a job at raking hay."

"Do so, Henry; I hope you will succeed, for with us, every little helps."

Henry, who was a stout and handsome boy of twelve, immediately took down his clothes from the nail where he usually hung it, and made his way across the field toward the Terry Farm.

The distance was about a mile, and the route by which he went took him across the railroad track. The point at which he crossed was about a mile from the station, and just above the bridge, a hundred feet in length, over which the cars passed. He glanced in the direction of the bridge, as he crossed the railroad.

"Why," he exclaimed to himself, "I believe the bridge has given way."

Running to the spot he found his suspicions correct. The bridge, whether it was badly constructed, or from some other cause not apparent, had partly given away, and must inevitably have caused the destruction of any train that should attempt to cross it. That many lives must be lost in this event was certain, since the ravine spanned by the bridge was some fifty feet deep. The thought fairly took away Henry's breath.

"What shall I do?" thought the bewildered boy. "Shall I have time to get up to the station before the next train gets along? No, that is impossible, for it is about time for the train now."

As if to verify his last assertion, he could just begin to hear faintly the sound of the approaching train.

"I must save it if I can," thought he.
After a brief thought, he ran along the track in the direction of the advancing cars.

As he ran he waved his hat and threw up his hands, and in every possible way endeavoring to attract the attention of the engineer. Apparently he did not see him, but supposing it was merely boy's fun, took no notice of it.

"There is only one thing I can do," thought Henry, and he proceeded to do it.

Placing himself between the rails, he continued the same demonstrations.

"They'll stop rather than run over me," he thought, yet the feeling of his own personal danger, in case they should fail to think him in earnest, blanched his cheek.

"Never mind," said he resolutely, "better risk my own life than let so many perish without warning."

Of course all this took place in much less time than I have taken to record it.

Will the reader picture to himself the terrible situation in which our hero stood—in the way of a train travelling at the rate of twenty-five miles an hour, waving his hat frantically, and exposed to the hazard of not being able to get out of the way in case he failed to succeed in stopping the train. It was indeed a time to test the courage of the boy hero. But he maintained his ground firmly.

Meanwhile the engineer perceived him.
Even at this time he supposed it was done in foolish bravado.

"The little fool," he muttered. "We shall be compelled to stop or run over him."

He hastily issued an order to stop the train. It was done just in time; they were only two rods distant from the boy.

"Now, you little rascal," exclaimed the angry engineer. "What do you mean by risking your foolish life, and putting us to this trouble?"

Henry pointed mutely to the broken bridge, and then, overcome by the excitement through which he had passed, he sank back, fainting. His motion was understood.

"Good heaven!" exclaimed the engineer, "We have been saved from a terrible fate!"

With remorseless eagerness he now devoted himself to the task of restoring the fainting boy—and when he had opened his eyes, asked his pardon for the rude unkindness.

"Is the train safe," asked Henry cagerly.

"Entirely so—thanks to your noble conduct, my little hero."

Henry found himself in the centre of a group of passengers, who were profoundly shocked at the danger from which they had just escaped.

"Gentlemen," said one of the number,
a fine looking man, calling them aside, you perceive how narrow has been our escape; and you must be aware it is solely owing to the courage of this noble little fellow. He has displayed a degree of nerve which I doubt whether any one of us is capable of. I believe I shall only meet the wishes of many present when I suggest that nothing could be more fitting than a pecuniary testimonial of our gratitude."

So saying, he took of his hat and dropped a ten dollar gold piece into it. His example was speedily and eagerly followed.
It chanced that the train was a very long one and contained an unusual amount of the contribution which was taken up.

points, upon which many husbands are unreasonably "touchy" even while secretly admiring the pleasant results of the vigilance of the good house mother.

The Quincy Patriot.

SATURDAY, JULY 21, 1866.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We."

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING. The fine shower on Wednesday afternoon, which was much needed, was accompanied by hoarse winds, sharp lightning and heavy thunder, sharper and heavier than we have experienced for many years. The old toll-house at Quincy Point occupied by Mr. George F. Cleary was struck but not badly damaged. Mrs. Cleary and Mrs. Wm. R. Brown, who were in the house at the frightful moment, were stunned, but by medical aid, were restored. We learn that two barns in Hingham belonging to Mr. Samuel Littlefield were destroyed; also a house in North Weymouth was struck. Several large limbs were blown from the trees in our village by the wind, but no one seriously injured.

BASE BALL. There will be a match game of base ball played in this town, on Saturday afternoon next the 28th inst., between the Actives (formerly the Grannies) and the Mechanics. It will be played on the piece of land front of the South Quincy Depot. The Actives we understand are the challengers. Both clubs are of this town.

ACCIDENT. Maurice Fitzgerald of Weymouth, employed on Monday last, in wheeling coal at the wharf of Messrs. Ebenezer Adams & Son, at Quincy Point, fell from the staging, and was very badly bruised; although it is thought no bones were broken.

THE HOTTEST YET. In Commercial Street, on Tuesday last, the thermometer stood at 96 in a pail of ice water. So Phillips says, and he is good authority.—Boston Commercial.

SLIGHT FIRE. As the 1-15 inward train passed through Neponset on Tuesday afternoon, a spark from the engine set the roof of L. Pratt & Co's office on fire; but it was discovered just in time to save the building.

HOT WEATHER. The thermometer ranged here on Monday, at 101 degrees in the shade. It was trying to the feelings, and had a dissolving influence, even upon the most frigid temperaments. But thanks to Mr. Perry's great hydraulic dispensary, and a turn in affairs, the fiery ordeal was passed unharmed. In Boston and elsewhere the heat was also intense; in some places we noticed it was rated as high as 102; the cause of many strokes and sudden deaths. The change, therefore, which came over the scene, on Wednesday evening, was most acceptable; a gentle shower from the west, accompanied with lightning and thunder, cooled our dusty streets and purified the air.

The day was also made memorable in other sections of the country for its extreme heat. In New York it was said to be the hottest day ever known in that city. The thermometer stood at 104 in the shade. There were forty-three cases of sunstroke, twenty-three of which proved fatal. There were nine fatal cases out of sixteen in Brooklyn. In Baltimore, also, the heat was insufferable; 30 deaths were reported there by sunstroke.

FIRE IN WEYMOUTH. A large barn in South Weymouth was destroyed on Monday night last, together with twelve tons of hay, six head of cattle, one horse, and a quantity of agricultural implements, belonging to Mr. Thomas Nash. It was partly insured.

SEVANTS. Hired help appears to be one of the greatest evils in a household. Those who have never been obliged to have the "plagues" in their homes, know not the trials and vexations constantly attending hired girls. We are sorry to say that many who go out to live have at least one, and generally quite a number of very bad failings. The first and foremost is that of lying; which is frequently accompanied by stealing. An instance of this kind has occurred the past week, on Washington street. The girl took five dollars, and foolishly spent the money for dress; which soon led the fact out that she had stolen the money. No action has as yet been taken in regard to the matter, but it is not the first offence of the same kind the girl has committed we think the law should help settle the matter.

FATAL ACCIDENT. On Monday last, a wagon loaded with five tons of granite from this town, and drawn by five horses met with a fearful accident. The wheels were chained together to check the slide in descending Milton hill, but the chains separated, and the heavy load brought the shaft horse, together with the driver, Mr. Connelly, who had the horse by the head, to the ground and the team passed over both horse and man, instantly killing the former, and injuring the man so terribly that he lived only a few hours. Such was the force with which the team went that the horse which fell was completely torn from his harness and terribly crushed. The remaining horses in their fright managed to keep clear of the team, although attached to it, and went at a fearful rate through the village, and were only stopped by the hill on the Dorchester side of the river.

A STEAMER FOR DORCHESTER. The Dorchester authorities have ordered a steam fire engine of Hunneman & Co. engine builders, Roxbury. If any of the "fallen angels" who are in the habit of setting fires come within range of the steam squirt, they will surely get their wings damped.—Roxbury Gazette.

TOWN TALK.

A pleasant summer residence is our healthy town, as the people who come out in larger numbers every year emphatically declare.

And Quincy is waking up from her long lethargy to a sense of her importance. She is waking up in the matter of road making. Profiting by her failures; learning a salutary lesson from that sorry botch she made of it a while ago between the Stone Church and Mr. Porter's, where a quarter of the street is a ditch, and the rest a charming succession of hills and valleys. She has absolutely done some not wholly disreputable work in this line, and may fairly hope to have not many years hence, roads as solid and enduring as those which wise old Solomon Willard constructed in the West District, so long ago.

Some of her citizens have interested themselves in a watering-cart, wherewith they occasionally sprinkle the surface of the dust, which does not lift itself again for full five minutes after the machine has passed over it. So that after a few more experiments we may reasonably expect to have our principal streets watered.

She boasts a line of horse-cars—which really do make good time—run at reasonable rates, and keep themselves very comfortable in winter with stoves.

She possesses a gas company, which after six or eight years of existence has made its way into one or two churches, and a score or so of the houses. And I understand that the dear old town is beginning to find out that she can't see on dark nights, and is slowly working herself up to the point of erecting one lamp post in each district, in addition to the one which diffuses so brilliant a light throughout the principal square.

But the glory and pride of Quincy is her Town Clock! It has four faces, which always differ each from the other, and all from the chronometer time. Such an arrangement obviously has its inconveniences; but it is nevertheless not without its advantages—as will appear from the following conversation which took place the other day between a stranger just arrived in town, and a small boy whom he met in the tavern yard.

Stranger. My fine fellow can you give me the true time, my watch has run down?

Small Boy. Yes sir. Have you pencil and paper about you?

Stranger. Yes.

S. Boy. Come here then, please, in front of the Town Hall. You see that face of the clock?

Stranger. Yes.

S. Boy. What time does it give you?

Stranger. Twenty minutes past four.

S. Boy. Set that down. Now come round to the north side,—quick, if you please. (Stranger and boy trot round.)

Now what time is it?

Stranger. 4-27.

S. Boy. Put that down too.

And so they visit successively the east and south sides,—and find the time to be 4-19 by the one, and 4-35 by the other.

S. Boy. Now add up and give me the amount.

Stranger. (After cyphering awhile)—the amount is 17 hours and 41 minutes.

S. Boy. Divide by four.

Stranger. Which gives 4 hours, 23 minutes and 15 seconds.

S. Boy. Twenty-five minutes and a quarter after four. And that's the true time, as sure as you're alive.

Stranger. That's the way you do it, then?

S. Boy. Yes, that's the way they do it. That is, the Selectmen and most of the big boys. You may see them doing the double quick round the church at any time between daybreak and dark. They used to crawl in by the gas-hole, and figure out their sums in the cool of the cellar, but the hole's stopped up now.—Common folks go to Holden's chronometer; but as Emperor Napoleon says, what's the use of having a town clock, if you don't use it?

Here the boy's mother called out to him: "Tom, Tom, go and take Sally off the tail of that pesky watering cart!" and the stranger went on his way in a fit of terrible musing.

OBSERVER.

VETO OF THE FREEDMAN'S BUREAU BILL. The President on Monday returned the Bill with his objections, which were substantially the same as on a former occasion. It is then taken up for an instance of this kind has occurred the past week, on Washington street. The girl took five dollars, and foolishly spent the money for dress; which soon led the fact out that she had stolen the money. No action has as yet been taken in regard to the matter, but it is not the first offence of the same kind the girl has committed we think the law should help settle the matter.

THE GERMAN WAR. There has been some pretty hard fighting between the belligerents—and Prussia thus far claims the victory. The three day's battle, in Bohemia, which commenced on the 27th ult., between the Prussians and Austrians is said to have been most disastrous to the latter; their loss is put down at twenty thousand in killed and wounded, and fifteen thousand prisoners. Peace is now talked of. It is thought France will offer her mediation.

Later advices state that Prussia is still pushing her conquests, and refuses to listen to an armistice, preferring to fight it out, and settle the difficulties, which led to the conflict, by the arbitration of the sword.

There is a certain town in the State of Vermont which has four churches in the village. Only one of these has a bell, but inasmuch as the other denominations refuse to assist in paying for the ringing of it, the owners of the bell will not allow it to be rung at all.

The burnt district in Portland has been accurately surveyed and found to cover an area of three hundred and twenty-seven acres.

THE CROPS. The Agricultural Bureau at Washington, has received information, showing that the crops throughout the country are in a better condition than had been anticipated. An average yield is now safely calculated on. Speculators will find no cause here to keep up high prices.

AMONG THE MOUNTAINS.

PROFILE HOUSE, JULY 16, 1866.

Just returned in safety from the Flume,—albeit one of our party has a broken shoulder and two other lesser injuries, but no fault of theirs.—I sit down to speak briefly of the celebrities of the place. After sixty or seventy miles ride in an open buggy through other parts of this Alpine Paradise, I came this morning to this home of the "Old Man of the Mountains," whose "Full human profile,—nose and chin distinct, Mouth, muttering rhythms of silence up the sky, And fed at evening with the blood of suns,"—meets the eye of the tourist "as if a mighty angel were sitting among the hills and enrobing himself in a cloud vesture of gold and purple."

The artist who took a stereoscopic view of our party at the Flume, affirms that this is the hottest day here for five years; but we had no reason to complain while there, for the high mural precipices shut out the sunlight, and the cool cascades ever give an evening dampness to the air. Familiar with the place through the exquisite views of Kilburn Brothers, I had high expectations, nor were they disappointed. The same may be said of the Basin and Pool; of the latter we can only say, that it is a deep, natural well, scooped out of the mountain, a hundred and fifty feet broad, with forty feet or more of water, over which in two, rough boats, an old man paddles you for a couple of dimes. This "Artic Philosopher," as he is termed, gives a lecture without additional charge, in which he affirms that the earth is hollow and inhabited, and that the North Pole is deranged "by the scintillations of the hyperborean Aurora Borealis which have shaken the bark of Sir John Franklin from the outside into the inside of the Pole."

Whether our good boatman is deranged or never properly ar-ranged, or whether his transcendental prognostications are a shrewd money-getting scheme, we leave to others to decide. We have gladly added to our set of views Kilburn's stereoscopic picture of John Merrill, sitting in his boat near the foot of the mountain cascade which pours into and fills the Pool. The old man kindly offered as I left, to send me, if it was wished, a fuller elucidation of his wonderful theory of creation and "re-construction."

The distant thunders that roll through the Notch promise a shower, a welcome visitor to-day. Wednesday I hope to reach Crawford's, whence by bridle-path our party reaches the summit of Mount Washington, from which we gain, if fair, a prospect which must be seen to be fully realized; embracing, as Ruskin says, "these great cathedrals of the earth, with their gates of rock, pavements of cloud, choirs of stream and stone, altars of snow, and vaults of purple, traversed by the continual stars." The trip to the Willey House, Mount Willard and neighboring localities will consume two days more, and then slowly our reluctant steps retire, passing down the valley of the Androscoggin till we reach Chandler's in the charming town of Bethel, than which the weary traveller can ask no more lovely retreat in which to spend a quiet Sabbath. At least, memory so tells us. MERLIN.

THE GREAT EASTERN was spoken with on the 4th inst., ten miles east of Fastnell,—on the 7th, the shore end of the cable was successfully laid; and ere this, the great work of safely planting the other end on this Continent, no doubt, has commenced.

SCHOOL VACATION. The usual six weeks vacation of our public schools commences on Monday next.

GENERAL SHERMAN'S MOVEMENTS. General Sherman arrived in Boston, on Friday last week, and was made the lion of the day; his reception was most enthusiastic. His next visit was to Portsmouth, (N. H.) where the welcome was equally gratifying. On Tuesday, he was the guest of the citizens of Concord,—from whence he was to proceed direct to Hanover, to be present at the annual Commencement of the College at that place, on Thursday.

PORTLAND.

JULY 18, 1866.

To the Publisher of the Patriot.

I did think of giving your readers some account of the great fire which occurred at Portland on the 4th inst., but after an extended examination of the ruins, I am sickened at the prospect, and leave my description of the scene as a thing utterly impossible. Much has been written about the fire,—nothing, however, exaggerating its extent. In former years, I have been familiar with the streets of Portland, but this morning I am lost, where I once walked with so much delight. Now and then the remains of a once beautiful walk will open to view, and a favorite plant which escaped the blast, will tell where was asplendid garden. I saw a lady watering such a plant, amid the debris. It was all that remained of a once happy home. How tenderly did she care for that dear little relic.

You have read of the extent of the fire, the extreme suffering, and great want of the people. I am gratified with the system which prevails in the distribution of benefactions, which a sympathizing country have bestowed upon the needy here. It makes one proud of his country to know we have so many friends so near, and yet so far. California, like Massachusetts, is generous in bestowing aid upon the sufferers; and our private contributions, however humble, will bless the giver, as well as him who receives. Let contributions for the homeless children in Portland still go on; no foreign want is more pressing. M. C. A.

The Band will play this evening, of pleasant, in front of Goodnow's Building.

Petroleum has been discovered near West Bridgewater.

RETURNED. Two of our Quincy Boys, Gardner Penman, of the army, and Isaac N. Forrester, of the navy, both reached their homes one day last week. Mr. F. is well known to our readers from his interesting letters from the seat of war, while the battle was fiercely raging, which appeared in our columns occasionally under the signature of "BLUE JACKET." They have served their country long and faithfully, and fought gallantly to uphold the old flag, and may they now sit down under its folds in an everlasting peace.

Over five millions of dollars have been already expended in attempting to span the Atlantic ocean with a telegraph wire.

The soil in parts of Tennessee swarms with locusts, and in the woods swine are busy rooting up the ground in search of them.

Summary Intelligence.

Papers in the interior of Pennsylvania represent the grass crop this month as the largest ever gathered.

France produces on her own soil more sugar than her own people consume.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has decided that a tax of ten per cent. on the notes of the State Banks, paid out after July 1st, 1866, although not actually repealed, will not be collected for the current month, as it was undoubtedly the intention of Congress that it should not take effect until August.

As one of the results of the war it may be stated that there are at the present time in the United States no less than twenty-five manufacturing of artificial legs.

It is said that the light of the Portland conflagration was seen at Bethel, seventy miles distant.

LINES.

On the death of AMANDA JOHNSON.

In the graveyard sweetly sleeping,
Lies our dear Amanda now;
With the myrtle and the rosebud,
Twined around her lovely brow.

Like the summer rose she faded—
Bloomed and withered in a day;
Then the angels came and bore her
To a home not far away.

To a home just o'er the river,
Where she oft can visit here;
Ever bringing some fresh token,
To her friends she loved so dear.

Father! mother! she is saying,
Do not think your daughter's dead,
For I now am standing near you,
With a wreath to crown your head.

They are made of flowers immortal,
That can never fade away;
And the gentle dew of Heaven
Will fall upon them every day.

Do not think my chair is vacant
When the evening shades appear,
For 'tis then I'll sit beside you,
Whispering to you words of cheer.

Dearest sister, cease to grieve thee,
For I oft will bathe your brow
With the tears of sweet affection,
Which for me you're shedding now.

Brother dear, your angel sister
Sittsly whispers in your ear,
I shall guide your footsteps ever,
So dear brother do not fear.

Father, mother, sister, brother,
You will meet me with me again,
In a world where all is peace,
And where we shall feel no pain.

Selected Poetry.

THE FARMER.

Of parents by man invented,
The Farmer is the most contented;
His calling good, his profit high,
And on his labors all rely.

Mechanics all by him are fed,
Of him the merchants seek their bread;
His hands give meat to every thing,
Up from the beggar to the king.

The milk and honey, corn and wheat,
Are by his labors made complete.
Our clothes must first from him arise,
To deck the fop and dress the wise.

We then by vote may justly state,
The Ploughman ranks among the great,
More independent than are all
That dwell upon this earthly ball.

All hail ye Farmers, young and old,
Push on your plow with courage bold,
Your wealth arises from your clod,
Your independence from your God.

If then the plough supports the Nation,
And men of every rank and station,
Let kings to farmers make a bow,
And every man procure a plow.

Farmers' Department.

PAYING IMPROVEMENTS.

I could recall instances where farmers went ahead with improvements, without counting the cost, till it took the farms to pay for them. Improvements are a nice thing, if one has the ready cash to make them; if not, beware of the temptation. Only those should be made, at first, that will return the outlay again. Farming should be conducted on business principles. If a merchant is not able to own a store, he rents one. If a farmer has not money to erect new buildings, he had better get along with his old ones. If a merchant invests money, he expects to get it all back, and more too. If a farmer buys manure or Merino sheep, he should see that they are so used that they return the original cost and a profit. If a farmer lays out money in ditching, he should do it where two or three crops will pay it back with interest.

A little learning, in agricultural science, is a dangerous thing, if it is not balanced with good judgment. I remember a farmer who owned some hills, or rather he was in debt for some. The soil was a sandy loam, except the crests of the hills, where they were clay—the top soil having washed down. It was well enough, perhaps a wise provision of Nature, our Scientific Editor might call it—to make the difficult hill-tops poor, and the crops lighter thereon, and the valleys rich, and the crops heavy in them, so that the honest farmer could gather the reward of his labor without toiling up the steep hill-sides. But our farmer had read of the advantages of under-draining, and among them that the land would not wash, and the water would sink in the drains, and not flow from the surface. So he dug ditches up the dry hill-sides, and opened the clay crests, and put tile in them. Did the heavy thunder showers hereafter linger on the sharp hard pinnacles, and sink gently down to the artificial channels? Not a bit. In its wrath the water tore up the earth deeper than the drains and sent the little tiles in a heap to the bottom.

I could moralize further on the foolishness of squandering money in enterprises that are scarcely begun or they are abandoned for something more enticing, or from a fear that they will not prove profitable; but it recalls disagreeable recollections, and I quit.—Chiel in Rural New Yorker.

GOOD BUTTER vs. FOUL CELLARS.
Good butter can't be made in foul cellars. Nothing receives a taint more easily than butter. It becomes infected readily by offensive odors. Much sweeter, better butter is made in spring houses than in cellars. Decayed cabbages, turnips, etc., in a cellar, do not impart any virtues to butter, but deteriorate it badly. Good butter is one of the great luxuries of the table; and nothing but the most scrupulous care and neatness will secure it. Early in Spring give the cellar a thorough cleansing, and scrubbing if you please—then whitewash it from top to bottom. A little lime scattered about in heaps is also beneficial. Have an opportunity to ventilate cool nights and mornings. But be able to close tight in warm weather. Shut in the cool air and give it no chance to escape. Then if you will seal your pans and crocks and buckets with boiling water daily, and use the proper skill and care, you can make and pack butter that it will be a pleasure to eat.—Rural World.

Anecdotes.

A silly young boy was complaining to a testy old uncle that nobody treated him with any respect—that the crowd squeezed him when he went out to walk, and requested his uncle to tell him how he could command more consideration when he wished to promenade in Broadway.

"Carry a pot of paint in each hand," said the testy old curmudgeon.

"Miss Jones, what is the meaning of suburbs?"

Governor (who was extensively crinoline). The outskirts of a place, my dear Pupil, (seizing Miss J. by the dress). Then, Miss Jones, are these your suburbs?

"Did I not give you a flogging the other day?" said a schoolmaster to a trembling urchin.

"Yes sir," answered the boy.

"Well, what does the Scriptures say upon the subject?"

"I don't know sir," said the youth, "except it is that passage which says, 'if it more blessed to give than to receive.'"

HYPOPHOSPHITES

THE SPECIFIC REMEDY FOR CONSUMPTION, NERVOUS DEBILITY, AND ALL DISORDERS OF THE LUNGS, NERVOUS AND BLOOD SYSTEMS.

The success of the HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past ten years, in the cure of that great scourge of the race, Consumption, is "unparalleled in the annals of medicine." This new and thoroughly Scientific Remedy acts with invincible efficacy in all stages of tubercular disease. It cures the cough, checks the perspiration, subdues the chills and fever, diminishes the expectoration, and promotes refreshing sleep. ALL THE GENERAL SYMPTOMS DISAPPEAR WITH A RAPIDITY AND EASE UNPARALLELED.

Its beneficial effects are equally prompt and certain in all derangements of the Nervous and Blood Systems—being unopposed as a Nervous Tonic, and generator of new and healthy blood; while for cases of General Debility, Loss of Strength, Flesh, and Appetite, Dyspepsia, Neuralgia, Paralysis, Chronic Bronchitis, Asthma, Scrophulous, Chronic Diarrhea, it is the most efficacious treatment known. A fair trial is a most certain cure. (Circulars free.)

Prices:—In 7 oz. and 16 oz. bottles, $1 and $2 each. 6 small, or 2 large bottles for $5 by Express, sent by mail on receipt of the price, and at the sole general depot, wholesale and retail, by J. WINCHESTER & CO., 36 John Street, N. Y.

A PROMPT AND CERTAIN REMEDY FOR

Spermatorrhea, or Seminal Weakness, or Involuntary Nightly or Daily Loss, however caused, or however severe; while they will speedily correct all morbid humors, arising from the original disease or from Secret Vice.

THE SPECIFIC FILL is equally suited to the treatment of every species of Gravel, or Urinary Irritability, "Lime," or "Buckshot," deposits in the Urine, "Milky" discharges and Weakness of the Kidneys.

PROFESSIONAL OPINIONS.—"I have used your SPECIFIC FILL in many cases of Spermatorrhea with the most perfect success."—J. MILTON SADDERS, M. D., L. L. D.

"I have cured very severe cases with from six to twelve of your SPECIFIC FILL." E. KEITH, M. D.

THE GOLDEN

REMEDY

AN INFALLIBLE

Neutralizer of All Superfluous Poisons or Pimples.

This is one of the grandest discoveries in medical science of which the present century can boast. IT INSTANTLY NEUTRALIZES, DESTROYS AND REMOVES PERFECTLY HARMLESS ERYTHEMAS, OR POISONOUS OR INFECTIONOUS VIRUS affecting either the external skin or the internal mucous membranes.

The Location, Character or Name of the disorder is of no importance, so that it can be reached by WASHING, GARGLING OR INJECTING. THE GOLDEN TABLET is a sovereign remedy for Eczema, Salt Rheum, Itch, Pimples, Boils, and all other cutaneous eruptions; the poisons of Oak, Ivy, Sumach, bites of Venomous Insects; Piles in all their forms; Sore Lips, Sore Eyes, Sore Nipples, Old Sores, Catarrh, Ulcerated Throat, Diphtheria in its first stages; FEMALE WEAKNESSES OF EVERY KIND—in short, for every species of Inflammation or Venereal Eruptions, and Ulcers of the Internal Mucous Membrane or External Skin. Communications confidential, and advice gratis.

IS, from its MANY BENEFICIAL Effects, a most valuable remedy for WOMEN'S BEST FRIEND, AND MAN'S SUREST SAFEGUARD. Every agent of both sexes will find it INDISPENSIBLE TO THEM, as well as better understood from a personal use of the CIRCULAR, which is sent free to all. Irritation almost instantly Allayed in every instance.

Price: $1 per box; six boxes for $5, by mail. Sold only at the General Depot of "WINCHESTER'S HYPOPHOSPHITES," (For Consumption and Nervous Debility,) by the Sole Agent, J. WINCHESTER & CO., 36 John Street, N. Y.

HELMHOLD'S BUCHU.

THE ONLY KNOWN REMEDY FOR

DIABETES,

IRRITATION OF THE NECK OF THE

BLADDER, INFLAMMATION OF THE

KIDNEYS, CATARRH OF THE

BLADDER, STRANGURY OR

PAINFUL URINATING.

Are you troubled with that distressing pain in the small of the back and through the hips? A teaspoonful of a Helmhold's Buchu will relieve you.

Physicians and Others

PLEASE NOTICE.

I make no secret of ingredients. Helmhold's Extract Buchu is composed of Buchu, Coleus and Juniper Berries, selected with great care, prepared in taste and according to rules of

PHARMACY AND CHEMISTRY.

These ingredients are known as the most valuable Diuretics afforded.

A DIURETIC

Is that which acts upon the kidneys.

Helmhold's Extract Buchu

ACTS GENTLY.

Is pleasant in taste and odor, free from all injurious properties, and immediate in its actions.

FOR THE SATISFACTION OF ALL.

See Medical Properties contained in Dispensatory of the U. S., of which the following is a correct copy:

"Buchu.—Its odor is strong, diffusive and somewhat aromatic; its taste bitterish, and analogous to that of mint. It is given chiefly in complaints of the Urinary Organs, such as Gravel, Chronic Catarrh of the Bladder, Morbid Irritation of the Bladder and Uterus, Diseases of the Prostate, and Retention or the Incontinence of Urine, from a loss of tone in the part concerned in its evacuation. It has also been recommended in Dyspepsia, Chronic Rheumatism, Cutaneous Affections and Dropsy."

Truly yours, JOHN T. RHODES.

Cholera Mixture.
C. C. JOHNSON would inform the Public,
that he has, by the influence of a friend,
through the German Consul, a prescription of
Dr. Schroder, of Germany, for the cure of the Cholera, who has used it with the greatest
success in more than seven thousand cases.
Dr. Schroder says, "I have seen the Cholera in all its forms, and seen the effect of ice, alcohol, opium, &c., and none of them are to be relied upon. I have used this mixture
with perfect success when the patient has been seen early."
All persons who go into the country or to the seashore should take this mixture, when they will have the satisfaction of knowing that in case they should be afflicted with cholera, that they have a remedy on hand to cure them.

Poetry.
For the Patriot.
LIEUT. GENERAL SCOTT.
BY F. M. ADLINGTON—WEYMOUTH.
At last to his rest the old soldier has gone,
Yet will we remember the deeds he has done;
The voice of his country he ever obeyed,
And baffled the foe when he ever arrayed.
A model for soldiers, for statesmen, and those Who would be respected by friends and by foes;
Efficient, plain hearted, and honest in grain,
His 'scutcheon unclouded and free from a stain.
In morals a Christian, in honor a man,
In courage a hero—the first in the van;
Successful in treaties, and victor in war,
He bears for his country the time honor'd scar.
The land he protected his worth will attest,
And garland with laurels the place of his rest;
Nor e'er shall his merit or name be forgot.
E'en time cannot conquer thee—brave-hearted
Scott.

Miscellany.
THE ONE-EYED SERVANT.
Do you see those two pretty cottages on opposite sides of the common? How bright their windows are, and how pretty the vines trail over them. A year ago one of them was the dirtiest and most forlorn looking place you can imagine, and its inhabitants the most wretched.
"Only think," said Bella, almost ready to cry with vexation, "and I've not got a soul to do any thing for me; how hard it is!" and she took up her apron to wipe away her tears.
The cobbler looked attentively at her.
"Well, you are to be pitied, certainly," he said, "and if I were not in such a hurry,"
"Oh, do go on, pray—were you going to say you could help me? I have heard your people are fond of curds and whey, and fresh gooseberry syllabub. Now, if you would help me, trust me that there should be the most beautiful curds and whey set every night for you on the hearth; and nobody should ever look when you went and came."
"Why, you see," said the cobbler, hesitating, "my people are extremely particular about—in short, about cleanliness, mystery; and your house is not what one would call very clean. No offense, I hope."
Bella blushed deeply. "Well, but it should be always clean if you would—every day of my life I would wash the floor, and sand it, and then the hearth should be white-washed as white as snow, and the windows cleaned."
"Well," said the cobbler, seeming to consider, "well then I should not wonder if I could meet with a one-eyed servant for you, like your neighbor's; but it may be several days before I can; and meanwhile, I'm to have a dish of curds."
"Yes, and some whipped cream, too," replied Bella, full of joy.
The cobbler then took up all his tools, wrapped them in his leather apron, walked behind the wall-flower, and disappeared.
Bella was so delighted she could not sleep that night for joy. Her husband scarcely knew the house, she had made it so bright and clean; and by night she had washed the fire iron, sanded the floor, and set a great jug of hawthorn in blossom on the hearth.
The next morning Bella kept a sharp lookout, both for the tiny cobbler, and on her neighbor's house, to see whether she could possibly catch a glimpse of the one-eyed servant. But, no—nothing could she see but her neighbor sitting on her rocking chair, with her baby on her knee, working.
At last, when she was quite tired, she heard the voice of the cobbler

MARINE INTELLIGENCE. Arrivals and Clearances at the Point, for the week ending Wednesday, July 20th.

ARRIVED.

July 18th, Schooner Fredonia, from Bangor to Weymouth.
Same day, Schooner Freedom, with railroad sleepers for South Shore road.
July 18th, Schooner Smith Tattle, Capt. Locke, to load with granite for N. Y.
Same day, J. C. Brooks, to load with granite for Philadelphia.

Same day, Schooner Ansel, with lumber for Ebenezer Adams & Son.
July 20th, Schooner W. O. Irish, with 360 tons of coal for fax factory at Weymouth.

Same day, Sarah Jane, Capt. Vaughn, with 360 tons of coal for J. Loud & Co.

Same day, Schooner Scraph, with corn to Brantree.

Same day, Schooner Palladium, with corn for J. Loud & Co.

CLEARED.

Schooner Angie Amesbury, for St. John to load with lumber for Phila.

THE QUINCY BAND gave another of their Concerts at Goodnow's building, on Wednesday evening. They are very successful in these performances, and should receive the encouragement and support of the community, for whose gratification they are given. Such entertainments, in our pleasant evenings, are in harmony with every thing around. After the toils and trials of the day, they soothe the spirits, and prepare the mind for pleasant dreams.

HAY. We learn that Mr. N. B. Fernald of this town is on a trip to Maine, with the intention of purchasing a large quantity of bundle hay to supply our citizens, who now are obliged to go to Newport, Boston or somewhere else, when it can be kept in this town, and sold equally as low, thus saving the expense of carting. He intends to keep the hay at Brackett's wharf and have orders left at his furniture store.

New Orleans papers record the sale of the residence of Mr. Shepard Brown of that city. It was the most expensive dwelling in the city of New Orleans, having cost $76,000 in gold before the war; it sold for $45,000 currency.

THE PORTLAND SUFFERERS. The amount collected in Boston for the Portland sufferers, now amounts to about $125,000.

The crops in the West are reported abundant. The people in Minnesota are afraid the wheat crop will be too luxuriant.

The Convention to meet at Philadelphia next month to ratify Mr. Johnson's policy, appears to be well received throughout the country. A meeting is to be held in Boston, on the 8th of August, to take the preliminary steps for this State to be represented in that body.

The funds in the United States Treasury on the 4th instant, amounted to $71,062,605.59.

By a New England Lady.

A NEW NOVEL by the Author of "MADGE," D. APPLETON & COMPANY, 413 and 415 Broadway, New York, Published this day.

"SHERBROOKE," "By H. B. G. Author of Madge. 1 vol. 12mo. Cloth. Price $2.00.

"The scene is in a New England village; the plot is most admirably conceived, and the style is eminently chaste and pure. The whole tone of the work is elevating and ennobling; at the same time the story is intensely interesting and exciting, obliging one who has completed the reading to finish, even to the laying aside of all ordinary duties. 'Aunt Lydia' and her proverbs would never be forgotten by the reader. 'Hope' the heroine of the story, is a noble and many respects, and young ladies would do well to imitate her example. We predict for 'Sherbrooke' an immense sale."

The above sent free by mail, on receipt of price.

Orders by mail receive prompt attention.

A Word with you, Reader!

Are you suffering from a Cough or any other affection of the organs of respiration? Is any member of your family, or any near and dear friend threatened with, or slowly declining from, that terrible scourge, the Consumption?

Be warned in time! You have not a moment to lose. You may try all the remedies, or nostrums, ever vainly put forth as cures of this malady. You may employ all the medical men in the city, or travel, which is no cure, or even attend the progress of the disease. They but lure you to a premature grave!

There is one remedy yet known to medical science that ever did or can cure Consumption in all its stages. That remedy is WINCHESTER'S HYPHOPHOSPHITES, which act with invincible efficacy in all stages of Pulmonary Consumption.

I have no doubt whatever of the superior efficacy of the HYPHOPHOSPHITES in the treatment of Consumption, over all other medicines and methods hitherto discovered. I know of no medicine or treatment, which I have ever seen effect in this fatal malady, ANYTHING MORE THAN A MITIGATION. Yet in similar cases, under the use of Churchill's Hypophosphites, as prepared by yourself, I have seen many restored to their usual health and vigor. I would say to all who have any tendency to Consumption, TAKE THIS REMEDY, and the sooner the better.—W. B. TOWNSEND, Utica, N. Y.

Prices—In 7 and 16 oz. bottles, $1 and $2 each. Three large or six small bottles, for $5. Sold by all respectable Druggists, and at Wholesale to the Proprietors.

Selected Poetry.

UP THE HILL A BERRYING.

On a sunny summer morning;
Early as the dew was dry,
Up the hill I went a berrying,
Need I tell you why?
Farmer Davis had a daughter,
And it happened that I knew,
On such sunny mornings Jenny
Up the hill went berrying too.

Lonely work is picking berries;
So I joined her on the hill.
"Jenny dear," said I, "your basket's Quite too large for one to fill."
So we stayed—we two—to fill it, Jenny talking—I was still—Leading where the way was steepest, Picking berries up the hill.

"This is up hill work," said Jenny;
"So is life," said I, "shall we Climb it each alone, or Jenny,
Will you come and climb with me?"
Redder than the blushing berries
Jenny's cheek a moment grew;
While, without delay, she answered,
"I will come and climb with you."

Farmers' Department.

Do not Pasture the Mowing Lots.

At least do not allow your cattle to eat them down close, or you will have a poor yield of grass next year. Feed your cows on cabbages, turnips, sowed corn, carrot-tops and carrots, if your pastures are short, or whether they are not; but spare your meadows, or only permit the feed of aftermath to be eaten off. Just before a heavy rain to dress the meadows with 300 lbs. to the acre of superphosphate, filled with four times its bulk of muck peat, ditch scrapings, charcoal dust or loam; this will make the grass grow, and repay you, "some thirty, some sixty and some a hundred fold" next mowing season. It is far better to mow only five acres, where you get three tons of grass to the acre, than to mow fifteen acres, cutting but one ton of grass each, or thirty acres, averaging but half a ton of hay to the acre.

SOAP SUDS.

There is a large quantity of plant food of the choicest kind in a barrel of soap; and it is more valuable after it has been dissolved in the wash tub, than if it were applied to the soil in the garden in an undissolved condition. For this reason soap suds are an excellent fertilizer. The Scottish Farmer says on this subject: "Although generally deemed only fit for being run off in the common sewer is the easiest and most expeditious manner possible, they are nevertheless highly beneficial vegetable feeders as well as useful insect preventives. Hence they should never be wasted more especially by parties having gardens as their application to the ground whether in winter or summer, will show beneficially not only on ordinary vegetable crops, but also on berry bushes, shrubs, border flowers and even window pot plants; while if poured or sprinkled over roses, cabbages, &c., they will prevent, or at least mitigate the mischievous doings of the green fly and caterpillars."

GRASS CULTURE. An English farmer writes to a London newspaper that if a grass field be plowed in the fall, so that the roots lie during winter exposed to the weather, and in the spring the sod is turned down again and the land rolled the grass will grow much richer and taller than before. He discovered this by accident, his plowman having plowed a small portion of a grass field. The difference between the grass on the plowed and unplowed portions could be noticed at a considerable distance, and the improvements in the grass on the plowed part was permanent.

OXIONS. Thorough weeding and thinning are more necessary to success with this crop than to any other. Every weed must be kept down, and if good bulbs are desired, thin to three or four inches in the rows.

Inednotes.

A young and pretty girl stepped into a store where a spruce young man, who had long been enamored, but dared not speak, stood behind the counter selling dry goods. In order to remain as close as possible, she cheapened everything: at last she said, "I believe you think I am cheating you." "Oh no," said the youngster, "to me you are always fair."

"Well," whispered the lady, blushing as she laid an emphasis on the word, "I would not stay so long bargaining if you were not so dear."

A lady who had prided herself upon her extreme sensibility, said one day to her butcher:—"How can you follow such a cruel profession? Ah! how can you kill the poor little innocent lamb?" "Madam! cried the astonished butcher, would you prefer cooking them alive?"

A Quaker in a stage-coach with an officer, observed that his sword was very troublesome. "All of my enemies are of the same opinion," replied the captain.

"Pa, how many legs has a ship?" "A ship has no legs my child."

"Why, pa, the paper says she draws twenty feet, and that she runs before the wind."

Footie was once met by a friend in town, with a young man who was flashing away very brilliantly, while Footie seemed grave.

"Why, Footie," said his friend, "you are flat to-day you don't seem to relish wit."

"Blame it," said Footie, "you have not used me yet sir."

Between Courtlandt and Dey Streets,

NEW YORK.

JOHN PATTEN, Jr., Proprietor.

THE Pacific Hotel, is well and widely known to the traveling public. The location is especially suitable to merchants and business men; it is in close proximity to the business part of the City, on the highway of Southern and Western travel, and adjacent to all the principal Railroad and Steamboat depots. The Pacific has liberal accommodations for over 200 guests; it is well furnished, and possesses every modern improvement for the comfort and entertainment of its inmates. The rooms are spacious and well ventilated; provided with gas and water; the attendance is prompt and respectful; and the table is generously provided with every delicacy of the season. The subscriber, who, for the past few years has been the lessee, is now sole proprietor, and intends to identify himself thoroughly with the interests of his house. With long experience as a hotel keeper, he trusts, by moderate charges and a liberal policy, to maintain the favorable reputation of the Pacific Hotel. N. B. To prevent overcharge by Hackmen, the coaches of the Hotel are owned by the proprietor. JOHN PATTEN, Jr., New York, Sept. 9.

We are gratified to hear of the continued successes, in New York, of our townsman, Mr. H.

T. Helmhold, Druggist. His store, next to the Metropolitan Hotel, is 25 feet front, 230 feet deep, and five stories in height. It is certainly a grand establishment, and speaks favorably of the merit of his articles. He retains his Office and Laboratory in this city, which are also modest establishments of their class.

The proprietor has been induced to make this statement from the fact that his remedies, although advised, are

GENUINE PREPARATIONS,

And knowing that the intelligent refrain from using anything pertaining to Quackery or the

THE NATIONAL SAILORS' HOME.

This handsome building, erected for a home for the aged and disabled mariners in this town, was appropriately dedicated on Wednesday last. Some three hundred persons, mostly from abroad, assembled in the chapel, a large room on the second floor, on the southeast end of the building. They were called to order by the chairman of the committee of arrangements, George B. Upton, Esq., who presided during the services. Rev. Mr. Watson read some appropriate extracts from the Scriptures which was followed by prayer. Mr. Upton then read the trustees' report, a very interesting document, giving great credit to the ladies, which was received with frequent applause. Hon. Alexander H. Rice was then introduced to the audience and was listened to with marked attention for more than half an hour. Among the many things of interest which he related was that the institution would not lack for funds; if private liberality proved insufficient the government would help it. Hon. Judge Russell followed with a few pertinent remarks in his usual rich and eloquent manner, and the exercises were then closed with the singing of a hymn, and a benediction by Chaplain Chase. A little time was then occupied in examining the building, and then the company were invited to a rich and beautiful collation in the dining-hall. The building is three and a half stories high, 125 feet long and 49 feet wide. On the lower floor there is a smoking and wash room, two parlors, dining room and kitchen, laundry, pantry and store room. On the second floor is the chapel, sick room, bathing room and sleeping apartments. The third floor is divided into sleeping rooms. The building and everything connected with it is very neat, and great care has been taken for the comfort of its future inmates. The building has been in charge of Geo. D. Newcomb, a retired naval officer who is well qualified for this responsible position. It will accommodate 120 persons. The amount expended for 75 acres of land and the buildings was about $65,000; leaving a balance in the Treasury of $210,000.

THE CELEBRATION OF THE FIFTH ANNUAL FESTIVAL OF THE DIRECTORS AND EMPLOYEES OF THE QUINCY HORSE RAILROAD, came off on Thursday last. The first of these, in 1861, was in commemoration of the completion of the road, and those that have followed, congratulatory of its growing success and usefulness, the favor it has received from a generous public, and now, of a brighter and more prosperous future. The same beautiful cheer and cordial greeting was the welcome on this, as on former occasions. The mansion of Chas. C. Cook, Esq., the courteous and gentlemanly Superintendent of the road, was thrown open for the reception of his guests at 12 M., and no pains either on the part of the master and mistress of the entertainment were spared, to make those feel, who had come thither to enjoy their hospitality, that they were welcome, and at home. Besides those, whose energies are brought daily into requisition to direct this great engine of public travel and convenience, we noticed some outside faces, whose benignant looks spoke their satisfaction and pleasure. But time and space will not permit us to say what we wish to-day.

LIGHTNING AND HEAVY RAIN. On Saturday afternoon last, our citizens were kept in an unpleasant position by the rattling thunder, vivid lightning and flood of rain for upwards of three hours. The northerly end of the beautiful residence owned by Miss Ann Bass, of this town, was badly shattered by lightning. Mr. James Edwards, Jr., who occupied the part that was struck, was absent in the city, but his family were present and we are happy to say escaped without injury—not even stunned. Their little babe lay asleep in the front chamber, where the lightning struck with perfect freedom, scattering the ladies and plastering about the room, but received no injury. The house was insured at Dedham, and we learn that the Insurance Company will endeavor to make the loss good.

A barn at South Quincy, belonging to Mr. Joseph Hardwick and rented by Mr. Griswold was also struck.

THE CROPS. The abstract of crop returns for July, just issued from the Department of Agriculture, shows the prospect of a year of average fruitfulness. The present indications, as marked by thousands of correspondents of the department, point to an average of about eight and one-half tenths of an average crop in a quantity of wheat, of a quality that will make it equal in value to last year's crop. The testimony from all quarters renders it certain that the quality will be excellent. The showing is much more favorable than in the June Report. Winter barley is in very nearly the same condition as the wheat. The oat crop has been nominally good—almost beyond precedent. The condition of pastures is generally above the average. With the exception of the State of New York, the average of corn is above the average. A somewhat diminished average of sorghum is indicated. There is nearly an average breadth of flax. In every State more potatoes than usual were planted, which promised better than usual. The prospect for apples is not as good as usual, and no fruit upon the list makes so poor a show as peaches.

THE BOUNTY BILL. Owing to their having been no appropriation made for the purpose, there can be no pay made of bounties under the Bounty Bill passed by Congress, until after the assembling of the next session.

AMERICA AND EUROPE UNITED.

The Great Eastern and the cable fleet arrived at Heart's Content, Newfoundland, at 8 o'clock on Friday morning, of last week, having succeeded in laying the Atlantic Cable, and thus uniting the two continents in telegraphic union. Mr. Field's report shows that the distance run was 1669 miles, and the length of the cable paid out 1865 miles, including 29 miles of the shore end at Valencia. Communication with Ireland was kept up throughout the passage. A great fact has been achieved. An event has been accomplished which is of especial and particular interest to every member of the human family, because it marks a prodigious step taken by man in his onward and upward cause. Communication with England in ten minutes! The European news of yesterday spread before the American public to-day! Imagination in its wildest flights never dared to dream of such a thing. We hope it will continue to be, as it now appears, a perfect success, and a blessing to all nations. The tariff provisional charges for the transmission of messages through the Atlantic Telegraph Cable is as follows: From any telegraph station in America to any telegraph station in Great Britain, for twenty words or less, including address, date and signature, not exceeding in all 100 letters, £20 in gold. For every additional word, not exceeding five letters, 20 shillings sterling in gold.

QUINCY HIGH SCHOOL.

A meeting of the graduates of the Quincy High School were held immediately after the graduating exercises, at Mariposa Hall, Friday, July 29th. It was voted to form a Society to be called, "Society of Graduates of Quincy High School." The following persons were chosen officers: President: Mrs. George Granville Nichols. Vice President: Miss Helen M. Porter. Treasurer: Miss Ellen B. Churchill. Secretary: Miss Ida Edwards. Directors: Misses Josie M. Wright, Emma F. Russell, Marianna Whitney, Eliza C. Sheam, M. Lizzie Hardwick, Abbie J. Hanks. It was voted that there be a meeting in September next. Meeting to be called by the President. Mr. P. J. O'Neil was chosen orator. Miss Abbie J. Hanks poetess. Voted, To adjourn.

THE PHILADELPHIA CONVENTION.

To the Editor of the Patriot:—Permit a conservative loyalist to express a hope that the "plain people" may not be deceived by the specious call to the Philadelphia Convention, which appeared in your last week's issue. Whatever the managers of that Convention may wish or intend, it is perfectly evident that the large majority of thoroughly union men will hold aloof from it, and that it will be composed almost entirely of unrepentant rebels and Northern secessionists. The only danger is that some unreflecting persons may be led into taking a step which they will afterwards deeply regret. Are we to begin by forsaking the loyal men of the South, who have always been true to the union, and who will now have nothing to do with the proposed Convention? And can anything be plainer than that, while no State has ever been out of the union, no rebel, or body of rebels can be re-admitted to the privileges of the government of the union, without first showing signs of contrition and returning loyalty? Else why was the blood of patriotic spirits, and why did we go to war at all?

REAL ESTATE IN DORCHESTER. The estate of the late Judge Abel Cushing, in Dorchester, on Neponset avenue, near Mill street, was sold on Monday for $37,700. Besides a dwelling house and barn, there was three-fourths of an acre of land, with a great variety of choice pear trees.

A GOOD NUMBER. The Phenological Journal for August, contains portraits of Benjamin Franklin, Lewis Cass, C. F. Brydges, Brundell, Mrs. Parkhurst, etc., with articles on Responsibility; Sowing and Reaping; the Servant Question; Getting Married; Writing—the Philosophy of Pronography; How to Live; Air and Sunlight; Summer, and its Lessons; Over Eating; Head and Body; Man-Monkeys; Insanity, and Religious Excitements; Physiology, Time, Tunes, Veneration, Double Chins, Large Ears, etc. 20 cents, or $2 a year. Fowler & Wells, New York.

PORTLAND RUINS. Nothing can give a more vivid idea of the extent and completeness of destruction than the stereoscopic pictures of South and of Whipple, Boston. They possess a permanent value.

"YOUNG FOLKS." This popular magazine is now to have full paged illustrations on tinted paper. Also, elegant colored plates, making it still more attractive, if possible, to our young people.

FIRST CHURCH. The "Vesper Services" will be omitted during the month of August.

THE FAIR OF THE NEW ENGLAND AND VERMONT STATE AGRICULTURAL SOCIETIES will be held on the grounds of the Windham County Park Association at Brattleboro, Vermont, September 4th, 5th, 6th and 7th, 1866. The grounds are pleasantly located, on the bank of the Connecticut River, and are ample for the purposes of the Exhibition. Premiums amounting to over $6,000 will be offered in the various departments. Arrangements have been made with nearly all the New England Railroads for the transportation of stock and articles free and conveyance of passengers attending for fare only. Enquiries may be addressed to Henry Clarke, Poughkeepsie, Vermont; David Goodale, Brattleboro, Vermont; or Daniel Needham, Boston, Mass.

In catching and pitching the Actives excelled; but in fielding and balling they were inferior. It was, however, a very creditable appearance for a new club. Everything passed off very well—but for the accident to H. McGrath—in the third innings, the game might have been different.

STROKED BY LIGHTNING. A man named McNally, while at work in the field digging post holes in Milton, on Saturday afternoon last, was struck by lightning, which passed down his body, tearing his clothes open, cutting his boot completely off, and leaving him senseless. He was not found until Sunday noon, when he had partially recovered his consciousness and was crawling upon his hands and knees. It is believed that his life was saved by the copious rains which fell upon him. He was not aware of the cause of his injuries, and said he should like to catch the fellow who struck him in so cowardly a manner, believing that some one came behind and knocked him down.

SOLDIERS' BOUNTIES. The Paymaster General says it will take three years at least to examine the claims of the soldiers for bounties under the new law; and it being computed that the amount required for their liquidation will be seventy five millions of dollars, only twenty-five millions will be required per annum for their payment until all the claims are settled.

Summary Intelligence.

The largest seed garden in the world is said to be situated on the Delaware river, at Bloomsdale, (Pa.) occupying six hundred acres, and belongs to David Landreth & Son, of Philadelphia, and is under the personal supervision of the senior member of the firm.

Among some recent emigrants from Norway to this country is a lady nearly 105 years old. All her children, grand children, great-grand-children, and ten great-great-grand-children, were of the party. They went to Wisconsin to settle—105 of them in all.

The late rains have proved of great advantage to the cranberry vines, on the Cape, both in stopping the ravages of the worms and in giving vigor to the vines just at the putting out of the fruit.

About the middle of the past month a physician at Brighton, England, poisoned his third wife, and on being suspected took his own life with prussic acid. He was a man of property and standing, and has passed for a model husband, but it is now believed that he poisoned all his wives, whose property he inherited, and whose lives he had insured.

Prince Edward Island papers complain that hundreds of American vessels are fishing in that neighborhood without paying for licenses.

A new arrangement has been placed on the cars of the Portland and Kennebec Railroad for indicating the name of the station at which the train is about to stop. It consists of a glass case, conspicuously posted, containing a roll of white linen, on which is printed in bold type the names of all the stations on the road. As soon as one station is passed the brakeman turns the roll with a key until the name of the next station appears. The idea seems worthy of imitation.

The total amount of money received for the sufferers by the fire in Portland, by the Mayor of that city is $207,679.58.

A man in Hartford breathes through a gutta percha pipe and the question is, if he were to take cold what kind of a cough would he produce.

There are several towns in Essex County, from each of which the whole aggregate income tax is less than would be paid by a journeyman barber in Salem.—Salem Gazette.

Western papers assert that what were vast treeless prairies in Illinois twelve years ago, are now covered with a dense growth of thirty young forest trees, comprising various species of oaks, hickory, cottonwood, ash, &c.

The city of Lowell has been sued by a child seventeen months old, to recover $5000 damages for being run over by a city team. The suit is conducted by the father of the young litigant.

A massive silver bowl and ladle were presented to Gen. Burnside, a few days ago, by the gentlemen composing his personal staff during the war. The articles are richly embellished with military emblems.

ANNUAL MEETING. The annual meeting of the Old Colony and Newport railway Company was held in Boston last week. The following named gentlemen were elected Directors for the ensuing year: Onslow Stearns, Alex. Holmes, Uriel Crocker, Francis S. Hayes, George A. Kettell, Oliver Ames, Benj. Finch, Minot Tirrell and Samuel L. Crocker. At a meeting of the directors, Hon. Onslow Stearns of Concord, N. H., (president and superintendent of the Northern railroad) was elected president, and Geo. A. Kettell, Esq., of Boston clerk of the board. A more competent and experienced man, for president could hardly be selected. It gives to the Old Colony one of the most efficient and successful railroad officers in New England.

From the schedule of receipts appended to the annual report, it appears that Fall River furnishes the largest portion of the income of the road, the total receipts at that station amounting to $91,342.86; Newport $73,508.84, Plymouth $67,800.56, Bridgewater, $57,640.02, Quincy $45,339.43, North Bridgewater $13,886.76.

REDUCTION OF THE NATIONAL DEBT. The figures in the U. S. Treasury Department show a reduction during the month of July of about $10,000,000, or say $27,000,000 since the end of May. Also that during the month some $22,000,000 or $23,000,000 of certificates of indebtedness were redeemed, leaving less than $5,000,000 outstanding. A large amount of seven-thirties has been exchanged for five twenties.

INTERNAL REVENUE. Deputy Collector French gives notice that he will be at the Selectmen's room, in this town, on Friday and Saturday next, from 9 to 4 each day, to receive the duties and income on the Annual List for the Second District of Massachusetts, which are now due and payable.

He will also be at the Union National Bank, in Weymouth, on Wednesday afternoon and Thursday all day for the same purpose.

Also, at his office, in Braintree, on the 13th, 14th and 15th instants.

A Portland laborer found a $6000 pocket book, returned it to the owner, and received fifty cents in small change.

Marriages.

Quincy, August 4.

The Camp, the Battle Field, and the Hospital, or Lights and Shadows of the Great Rebellion Heroic, Patriotic, Romantic, Humorous, and Tragical.

Splendidly Illustrated with over 100 fine Portraits and beautiful Engravings.

This work for general humor, tender pathos, startling interest, and attractive beauty, stands peerless and alone among all its competitors. The Valiant and Brave Hearted, the Picturesque and Dramatic, the Witty and Marvelous, the Tender and Pathetic. The Roll of Fame and Story, Camp, Picket, Spy, Scout, Bivouac and Siege, Startling Surprises, Wonderful Escapes, Famous Words and Deeds of Woman, and the whole Panorama of the War are here thrillingly portrayed in a masterly manner, at once historical and romantic, rendering it the most ample, brilliant and readable book that the war has called forth.

This work sells itself. The people are tired of dry details and partisan works, and want something humorous, romantic and startling. We have agents clearing over $200 per month. Send for circulars, and see our terms and proof of the above assertion. Address, NEW ENGLAND PUBLISHING CO., 14 Phoenix Building, Boston, Mass August 4.

PHOTOGRAPH SALOON

IN QUINCY.

THE Subscriber would respectfully inform the citizens of Quincy and vicinity, that he has taken the Saloon lately occupied by Mr. Swain, near the Stone Temple, where he is prepared to execute every branch of the Photographic art.

Particular attention paid to copying from Daguerotypes and other pictures, and enlarged and worked up in India Ink or Oil. Persons intending to have Photographs, will do well to appoint a time for sitting, as they will thereby avoid having to wait. This is particularly necessary for little children. Likenesses taken, equally well in cloudy weather, except for very young children.

A Genteel Residence,

STABLE, ORCHARD,

And Two Acres of Land,

FOR SALE.

THE Residence formerly occupied by the late William Torrey, corner of Goffe and Granite streets, in Quincy, has been thoroughly repaired, and will be sold at a bargain if applied for within a few weeks. The buildings have been put in the best of condition, outside and within. The rooms have all been handsomely decorated with paper and paint; the bathing room has both hot and cold water, besides other new conveniences. All the animals in the barn, such as the horse, cows, hogs, hens, &c., can be watered without leaving the kitchen, and, in fact, everything has been done to make this a pleasant and comfortable residence, especially for the aged, it being very convenient.

The grounds have been handsomely laid out, and neatly fenced; and there is on the premises one of the best pear orchards in the County.

For further particulars, apply on premises. Quincy, July 23.

SERVANTS.

In reading your interesting columns of the 18th instant, I was sorry to see an attack on "Servants," which was neither generous nor just. You say they are the greatest evils in a household, and those who have never had the necessity of having the "plagues in their homes"

don't know the vexation attending hired help. Now there are some who always have them in their homes, and consider them neither plagues nor evils, who treat them well, and take an interest in their welfare. The servant sees it, and she is faithful in return. You say every girl when she goes out to live, has one, and generally many, very bad failings; the first of which is "lying," and then "stealing." Strange as it may seem, there are girls who neither lie nor steal, and whom their employers will trust, and generally speaking, their trust is not betrayed. If the girl on Washington street did wrong, which she certainly did, you should not set down the whole class, as thieves and liars; they are oftentimes more honorable than those whom it is their lot to serve. While you continue your abuse and disrespect of servants, you will get only those who cannot possibly obtain any other mode of living. No respectable girl will wish to be classed among "servants." Your piece was rather one-sided. Now put on your spectacles—look on the other side, and judge for yourself.

A HIRED SERVANT.

Cholera Mixture.

C. C. JOHNSON would inform the Public, that he has, by the influence of a friend, through the German Consul, a prescription of Dr. Schroder, of Germany, for the cure of the Cholera, who has used it with the greatest success in more than seven thousand cases. Dr. Schroder says, "I have seen the Cholera in all its forms, and seen the effect of ice, alcohol, opium, &c., and none of them are to be relied upon. I have used this mixture with perfect success when the patient has been seen early."
Dr. Cox of New York, when the Cholera was there, said, "If a person has a diarrhoea, he already has the Cholera, and a remedy should be administered immediately, not wait until he is seized with those dreadful cramps in his arms and legs, which soon bury him into the collapse stage when remedies are of no avail."
All persons who go into the country or to the seashore should avail themselves of this mixture, when they will have the satisfaction of knowing that they have a remedy on hand to cure them.

"Ay, Tom," says his master, "I fancy thou art a sly sort of a fellow; but tell me how."

"Why, sir," says the footman, "the people refused it at breakfast, and so they did when your honor dined; but as I had a great deal to pay at the turnpike, I whipped him between the halpence, and the man put it in his pocket, and never saw it!"

SATURDAY, AUGUST 11, 1866.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We."

POLITICAL.

The meeting at Lyceum Hall, in this town, to choose delegates to the Faneuil Hall Convention of Wednesday, took place on Saturday evening last, in accordance with the call issued by John Quincy Adams and others.

At half past eight o'clock, in the absence of Messrs. Adams and Duggan, the first two signers of the call, the meeting was called to order by Jeffrey R. Brackett, who was subsequently chosen chairman. John Chamberlain Secretary.

Mr. Brackett, on taking the chair, expressed his regret at the absence of Mr. John Q. Adams, who had been expected to address the meeting—but who was prostrated by a disease which had been upon him for several days. Mr. Brackett then referred to the meeting held in the Hall above, about five years since, for consultation as to how the war, then just opening, might be brought to a speedy and successful conclusion. Then, he said, the flag of the country was flying over nearly every building in town; money was given so profusely that it had not yet all been expended. Our military had pressed forward under the lead of their gallant commander, Col. Almer B. Packard, and were among the first at the place where their services were most needed.

The war had now closed victoriously, and its termination had brought grave responsibilities upon us. It was the saying of the Duke of Wellington, next to a great defeat, nothing was so much to be dreaded as a great victory, because of the responsibilities which it had imposed on the victors. The people of the United States had won a victory, and it was now to be proved whether they knew how to use it as Christians and as statesmen. If Congress did not show themselves fit to carry out the policy now needed, we must try to improve Congress. To this end the present meeting was called, for the purpose of electing delegates to the Faneuil Hall Convention, who would take part in choosing delegates to the Convention to be held in Philadelphia, on the 14th of August.

A Committee of five reported a list of delegates as follows:

John Q. Adams—at large; Jeffrey R. Brackett; John Briesler; William S. Patten; William B. Duggan; Eleazer Frederick; John E. Bass; G. W. B. Taylor; Horace B. Spear; George Cahill; Whitcomb Porter; Benjamin Curtis; Lewis Bass.

The meeting adopted the above list, and after authorizing the nominating committee to fill vacancies, adjourned.

ACCIDENT. As Mr. Charles Hayden, son of Mr. Josiah Hayden, of this town, teamster in the employ of Messrs. Charles and Francis Wilson, stone merchants, was descending Savin Hill, Dorchester, on Tuesday afternoon last, on his return from the city, where he had been to deliver a load of stone, his oxen became unruly, and in attempting to step from the front of the wagon, his foot slipped, which threw him at the feet of the cattle, who trod on him, and with some pretty hard kicks, inflicted a bad wound behind the ear, fracturing the jaw bone, and receiving other severe injuries about the head, right side, arm and hand. The accident was observed by two gentlemen, passing by, who kindly had him taken to the Almshouse in Dorchester, where his wounds were dressed, and then removed to his home on Granite street. It was fortunate that it was no worse; had the wheels of the heavy vehicle passed over him it must have caused instant death. He is now under the care of Dr. Gilbert. He is doing as well, under the circumstances, as can be expected. This is the second time, within a short period, that Mr. Hayden's life has been in jeopardy—and in both instances the escape was almost miraculous.

ACCIDENT. Which might have been serious. As Mrs. L. G. Horton, was attempting to cross the street near her residence, on Monday last, she was struck on the side by the horse of a passing carriage, driven by Mr. Chase Parker; although the collision inflicted no internal injury, it was the cause of much pain to her on Tuesday. We are pleased to learn, therefore, through her physician, Dr. Stetson, that she is now comfortable, and probably will be restored to her former health in a few days.

THE WEATHER. Our climate is so variable that we have every degree in the shortest possible time. The extreme heat under which we were blistering a few days since, has now changed to a raw, cold, northeast storm, which makes an overcoat comfortable.

DEMOREST'S MAGAZINE and Lady's Mirror of Fashion. Besides its literary character, Demorest's Magazine is one of the best guides which a lady can consult for advice and instruction in such matters. The editors are always booked up in such affairs—and by their full sized fashion plates and illustrated pattern sheets endeavor to carry their readers along with them. The August number contains a fine and correct likeness of the great American author, Washington Irving, music, and a thousand other interesting and profitable things, which makes it one of the best magazines published for the family circle.

THE PHILADELPHIA CONVENTION.

Wheaton in defining a treaty of Peace, says, that "It is an agreement to waive all discussion concerning the respective rights and claims of parties, and to bury in oblivion the original causes of war."

Thus it is whenever two nations—foreign to one another—enter into warfare, they contend for their several principles that the contest involves; and when the war has determined; all embargoes, reprisals and restrictions are raised, they enter upon their former relations as amicably as before the war. Witness France and Austria in the war of 1859, and Prussia and Austria of to-day. It is this international principle that these nations assume in order to draw profit and have continued prosperity in their country. These are political rules, but yet embody all that which is of forgiveness in communities. No war leaves its marks longer in the memory of governments than the date of the treaty of peace. Then if these are the governing maxims when the contest is Roman against stranger, where the natural acrimony that arises from war should heighten this feeling of detestation, why should not the same principles, modified and refined by the ties of relation and friendship, ameliorate the condition of a people at civil war, and blunt a little at least the weapon that is raised to bruise and wound the heart of a brother? Do brothers fight fiercer against one another, or less freely forgive than towards a stranger? We are in the channel to accept a train of thoughts like these.

It is true there was no treaty of peace expressed, or no formal sealed and signed contract entered into, but at the same time the permanent paroling of their armies when surrendered, the respect paid to them as fugitives, are sufficient grounds on which to base an implied treaty. These are the conditions that Grant put upon them; he told them to go home—to assume their former domestic relations; to brood not over their retrospective sins, but to become prospective in thought and action. They have accepted his commands. Have tilted their soil—are removing the marks of devastation by the rich crops that are coming up to cover these fearful war marks; have cultivated peace in their social relations; have changed the status of their Constitution to accord with the new idea of things; are giving the negroes employment and their rights; are paying all their taxes, and bearing with us the national burden; and now ask to be taken up into our confidence—having carried out what they were charged to do, and to have this virtual implied treaty of peace executed. Shall we accord to them less than what we would give to a conquered nation? Our treaty with conquered Mexico sounded in different conditions than what is attempted to be foisted upon them; and we are protesting with France to-day because she is endeavoring to change the whole phase of that government and make it into a province. Remember that we cannot punish a people so that the punishment will strike individually. The time for the construction of human figures of colossal magnitude—filling the same with living men and burning the whole as a sacrifice has gone by; and besides, if we possess the generosity and power that we claim we have, we would not bend the splendor of our cause with such a brutal ministration. We are told to forgive seventy and seven times—and with ourselves sinners, is it righteous if we do not? What happiness would result to our country, and send us forward upon a grand impetus up the path of prosperity, gathering in the multiplying cords of trade, manufacture and agriculture, if we as a people could cast aside this bristling cloak of political differences, and throw into the scale every one of our swords for the weal and woe of the whole country; and that class of our people—the whole not agreeing, who in their endeavors are attempting to point that way, have the true principles upon their banners. No matter if some of their past sins are as black as the smoke of destruction that the war rolled from our borders. These are the opinions that seem to be calling the people to represent every part of our country at the Convention. And I hope no one will attempt to tell an old soldier like me, that they are "specious" in their doctrines, or to cry out against them because such patriotic agitators as Col. Stokes or his ilk of luminists, who in 1861 ran hit against the Union, cannot be furnished a seat by reason of their willfulness in this coming Union gathering.—CY PRES.

ITS PROFITS. During the first twelve hours 4,000 words are said to have passed over the Atlantic Cable, being at the rate of 8,000 words per day. This is equal to 400 messages, which at $100 per message would yield a gross revenue of $40,000 per day, or $14,600,000 for a year. A very handsome return for the investment.

THE CABLE AND THE LIGHTNING. It is stated that free electricity in the form of a flash of lightning, would probably penetrate or destroy the insulating or coatings of the Atlantic cable. When a thunder storm passes over Valencia Bay or Heart's Content the ends of the cable are therefore put in the earth.

LAKE CHAMPLAIN.

American House Burlington, (Vt.) August 8th, 1866.

Leaving Boston on Monday, we arrived at Fitchburg at evening, and Middlebury, Vermont, the following afternoon.

The route by Bellows Falls and Rutland, over the Green Mountains, and through the valley of the Otter Creek, is one of most charming variety and beauty. Constant surprises meet the eye of the tourist. The road is necessarily circuitous—now winding through dense woods, along mountain slopes or through deep, stony cuts, and now by pleasant lakes, fruitful valleys and populous towns and villages. The sweep of landscape recalled, with no great stretch of imagination, views we have enjoyed in that English county after which this noble town is named.

The College commencement we found had drawn great crowds at Middlebury. We were fortunate however in finding comfortable quarters at the Addison House, finely located on the eastern side of the river, and now conducted by Mr. Rider, whom we are glad to commend to the travelling public. The inauguration of the new President, Dr. Ketchell, and the names of the poet Saxe, Professor Park and Hon. J. H. Barrett, have added great attractions to the usual programme.

But the American Institute had still greater attractions for us, and so we came forth and have attended its exercises. As the daily press gives a full account of its session, it is needless to enlarge. Writing on the shores of this magnificent lake, surrounded by beautiful islands, walked by the mountains, and rich in both scenic and historic features,—one can hardly content himself with delineations of art or discussions on education, particularly if such discussions prevent a full enjoyment of the former. That the popularity of this resort is not on the decline, is shown by the fact that the hotels and private lodgings are crowded this summer as they have not been for six years. After a trip to Plattsburgh, Fort Ticonderoga and Lake George, we hope to reach our old quarters at the "Crescent." Saratoga, whence you will hear again from MERLIN.

PIC NIC. The St. Patrick and St. John's Sunday School Society, accompanied by the Quincy Brass Band, propose holding their annual picnic at Island Grove on Thursday next.

BURGLARY. On Wednesday night last the house of John W. Draper, of Dorchester, was robbed of about $200 worth of silver plate, by a thief who effected entrance through a window, which he opened after quietly removing a pane of glass. Roxbury Gazette.

EXCURSION. The Tiger Engine Company, think of passing the day—Saturday next—with friend Mearns Hough's Neck. They will go fully equipped—ready for any emergency.

NOT ADMITTED. The President did not sign the bill admitting Nebraska into the Union as a State, and it therefore failed to become a law.

STATE CONVENTION. At a meeting of the Republican State Committee, held in Boston, on Tuesday, it was voted to hold the State convention in that city on the 13th of September.

FAMILY BATHS. Our attention was called more particularly to this subject within the past week, in consequence of our neighbor, Mr. Panton, having built a fine and spacious one on his premises. He possessed the advantages and has improved them. It is a good investment; one of the best of a family can make for the health of his family.

SOUTH QUINCY. The building recently occupied by the Messrs. Reeds, and purchased by the Messrs. Felts, has been removed to a back street, south of Elm, near the Messrs. Tutman's, and is to be fitted up for a dwelling house. The Messrs. Reeds are now in full swing at their new location, and show off in fine style.

DEATH OF CHIEF JUSTICE WHITMAN. Hon. Ezekiel Whitman, formerly Chief Justice of the State of Maine, died at his residence at East Bridgewater, on the 1st inst., in the ninety-first year of his age.

COUNTY SALARIES. In the hearing before the Legislative Committee on Wednesday, Mr. Sanford of Norfolk County, expressed the opinion that an increase should be made from $2500 to $4500 for the three Commissioners. Mr. Kingsbury, clerk of courts, was in favor of a salary for that office of $2000 with an assistant at from $1000 to $1200.

THE CABLE AND THE LIGHTNING. It is stated that free electricity in the form of a flash of lightning, would probably penetrate or destroy the insulating or coatings of the Atlantic cable. When a thunder storm passes over Valencia Bay or Heart's Content the ends of the cable are therefore put in the earth.

It was an enterprise that we wished to see tried; a want, that with many others, we believed existed; and a consummation that we share with the publishers in their joy at its ultimate success. The Galaxy is issued fortnightly, in good shape, of about 100 pages 12mo, illustrated, at 25 cents a number; $5 for the year of twenty-four numbers; or $3 for six months of 12 numbers. The Galaxy borrows its light from the productions of some of our most eminent writers; and its stories and other reading matter are chaste, moral, and of a highly entertaining character—making it one of the best magazines published. Now is the time to subscribe.

THE APPOINTMENT OF REPRESENTATION FOR NORFOLK COUNTY.

The appointment of representation for Norfolk County was made on Tuesday last, by the County Commissioners. Under the allotment, Dedham, West Roxbury, Quincy, Braintree, Randolph, Stoughton, Franklin, Bellingham, Needham, Medfield, Dover and Brookline have one representative each; Dorchester, Weymouth, Canton, Milton, Woburn, Sharon, Foxborough, Wrentham and Medway two each, and the several wards of Roxbury, with the exception of ward one, three each. The ward excepted has but one. By the new allotment Roxbury gains one representative. A slight change has been made in the numbers of the districts in Roxbury and Brookline.

Summary Intelligence.

The Clerk of Courts of Nantucket, who is paid by fees, received last year only $112.

A $4000 granite monument to the memory of the late Governor Morton, has just been erected in the Taunton cemetery.

A little girl in Pittsburg, came near losing her life the other day by eating a small piece of fly poisoning paper. Sweet milk was at once administered as an emetic, and had the desired effect. The physician summoned declared that the child owed its life to this simple remedy.

It is said to be dangerous to use guano in the soil of Kansas. A voracious writer says: A few hours after planting cucumber seeds with guano the dirt began to fly; and the vines came up like a streak, and although he started off at the top of his speed vines overtook and covered him; and on taking out his knife to cut the thing, he found a large cucumber gone to seed in his pocket.

It is said that holders of large quantities of flour will suffer considerable loss through the early arrival of new wheat in the markets. Were it not for the immense railroad charges in the West flour would be very cheap.

The Mercantile Literary Association of New York has made a timely and valuable present comprising five hundred volumes of miscellaneous books, to the Mercantile Library of Portland, which suffered a loss of all its books at the late fire.

As an instance of the value of small things it is ascertained that eyelets, costing but seventeen or eighteen cents per thousand, are consumed to the value of four million dollars per year, so that over two hundred and fifty thousand millions of these little conveniences are annually used in hoop skirts, shoes, etc.

Atchinson City, Kansas, the estimated tax value of whose property is $2,000,000, don't own a single school-house.

A cow recently died in Maine, and a piece of hoop-skirt was found in her throat. It is supposed she swallowed the milkmaid.

There are in the United States about nine hundred railroad corporations that operate steam-power roads; the joint length of the steam-power roads in the United States is about 32,000 miles, and their joint cost is about $1,280,000,000—equal to an average of $40,000 for each mile.

A witness, in court, in Lafayette, Ind., the other day, testified that she was sixteen years of age, had been twice married, and had two children.

The Newburyport Herald says:—"All parts of Maine appear to be awake to the importance of domestic manufactures, and if the spirit that prevails there now, can be kept up seven years, Maine will have a permanent foundation for greatness surpassing any other State of New England."

A curious invention is to be tried in Paris. An iron tube is to be run up the side of the trees in the public gardens which require constant watering in summer. Up this tube water is to be forced so as to form an artificial shower when needed.

A little boy in Portland, while pulling hairs from a horse's tail, was kicked in the face and his nose broken and one of his eyes destroyed.

Hard rubber collars are to be the next novelty. A process of bleaching rubber has been discovered, and after hardening it can be made into collars, wristbands, &c., and the enthusiastic think they see the end of the paper collar business.

It is stated that after the completion of the mills now in course of erection in Fall River, that city will have more spindles than Lowell, and will be the first city in America in the amount of cotton goods manufactured.

The total amount of property destroyed by fire in the United States, during the past six months, is estimated at $44,000,000.

The Newbern (N. C.) papers speak of corn-stalks 16 1/2 feet high in that neighborhood, and of grapes ripened in the open air as early as July 25.

A sort of plague has broken out in a village near Suez. The victims drop in the streets as if they were shot. Their appearance at first is that of brown paper, and immediately afterwards they become as black as charcoal.

PROFITABLE HENS AND CHICKENS.

The following may be interesting to some of your numerous readers, more especially when they read this article to know that it is full of truth, and happened in Quincy.

On January 10th, 1866, we set one hen on twelve hens eggs. On February 1st—three weeks and one day—the hen came off with nine chickens. One of them was killed accidentally in two weeks from that time; leaving four roosters and four pullets. On the 15th of June one of the pullets commenced to lay, and has laid twenty eggs, and has been wanting to set for the past ten or twelve days. Two other pullets of the same brood have been laying for several days. Our hens are common fowls, blue and white speckled, not over large, but they lay a very large egg, and are constant layers—having received two thousand four hundred and sixteen eggs, in one hundred and fifty-one days from twenty-four hens.—G. D. N.

NEW MUSIC. Waterfall and Frizzen, a hit at the fashions; arranged for the voice and piano; with a laughing chorus in which all are provoked to take a part. Also, a new temperance ode, set to music, entitled "Glorious News," a reformation song—whose notes have been sounded at most temperance gatherings, and is said to be doing much good. Published by Adams & Co., 21 Bromfield street, Boston.

VALUATION OF DORCHESTER AND TAUNTON. The Assessors have completed the valuation of the polls and estates, and their returns exhibit the following statistics:—whole number of polls, 2586; valuation of personal estate, $5,549,000; valuation of real estate, $8,586,900.—Rate of taxation $10 on $1000; total valuation of property $14,135,900. These figures indicate an increase in the valuation of real estate over that of last year of $486,800, and in personal estate of $897,100.

The total valuation of the city of Taunton this year is $9,307,613; valuation last year, $7,972,682—increase, $1,334,931. The rate of taxation has been fixed at $16 on $1000, which is $1 70 less than last year. Poll tax, $2. The number of polls this year is 3665, showing an increase of 306 over last year.

THE LADY'S FRIEND. "Harvest Time," the harvest time of life, as well as of the season—is the appropriate steel engraving of the AUGUST number of this beautiful periodical. The double and finely colored steel fashion plate is a gem, as usual. Then we have the usual number of woodcuts illustrating the "Street Arabs," and the latest fashions in dresses, bonnets, hats, &c. The music is in the song of "Childhood and Home." Among the literary contributions, we note "One Summer's Romance," by Clara Augusta; "The Banisher," by Mrs. Hosmer; "The Disputed Patrimony," by Aubrey Forester; "The Distressed Bachelor," (concluded), by Mrs. Oliphant; Novellets, Receipts, Fashions, &c.

Price $2.50 a year. Address, Deacon & Peterson, 319 Walnut street, Philadelphia.

Cholera Mixture.

C. C. JOHNSON would inform the Public,
that he has, by the influence of a friend,
through the German Consul, a prescription of
Dr. Schroder, of Germany, for the cure of the Cholera, who has used it with the greatest
success in more than seven thousand cases.

Dr. Schroder says, "I have seen the Cholera in all its forms, and seen the effect of the alcohol, opium, &c., and none of them are to be relied upon. I have used this mixture with perfect success when the patient has been sick early."

Dr. Cox of New York, when the Cholera was rife there, said, "If a person has a diarrhoea, he already has the Cholera, and a remedy should be administered immediately, not wait until he is seized with those dreadful
cramps in his arms and legs, which soon hurry
him into the collapse stage when remedies are
of no avail."

All persons who go into the country or to the seashore should avail themselves of this mixture, when they will have the satisfaction
of knowing that in case they should be afflicted
with diarrhea, that they have a remedy on hand to cure them.

Poetry.

For the Patriot.

The Parting of Ellen Montgomery and John Humphreys.

ELLEN:

O, take me home dear brother,
I cannot, cannot stay,
I never thought you'd leave me,
So far from home away;
O, speak the word that tells me,
So far from home away;
That word would cheer and comfort,
Your sister's aching heart.

JOHN:

I shall miss you sadly darling,
From our once happy home,
Without its dearest treasure,
'Twill be an empty one.
Would I had power to keep thee,
Forever by my side;
May holy angels guard thee,
When we are sundered wide.

ELLEN:

You will not let me always,
So far from you remain;
You'll come across the ocean,
And take me home again;
What shall I do without you?
I miss you every day.
I have no one to guide me,
When you are far away.

JOHN:

Wait patiently dear sister,
You shall not long remain,
I'll come, if God is willing,
And take you home again;
The Saviour, gentle sister,
Will all thy burdens bear,
He watches tenderly o'er all,
Committed to his care.

THE PRAYER:

I thank Thee, Holy Father,
For the treasure Thou hast given,
Pour on her gentle spirit,
The richest gifts of Heaven;
One boon I crave, O let it not,
Ascend Thy throne in vain,
Spare Thou our lives, dear Father,
That we may meet again.

EGG BREAD. Beat four eggs very light, and stir into a pint of sweet or sour milk with a little soda in it; mix in a large spoon of butter. Over a quart of sifted meal pour enough hot water to scald it, stirring it to a stiff, smooth mass.
Mix this into the milk, beat it well, and bake it in a pan or muffin rings. Very good bread can be made by the above recipe without eggs if soda and sour milk be used.

THE Rev. Dr. B—, of —, while introducing to the audience, Rev.
Dr. S—, the famous missionary from India, (his home by birth,) concluded his remarks with the following left-handed compliment:—"He comes to you from that land where every prospect pleases, and only man is vile." The modest missionary arose and blushing rendered his thanks amid the irrepressible mirth of the audience.

Children are the spring-time of the future, and the love which their artlessness and innocence inspires is one of the purest feelings of our nature.

Saxe, the joker and poet was once taking a trip on a steamer when he fell in with a lively young lady, to whom he made himself very agreeable. Of course he made an impression on the damsel, who said at parting, "Good bye, Mr.
Saxe, I fear you'll soon be forgetting me." "Ah, miss," said the inveterate punster, "if I was not a married man already, you may be sure I'd be for getting you."

CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC. There was, "once upon a time," an old pilferer Down East, on whom all thefts, far and near, were at once charged, when his loss was discovered. The old fellow bore the universal "ons" patiently for a time; but finding that in some instances he was suffering for the sins of others, he issued a Caution to the Public in the usual form.
"I hereby forbid all persons, from this date, to steal on my account and risk.
I am no longer accountable for their trespasses, as I have more than I can account for of my own."

A clergyman in a recent sermon said the path of rectitude had been travelled so little of late years that it had completely run to grass. "Why ain't they cheeper then?" soliloquized Digby.

There are two ways of being rich; raise your revenue to the level of your desires, or lower your desires to the level of your revenue.

He alone is wise who accommodates himself to all the contingencies of life; but the fool contends, and is always struggling like a swimmer with the stream.

Throughout all Nature, God has set up a standard, toward which the proud art of man may strive, but never reach.

Learn in childhood, if you can, that happiness is not outside, but in. A good heart and a clear conscience bring happiness, which no riches and no circumstances alone ever do.

AN OLD LADY'S STORY.

"Monsieur does not care to hear an old woman's stupid story; perhaps it would not interest him."

"Indeed, madam, I am all anxiety. I hope madam's great kindness will not disappoint me."

"Well, sir, as you so much wish, you shall hear. I was born in this town, and have always lived in it. I was married to a townsman, and here my son Fritz was born. I hope I shall die in it, and be buried with my friends. My father was a very respectable man and a member of the town council. He was a great linen weaver, and was thought to be a rich man. People in those days were more prudent than they are now, Sir. My father used himself to work at the loom. I was the youngest of the children—so I was a great darling; the others had all died, except one son, who was a few years older than I. What with my mother's loss and Albert's disobedience my father was a great deal broken, and was obliged to neglect his affairs, which soon fell into disorder. He doted on me, notwithstanding I was but a silly girl, with my head stuffed full of my own beauty, and all my lovers—for I was very handsome, Sir. They used to say I was the prettiest maid in all Strasbourg; and when any new officer came to the garrison he always made some excuse to come to the house to see me. I did not care for any of them;
but I used to like to see their fine coats come down the street, and to hear the jingling of their spurs upon the pavement, because of our neighbor opposite, a notary's son, who had been my playfellow, and who used, I knew, to sit behind the blind at his desk, watching every one that came in and out. When we were children, the neighbors said that we should one day be married; but as we grew up he became shy, and I used to laugh at him, so that we were not very good friends, and I liked to tease him better than any thing else in the world. I was now a young woman, but very thoughtless and gay, and still loved my father dearly, and tried to make him forget his trouble about Albert, who was just as bad as ever.

"I was sitting one day at the open window, singing at my work, just to vex Carl, when my father came in, looking so sorrowful that I knew directly that something was the matter. 'Elizabeth, my child,' said he, 'we are ruined—our good name is gone, and we shall be a by-word and disgrace in the place where we were born. It is well that your poor mother did not live to see this day!'

"It is no good for me to tremble with a long story, so I will only say that my wicked brother had brought all this sorrow upon us. He had been going on in a desperate way of extravagance for a long time, and taking advantage of my father's age and weakness in every way, but he had never done so bad a deed as this before. The way of it was this, Sir:
'My father had a large sum of money, belonging to his guild in his hands, and Albert had, by forging his name, got it from the banks, and gone off with it, no one knew where. This money would be demanded on a certain day about a month distant, and our good honest reputation forever forfeited if it could not be produced; for no one would believe, said my father, from the state of his own affairs, that he did not know all about it from the first. Well, sir, we cried, and talked, and thought of every thing; but the only hope we could fix on was, that a sister of my father's who was a rich widow, living in Paris, might lend it to us, for the sake of the family. We none of us knew much about her, but it was the last chance; so, after a great many plans, it was settled that I should set off by the diligence the next morning, and go to her. It was not the fashion then to trust much to the post; for we used to get letters very seldom, and people always did their own business themselves, although journeys were long and dangerous, and not taken except for very important reasons. It was a great undertaking for a young creature who had never been outside her own town; but there was no help for it, as my father could not possibly go; besides, I had plenty of spirit, and, I suppose, rather liked the idea of the adventure. In a few hours after, my place was taken, my intended journey was raised abroad, and all the neighbors were full of curiosity about it. We said that I was going unexpectedly to see my aunt; but there was a vast deal of envy and spite among them.
Poor Carl stood at his window, and walked up and down before the house all day, but I never noticed him; young girls are such silly things, sir, and never like a young man to know the truth. I only just nodded to him as I stood at the gate, and said,
'Good-by, Carl; see what a fine husband
I shall bring home from Paris!'

"Well, I won't trouble you with my adventures. I got to town very well, and found out my aunt, who was very glad to see me, and who would have liked me to stay with her all my life. I had a fine time; until at last it only wanted four days to the time when the money had to be paid, and the journey took three; so off I started with great joy, carrying the sum in bank notes with me. At this time the roads were extremely dangerous, being full of robbers. It was seldom that a diligence was not stopped on its way, and all travellers brought home stories of their dangers or escapes; so, to secure my treasure, my aunt and I settled that it would be better for me to place it between my foot and my stocking, where it would never be looked for, even in case of an attack. I was never much afraid of any thing, and made very merry with the good lady's fears, but did as she desired, and set off. I made the sixth person in the interior. There was a priest going to Strasbourg; a young man and his sister going to Strasbourg; a manufacturer; and an old Jew who wrapped himself up in his pe-lisse, and seemed to sleep all the way.

We soon got very chatty, and tried to frighten each other with stories about robbers and murders, and told of the ingenious way in which travellers had concealed their valuables. I, being young and giddy, as I have told you, and excited by the talk, which was very free and friendly, with great pride told of my hoard, and where I carried it. I had scarcely said the words, when I felt I had been very foolish, for I saw the old man look around with a strange, sharp look, that somewhat frightened me. Well, sir, we went on, stopping to dine and rest, and as friendly and merry a party we were as ever you saw, except the Jew, who kept to himself in his corner, listening to all our nonsense, but never saying a word.

"The priest's place at Nancy was taken by an officer going on to Strasbourg, and we went on happier than ever, until we passed through the town of Mogevine, and found ourselves in the wild, open country lying between that and Strasbourg. As for me, I was so gay at the thought of being so near home, and making my poor father so happy, that I laughed and sang like a giddy child. It was now quite dark, and had become very wild, a strong wind blowing across the heath from the distant mountain. Suddenly with a jerk, the horses were pulled up, and loud shouts and oaths told us our misfortune;
we had scarcely time to think, before the door was torn open and we were dragged out. As for the officer who had talked exceedingly bravely, he never offered resistance, but cried out for mercy. The young man who was with his sister fired his pistol; but it was of no use, for he was surrounded and disarmed in a moment. I was, as you may suppose, half-dead with terror, for we were completely at the mercy of these men, who dragged all the baggage down and instantly began to ransack it; all our things were thrown into a heap, and they selected every article of value. The Jew was certainly a great disappointment to them, for all they found of his was a little valise containing some worthless clothes, and a few Russian roubles. While they were threatening and swearing at him, a man rudely took my arm, and shaking me violently, demanded my money.

"Leave the girl alone," said another of them; "how should a child like that have money?"

"I now began to experience a hope of escape, and ventured to look about me;
they had taken the horses and were trying the traces round the old man's neck.
Perhaps they were only trying to frighten him, and perhaps they were really savoring from disappointment. But, oh, sir, it was a dreadful scene in the dark night, not knowing which of our turns might come next. At last he screamed out, 'Stay, stay, and I will tell you, as I am a living man, where I have hid my money. The little girl carries it all, a great sum, under her stocking.' In a moment, sir, they were roaring like wild beasts around me, and took my shoe and stocking off. I did not remember any thing more until I came out of my faint, and found that we were

"Now, sir, upon your oath, I wish to know who those persons are."
"Well, I guess you've tried 'bout as hard as any of them."
The witness was dismissed, while judge, jury and spectators indulged in a hearty laugh.

The Quincy Patriot.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 18, 1866.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We."

PIC-NIC. It will be seen by our columns to-day that the annual picnic of the Universalist Society and Sunday School takes place at Abington on Thursday next. A good time is expected.

THE EVENING CONCERTS of the Quincy Brass Band are becoming very popular with our people, and are looked for with no small interest. The Band was in fine tune on Wednesday evening, and every thing passed off harmoniously.

THE TIGER ENGINE COMPANY are going on an excursion to Hough's Neck to-day. The Quincy Brass Band accompanied them. With a fine sea breeze, enchanting scenery, the good cheer of friends, and the exhilarating music of our excellent Band, we bespeak for them a glorious time.

PICNICS AND PLEASURE PARTIES during the past few days have put the population under all in motion. Daily may be seen passing our office, vehicles of every imaginable description, with living freight of happy faces, wending their way to the sea shore, or some other favorite resort of pleasure. Perry has mounted his box, and with his four-horse team, and Hall with his fashionable turnouts, are making themselves useful as escorts for excursionists. But the late cold rain, has thrown a damper on such amusements, which waits a brighter sun and clearer sky to make all merry and lively again.

SOMETHING NEW. The Combination Strainer and Lard Press for straining and pressing lard and tallow, berries for making wines, hot liquids, &c., is a new and very useful article for housekeepers. It is simple, durable and economical, and "is what every family needs." They are for sale in this town by Messrs. C. F. & J. W. Pierce, on Hancock street. Our citizens will do well to call and examine this useful invention, as we feel confident they will not leave the store without taking one of these valuable articles.

POSTPONED. The Pic-Nic of the Sunday Schools of the St. John's and St. Patrick's Society of this town, which was to have taken place on Thursday last at Abington Grove, has been postponed on account of the weather, to Tuesday next. The services of the Quincy Brass Band have been engaged—and every thing now promises a pleasant day, favorable for pleasure and amusement.

PERSONAL. We are sorry to learn that one of our prominent and enterprising citizens, Edwin B. Pratt, Esq., is quite dangerously sick with typhoid fever.

PISCATORY. We learn that a party of townsmen, consisting of Messrs. Spear, Davenport, Bass and Marsh met with excellent success, while fishing one day last week near the mouth of Black's Creek. The party succeeded in catching forty-seven as fine bass as we ever saw or could wish, if we can judge from the sample they brought to our residence.

THE TAX ON BOOTS AND SHOES.—"Perley" telegraphs to the Boston Journal as follows:

"Some misunderstanding exists in regard to the tax on boots and shoes, and in answer to many inquiries I will state that upon all sales of boots and shoes made before the first of August, six per cent. will be charged. After the first of August the tax will be two per cent. upon all kinds of boots and shoes of every description of manufacture and of material."

THE PLEASURE SEASON at the White Mountains has been brought suddenly to a close. There has been a succession of disagreeable rain storms during the last week or ten days, and the thermometer on the 14th fell to 32. Visitors are leaving.

ROXBURY TAXATION. The rate of taxation in Roxbury this year is sixteen dollars on a thousand, being a reduction of five dollars from last year.

The first telegraph message from Boston to England by the Atlantic cable, was transmitted by Messrs. Banker & Carpenter, No. 107 State street, at a cost of one hundred dollars in gold.

THE COTTON CROP. A Memphis dispatch says the reports of the cotton crop from the South are better than they have been at any time for the last three months. Many are so confident in their estimate of the coming crop that they do not hesitate to place it at 3,000,000 bales.

PAYMENT OF STOLEN BONDS. Gen. Spinner, U. S. Treasurer, has decided that the only protection to the owner against the payment of a bond or seventy-third note that may have been stolen is by entering a caveat at the office of the Secretary of the Treasury.

Coupons are negotiable at all times as a bank note, and will be paid in the hands of a third party and bona fide holders, even in the case where it is known that they have been stolen.

TOBACCO RAISING. An enterprising freedman, Wm. Chase, is raising a very promising crop of tobacco in Dedham, Mass., on a piece of ground belonging to E. Stone, Esq.

BASE BALL.

The following is a report of a match game of Base Ball, played on Saturday last, August 11, 1866, between the ACTIVE B. B. CLUB of Quincy and the MECHANIC B. B. CLUB of Quincy, on the grounds of the latter at Milton Railway.

THE FOLLOWING IS THE SCORE.

Time of Game, four hours and thirty minutes.

It is needless to make any remarks on the game, as it was very evident from the first that the Mechanics were overmatched. The pitching and catching of Jones and Elocok were very good indeed. Thompson's play at 2d Base was capital, as also Bradbury's on 3d Base. J. Thompson played very well at left field, a very fine fly-catch being to his credit. Cary met with an accident and Barry filled his place; as also Farrell and Brogan played C. F. and S. S. respectively very well. Of the Actives, Perkins pitched in his usual good and effective manner. McGrath was as quiet as usual behind Dunbar at 3d Base, and Hayden at 2d Base was all that could be desired. Arnold as Short Stop, and French in the Centre Field were always there; and Whichey looked out for the R. F. Maxim on L. F. was excellent, and a fly on the run was done in fine style. But the play of the field was Chandler at 1st Base—it was all that could be desired. Mr. W. F. Johnson gave a bat to the player, making the best score, and it was carried off by Mr. Chandler.

Of the umpire, an unfortunate decision on a foul ball made one tally the less for the Mechanics perhaps, but we have no doubt that he was honest and thoroughly impartial.

Refreshing lemonade and ice water was very liberally furnished by the Mechanics, and every thing passed off very satisfactorily to all concerned. The game was very long. One innings, that of the Actives, the sixth, was over one hour in length. A good time and a happy affair, and all passed off as it should.

AUGUST 14TH, 1866. A friendly game of Base Ball was played this afternoon between the 2d nine of the Actives and the 1st nine of the Quicksteps, resulting in a victory for the 2d nine by a score of 39 to 26, in a game of eight Innings. Mr. Chandler was umpire. Darkness put an end to the game. Baker's play at Left Field was fine as usual; two Fly Catches being done in good shape; Bigelow at second was good and Turner was at home on the 1st Base, or as pitcher; it was a very pleasant game. Every thing passed off very well.

MASSACHUSETTS IN THE REBELLION.

This most important contribution to the History of the late struggle, is now on the point of publication by its projector, Walker, Fuller & Co., Boston. The scope and plan of the work has been extended, and the number of portraits on steel increased from twelve, as was first proposed, to thirty-two. It will be a book appealing to the just pride of every Massachusetts man at least, as one to be owned and treasured. Issued in a style worthy its intrinsic value, it cannot fail to reach a sale of many thousand copies.

LARGE SALARY. $10,000 a year is the salary of Mr. Stearns, the new President of the Old Colony and Newport railroad. The Boston Commercial argues that it is not too much for the management of what has now become one of the largest railroad corporations in New England, and says that cheap railway superintendents are the most expensive.

GREAT FRESHET IN WESTERN VIRGINIA. On the 13th, Wheeling and a circuit of about fifteen miles was visited by a most destructive rain storm. It came down in torrents; and the water rose to such a height that bridges, and even houses were swept away. A family consisting of seven persons, by the name of Robertson, residing six miles out of the city, on the National road, were swept away by the flood, and all perished. A man and woman were killed by lightning in the city.

A SNAKE STORY. An Iowa lady while breaking some hen's eggs, was startled to see a small snake six inches long and as large as a pipe stem come out of one of the eggs. The yolk was perfect and the snake was coiled up in the white of the egg.

A NARROW ESCAPE. As a morning train on the Old Colony Railroad, was approaching the East and West Bridge-water station, on Tuesday last, a lad of 14 years, on an Express wagon, became frightened and jumped off, alighting upon the track. His team cleared the track, but before he could get off he was struck by the cow catcher and thrown a short distance, escaping with a few bruises only.

POISONED. On Sunday last, an English family at Hyde Park, Dorchester, were poisoned by eating toadstools, mistaken for mushrooms. The whole family, consisting of the man and wife and three children, are all very ill, the woman dangerously so. Several physicians were called, but were unable to afford relief.

NORFOLK REPRESENTATIVE DISTRICT. The Commissioners have made their appointment of the representation of the County, excluding Colchester, which, for the purpose of representation, has been joined to Plymouth County. The statement we published last week was incorrect; the only change made is one additional representative for Roxbury; it is therefore as follows:—

Districts. No. of Rep.

No. 1. Dedham 1

" 2. West Roxbury 1

" 3. Wards 2, 3, 4 and 5, City of Roxbury 3

THE CANADIAN CROPS. The Montreal Witness says that from all accounts the crops are likely to be abundant in Canada this season. The hay crop was good, fall wheat yielded well, spring wheat will be a large crop, the other grains promise well, and corn and potatoes look finely.

WHEAT FOR DISTRIBUTION. The Agricultural Department is in receipt of two hundred bushels of very superior Bouton wheat, which it is proposed to distribute. It is the earliest variety known in the country, and its great advantage is that it escapes the fly and rust.

Watermelons are selling at eight dollars per hundred in Washington.

The President and a part of his Cabinet it is said will make a journey west as far as Chicago, during the present month.

The rush to our fashionable summer resorts has not been so great up to last accounts as in former years. Preparations were made for a large increase of visitors which has not been realized.

QUEEN EMMA, ex-Empress of Hawaii is on a visit to Washington. She is the recipient of gratifying attentions from the Government and other distinguished sources. The Queen is said to be intelligent, refined in her manners, and quite a lioness in her way.

A BIG CHEESE. Messrs. Henry & Harris of Canada have manufactured a cheese at the Ingersoll factory that weighs three and a half tons. It measures six feet eight inches in breadth, and three feet in thickness. The milk used in the manufacture weighed 35 tons, and was furnished by 800 cows. This King of Cheeses will be placed on exhibition at the Provincial Fair to be held next month at Toronto.

A NEW PEST AMONG FARMERS.—Within a few days past the farmers in this vicinity have discovered that their mowing-fields and pastures are infested with myriads of dung worms, completely destroying the soil, and threatening the complete destruction of grass lands. We have been informed that they have commenced their ravages on the Potato crop. We hope some means may be devised to stay their progress, but at present the prospect looks dubious.—Abington Standard.

A black woman in Georgia has just brought a suit against a black man for breach of promise of marriage—the first example of the kind known in that State.

LINES

Written on the death of CARRIE F. ALLEN

Most we part with her forever?

Will her fair, young face, no more

Meet our eager, longing vision?

Is her life thus early o'er?

Have we looked, while weeping round her,

On her face a last adieu?

Shall we hear no more the story,

Often told, yet ever new?

Shall we never in the future,

Morning, noon, or twilight sweet,

Never hear again the falling,

Of the ready little feet?

Vain are all these sad, sad queries,

Vain are all our sighs and tears;

We must sadly miss our darling,

Through the long, long coming years.

Let us turn from our deep sorrow,

Our own loss, to her great gain,

For to-day in perfect rapture,

Freed from earthly ills and pain.

She is dwelling bright and lovely,

In the realms of endless day.

Where—O, thought of balm for anguish—

She can never go astray.

She is dwelling calm and happy,

On the brighter, heavenly shore.

We shall meet there, blissful meeting,

When the soul of life is o'er.

Summary Intelligence.

The Wabash (Ind.) Express states that the prospect of a tremendous crop has given an extraordinary impetus to the hog trade, and feeders all over the State are industriously engaged in buying up stock hogs for fall and winter feeding.

The Richmond (Va.) Dispatch, says an engineer is about to examine the Dutch Gap Canal, which was dug under the orders of General Butler, with a view to deepening it so that river boats can pass through.

The keeper of a popular boarding-house in Chicago last week collected a month's board in advance from forty boarders, on plea of visiting a sick sister in Ohio, and then disappeared. She was greatly in arrears to butcher, baker, grocer and servants, and the feeling of sorrow at her departure is very general.

HARD ON THE TAX COLLECTOR. A story is told by the correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette, that in a certain county in Oregon, the Chinamen had learned to know the tax collector, and paid without suspicion whenever he came round; but knowing that attempts were made to impose upon them, of course regarded everybody as a swindler. An election resulted in another official being chosen, and when he attempted to collect they refused to pay. He was rather peremptory, whereupon they seized him, tied his wrists and ankles together, and thrusting a pole between them, several of the Celestials lifted the pole, and carrying him thus as they would a dressed pig, brought their captive up to town and gave him up to the proper authorities with a self-satisfied "much cat-chiee wallee," conscious of having at the same time rid themselves of an enemy, and rendered good service to the community. The joke was kept a good one, and we so mercifully kept alive by the friends of the victim, that the poor fellow was obliged in self-defence, to resign his office and quit the neighborhood.

THE ATLANTIC CABLE is now admitted on all hands, to be an entire success. Messages are daily transmitted over it with an accuracy that leaves no longer any room for doubt. A dispatch from St. Petersburg of the 12th, via of London, appeared in our morning papers of the 14th. The armistice between Austria and Italy has been renewed, but Prussia and Austria are not peacefully inclined; they yet have differences to settle that it is feared may lead to another conflict of arms. France, too, is bristling up for a fight. She demands that her boundaries be extended to the Rhine, by way of compromise, (which is objected to in some quarters) or else she threatens to let loose the dogs of war. Later accounts represent that a better feeling prevails.

THE CROPS. The extreme heat of the weather has been favorable for Indian corn, which has grown prodigiously, and which promises a great crop here. In the West it is said to be enormous beyond precedent. The hay crop is a very important one in Massachusetts, and is so unpromising that the price of hay is continually rising, being now fifty per cent. higher than it was a few weeks ago. In Boston it is quoted at thirty-five dollars a ton; and farmers are offered thirty dollars for it before it is put into the barn. The drought of the two last summers still show its influence; the deep springs are unfilled, and many trees show the effect of this, in their thin foliage and discolored and falling leaves.

Some pleasure seekers have discovered a point at Pontotoc lake in Pittsfield, that is said to rival in many respects the celebrated Echo lake at the White Mountains. Ten words spoken in usual voice and rapidly will echo back unbroken, and with perfect distinctness.

Mr. R. W. Undine of La Crosse, Wis., having quarrelled with his lady love, because she had another "fellow," sued her for goods presented to her, his bill being $13.50 for ring, fan, kids and confectionery. In court she offset his bill with her own for $13.75, viz:—for kerosene oil, seven months, $3; rent of parlor for sparking, $10.50; confectionery eaten by plaintiff, 25 cents. A mayor, an ex-mayor, a judge and a general were witnesses to prove the cost of the kerosene, &c. The judge allowed the offset, and Mr. Undine had to pay 25 cents, the difference between the bills, and also $13.62 for the costs of the suit.

N. B. FURNALD,

Poetry.

For the Patriot.

JOHN G. WHITTIER.

BY F. M. ADLINGTON—WEYMOUTH.

Peace, peace, the Christian poet cries,
In notes that wake the trumpet's sound,
Like the artillery of the skies,
That shakes the firmament around.

They sound above the highest hill,
And echo in the deepest dell;
Who hears must feel his pulses thrill,
Must feel his patriot bosom swell.

Peace, peace, he cries, let justice sleep,
Or waking-mercies voice obey,
In notes that tempt his sword to leap,
From out its sheath, his foes to slay.

Peace, peace, on earth—good will to all,
In peace maintain the truth and right;
But every note's a cannon ball,
And every truth a bugle call.

Yet has his tramp no dubious sound,
Justice in every pulse he feels,
While mercy clings his heart around,
And there they both have set their seals.

Farmers' Department.

MANAGEMENT OF FOWLS.

The question is often asked, how shall I make my hens lay when confined. In reply to such inquiries, I would say—that by selecting the best breed, and keeping them in well arranged coops—a small number in each apartment—and feeding them properly, as well as when at liberty. Some breeds will lay much better than others in coops. These breeds that possess a quiet disposition, and are not inclined to roam, are preferred. When fowls are kept confined, they require a variety of food. Grain, vegetables, and animal food of some kind, must be furnished, or they will cease laying. Coarse gravel or lime, in some form, should be kept in the coop; but, when allowed their liberty, where fowls have not been kept for a long time, it is unnecessary, for they can generally find sufficient quantity of gravel or lime for their purpose. The number kept together in one coop should not, under any circumstances, exceed fifteen; as a small number will thrive better. The coop should be light, dry, and well ventilated. It is very gratifying to know that there is a growing interest among our city and town people, as well as the farmers, in keeping a few fowls; they can find that five or six fowls can be kept upon the waste from a family, and supply them with that great luxury, fresh eggs. The quantity of poultry raised the past season, it may safely be said, has been more than doubled, compared with what it was five years ago, and much more care has been taken in the selection and breeding of thorough-bred fowls. Many are in favor of crosses; the first cross from pure fowls will improve them, but we cannot go beyond this with success—John S. Lee.

GRAPES.

Win. Saunders says he holds two undoubted facts in grape culture: 1st, that the best fruit is produced on the strongest and best ripened shoots, and 2d, that the shoots produced from spurts never mature so thoroughly as those produced from terminal buds. Further, that properly ripened fruit will never be produced from unripened wood. Fruit apparently well colored may be seen on green growths, but such fruit does not possess the characteristics of a well ripened bunch of grapes.

PRESERVING MILK. An easy way of preserving milk or cream sweet for a long time, or of removing the sourness when it has already come on, is to add to it a small quantity of common soda, pearlash or magnesia, of the druggist's shop.

Anecdotes.

Sir James McIntosh invited Dr. Parr to take a drive in his gig. The horse became restive.

"Gently, Jimmy," said the doctor, "don't irritate him; always soothe your horse, Jimmy. You'll do better without me. Let me down, Jimmy." Once on terra firma, the doctor's view of the case was changed. "Now, Jimmy, touch him up. Never let a horse get the better of you. Touch him up, conquer him, don't spare him—I'll walk back."

"Doctor," said a hard-looking customer the other day to a physician, "I am troubled with depression, an uneasiness about the breast. What do you suppose is the matter?"

"All very easily accounted for," said the physician; "you have water on the chest."

"Water! Come, that will do well enough for a joke, but how could I get water on my chest, when I haven't touched a drop for more than fifteen years?"

"One more question, Mr. Parks," said a counsellor to a witness, who happened to be a tailor. "You have known the defendant a long time; what are his habits—loose or otherwise?"

"The one he's on now, I think is rather tight under the arms, and too short waisted for the fashion," replied Parks.

"Stand down," said the counsel.

"Patrick, where's Bridget?"

"Indade, ma'am, she's fast asleep looking at the bread baking."

Three men were in company, Strange, Wright and More. Says Wright, "There is one rogue amongst us, and that is Strange."

"No," says More, "there is one more."

"Aye," says More, "that is right."

and all diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, and especially excellent in diseases peculiar to women. These waters being

Pure, Natural and Unadulterated,

May be taken with a safety which no artificial preparation can rival. Their effects are alike pleasant. Their preserving use will almost invariably restore health and vigor.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS, HOTELS,

WINE MERCHANTS, AND FIRST

CLASS GROCERS.

A Word with You, Reader!

Are you suffering from a Cough or any other affection of the organs of respiration? Is any member of your family, or any near and dear friend threatened with, or slowly declining from that terrible scourge of the human race,

CONSUMPTION?

Be warned in time! You have not a moment to lose. You may try all the remedies, or nostrums, ever vauntingly put forth as curatives of this malady. You may employ all the medical men in the universe. They can never cure you, and, even worse, retard the progress of the disease. They but lure you to a premature grave!

There is but one remedy yet known to medicine, that can cure CONSUMPTION in all its stages.

That remedy is

WINCHESTER'S

HYPOPHOSPHITES,

which act with invincible efficacy in all stages of Pulmonary Consumption.

MEDICAL TESTIMONY.

I have no doubt whatever of the superior efficacy of the HYPOPHOSPHITES in the treatment of Consumption, over all other medicines and methods hitherto discovered. I know of no other remedy or treatment which I have ever seen effect in this fatal malady. Anything more than a mitigation. Yet in stomach, female, frequent performance of a perfect cure, as prepared by yourself. I have seen many restored to their usual health and vigor. I would say to all who have any tendency to Consumption, or who are already afflicted with it, to purchase, use, and the sooner the better, W. W. W.

TOWNSEND, New York.

Prices—Large and 16 oz. bottles, $1 and $2 each. Three large or six small for $5. Sold by all respectable Druggists, and at wholesale by the Proprietors.

Cholera Mixture.
C. C. JOHNSON would inform the Public,
that he has, by the influence of a friend,
through the German Consul, for the cure of the Cholera, who has used it with the greatest
success in more than seven thousand cases.
Dr. Schroder says, "I have seen the Cholera in all its forms, and seen the effect of ice, alcohol, opium, &c., and none of them are to be relied upon. I have used this mixture with perfect success when the patient has been seen early."
Dr. Cox of New York, when the Cholera
was rife there, said, "If a person has a diarrhea, he already has the Cholera, and a remedy
should be administered immediately, not wait until he is seized with those dreadful
cramps in his arms and legs, which soon hurry
him into the collapse stage when remedies are
of no avail."
All persons who go into the country or to the seashore should avail themselves of this mixture, when they will have the satisfaction
of knowing that in case they should be afflicted
with diarrhea, that they have a remedy on hand to cure them.

FANNY JONES' SUNDAY LESSON.

Stand still, I say, why how you act, I cannot fix your bow,
You never will be dressed for school, if you keep acting so;
What's in your pocket? take it out, it is a doll, I row,
Why Fanny Jones, you wicked thing, well I have caught you now;
Pray tell me, did you really mean, to cheat your mother so?
What will become of such a child, I'm sure I do not know;
To take a doll to Sunday-School, to play with
on the way;
What is the matter with your curls? I cannot make them stay.
There that's the bell, 'tis half past nine, I know you may be late,
Now Fanny, you go straight along, and don't you stop to wait—
For Patty Smith and Sally Brown, they'll have their new hats on,
You look just like a beggar child, with your old shabby one.
Do you know the fourth commandment? that's what you learn to-day;
How can I fix you, when your head is turned the other way?
What's on your dress? I do declare, it is a burning shame—
I do believe it's butter, and your sash it is the same;
Well there! you'll be the death of me, pray
let me tie your shoe,
That nasty spot upon your dress, O dear what shall I do?
Don't you go in the kitchen, when you come home to-day,
And grease that handsome dress again,—remember what I say;
Now can you say your lesson? What, lost your book again?
I am ashamed of you to-day, you look so horrid plain.
I wish Miss Pratt would trim that hat, she has promised me so long;
That's not your card, why don't you see? it is that comic song.
You naughty girl, to lose that hymn, "God made the sky so blue;"
If you do,
There go along, and don't forget if you should see Miss Pratt,
To tell her that she must make haste, and finish your new hat;
There don't come back to kiss me, and don't you stop to play, Remember, you've been always taught to keep the Sabbath day.
MISSIE MAUDE.

Miscellany.

GRANDMOTHER'S STORY.

IMPRIMIS.—"Dear reader," have you a grandmother? If not, you are "poor," indeed. We read and talk of "perfect womanhood;" I think the most perfect type of womanhood is one's precious old grandmother. What matter if she is old fashioned; if her black silk gown, a quarter of a century old is out of style, and she enquires, in her innocent way, who Lindley Murray is?
Who cares if her visits to the parlor are some what mal a propos, and her use of the Queen's English raises upon sensitive ears? We know that the same voice which says, "Girls, that ain't no bonnet at all,"
You might just as well tie a handkerchief over your head," has also said, "God bless you, darling," scores and scores of times, and came, with soft words, between "ourselves" and our mother's "righteous indignation" more times than we could number. Isn't her placid face, which speaks only of peace on earth, and good will to men," the finest engraving in the house? Isn't she our grandmother? the "sweetest-blooded, warmest-hearted, happiest, hope-fullest creature" that ever kept peace in a household?
"What are you crying for?" said Ned to Willie.
"Oh! I have broken a vase, and mother will be offended," answered the boy, weeping afresh.
"Crying for that!" Ned said, with extreme surprise and a little contempt—
"Why, Willie, haven't you got a grandmother?"
"Yes," Willie answered, wiping his tears on a slightly-soiled handkerchief.
"Well, what are you crying for, then?"
I have two grandmothers—and I'd like to see my mother whip me!"
We had come in from a run across the moor, my sister Hattie and I, full of a tale
we had to tell grandmother, of a wretched drunkard who had waylaid us in the loneliest part of the moor, demanding alms, that he might "drink and drown the devil at his heart," he said, with a sickening oath.
"He was in such a state of intoxication, grandmother, that he could scarcely cross himself," we said, "and he would have fallen in and been drowned, the wretched creature." Hattie added, with all the vim of a school girl.
"Hattie, you grieve me by such intemperate language," grandmother said, in her gentle voice, her sweet face taking on a look of pain.
Hattie's arms were round her neck in a moment, and her warm lips pressed grandmother's faded cheek.
"I did not mean to grieve you, grandmother. I did not think you would care about this miserable, bloated, disfigured drunkard;" and Hattie shivered as his face passed before her mental vision.
"Hattie, I knew a woman who has pillowed that poor disfigured head on her bosom, who has seen him go in and out before her for ten long years, and never reproached him or flung the complaint in her Maker's face that it was hard to bear."
"Do you know him, grandmother?"
We exclaimed, in utter amazement.
"Yes, I knew Walter Sloan when he was a prosperous, happy man. When life lay spread out before him like one long Indian summer, bearing no prophetic whisper of the gloom which lay folded in the future. Poor Walter!"
"I shouldn't have lived with him the half of ten years. I should have left him to his fate," Hattie said—her proud lip curling and her delicate nostrils quivering with pride.
"She did leave him, Hattie," grandmother said, looking over her spectacles sadly at the impulsive girl; "but it was when the pains of her life grew too hard for her to bear."
"Where did she go, grandmother?"
"Home! childie—home to heaven!"
"Oh, grandmother!" and Hattie's tears flowed in pity for the woman she had never known.
"Tell us all about her, grandmother?"
said I, breathlessly, drawing nearer to Hattie.
"Don't cry, Hattie; the woman's dead, and out of trouble long ago," I said nervously.
Grandmother, pushing her spectacles to the top of her dear old head, and taking up her "knitting work," continued:
"I remember, as if it were but yesterday the night before she died. Walter had gone over to the 'Golden Lamb' with a comrade, and I could see that Elsie was ill at ease.
"Walter had never touched the fatal poison since New Year's Day, and this was Easter, and all for love of Elsie.
She had been ill, and his terrible grief at the thought of losing her had made her doubly precious to him. He fought man-fully against the tempter, keeping very close to Elsie's side, as if conscious that there alone was safety.
"Elsie was a pretty woman, and, with the new hope that had sprung up in her heart came renewed health and roses to her cheek and lip. She went round the house, like a girl, singing 'Auld Robin Gray,' and 'Bonnie Dundee,' stopping to fling her white arms round Walter's broad shoulders, or hold up her sweet mouth for a kiss; ah! she was very sweet, was Elsie Sloan!"
"Go on, grandmother."

BASE BALL.

A game took place on Saturday afternoon last, between the second nines of the Actives and Mechanics on the ground of the latter at the Railway. It lasted four hours and ten minutes, resulting in a tie. Owing to the darkness another innings to decide the game, could not be played. The contest will be renewed however at an early day. The playing of the two sides was nearly equal in every particular. The scoring was as follows:—

Names. Mechanics. H. L. Runs.

THE THUNDER SQUALL on Wednesday was the most violent that has been experienced here for many years. The cloud rose in the northwest, and for the space of an hour the rain came down in torrents—the wind blowing almost a hurricane, and the hail rattling against our windows like a volley of small shot. Some of the hailstones were nearly as large as walnuts. There was but little lightning and thunder—and no accident that we heard of, except a runaway horse, whose master unaccountably left him out to buffet the storm.

RAIN! RAIN! The weather has been very unsettled during the past week—there has been scarcely a day that we have not been visited by rain. No safe calculation can be made about it. The Universalist Picnic at Abington Grove came off on Thursday. They started in fair weather, but were overtaken by a storm; which was a great disappointment.

PROBATE COURT. A session of this Court will be held in this town on Tuesday next, at the Town House.

THE CONCERT at the Town Hall on Tuesday evening last by the "Blind Boy" of Braintree, drew a respectable audience, who duly appreciated the vocal powers of the amateur performer. At the close of the exhibition, an appeal was made to the charity of the benevolent, and a collection taken up, which resulted in a sum of money for the support of this truly object of our sympathy.

THE TOLLER. Mr. Joseph Lombard, of this town, has at his establishment, a superior article of Cologne, manufactured from an approved recipe, which every lady and gentleman should have in their toilet. We have tested its virtues and can personally speak of its merits.

THE OLD COLONY AND FALL RIVER BONDS. On Monday the Old Colony and Fall River Railroad Company offered their bonds for a new loan of $1,000,000 all of which were at once taken by the banking house of Kidder, Peabody & Co., No 40 State street. They have since offered these bonds to the public, and the following sums have been taken:—By the Provident Savings Institution $200,000; Suffolk Savings Bank, $100,000; Five Cents Savings Bank in School street, $100,000; Trustees of the Ebenezer Francis Estate, $100,000. The remainder is now offered to the public.

THE HANCOCK DRAMATIC AND MUSICAL CLUB is deserving the thanks of our citizens for the devotion and perseverance in supplying the public from week to week with excellent music. The Band furnishes new and patriotic pieces and with a skill that shows that they intend to be masters of their instruments.

CABLE BUSINESS. There were twelve messages received at the New York Telegraph office for Europe in one day, for which the sum of $1,313 in gold was paid.

STEAMBOAT FOR NANTUCKET. The new and commodious steamer Ulysses, Capt. A. W. Clenden, leaves the foot of India Wharf, Boston, three times a day for Nantucket. Fare 35 cents each way. No short excursion out of Boston is more delightful, especially in a hot day, than a sail down the harbor and back, in this swift and staunch little steamer. Let any one tired of labor spend a day in this way, and he will see that for those who cannot take long vacations, we have recreation close at hand that is full of enjoyment without weariness. For further particulars see advertisement.

The excellent prospects of the cranberry crops throughout South Jersey the present year are so encouraging that double the number of acres will be placed under cultivation next year. The prospects of a fine crop on Cape Cod are very favorable.

LIFE AT SARATOGA.

Crescent House, Saratoga Springs, August 21, 1866.

We are now in the height of the season. The weather is very cool and comfortable. The bulk of the company will be on the move by the first of September, and this village will then resume its accustomed quiet. Fifty thousand have probably visited the Springs this year, a much smaller number than usual, owing to various causes. Gayety, fashion and folly reign at the Clarendon, Union and other leading hotels. Our old quarters at the Crescent seem all the more welcome for the pleasant memories that cluster about them. Still further enlargements are contemplated by Dr. Hamilton, which will enable him to accommodate the large numbers which crowd this popular house. We doubt whether any hotel can boast a company of fine singers. Jerome Hopkins, Eugene Travvins and other professional musicians are here, and our matinees and soirees are treats. An extensive library is accessible. By the way, one of the most entertaining of our new publications is from the Hartford Publishing Company, "Incidents of the Rebellion," by Kirkland, which is having a great sale. It is a capital book for vacation reading, and will take a place in our permanent literature.

It is said to see the ruins here or so many hotels. Some half dozens or more have been burned; "Pavilion," "Marvin," "States," "Congress," "Columbian" and "Bedford." One or two are rebuilt and another year will see more erected. The Congress Spring is of course the favorite resort for the drinkers, but it cannot always hold the monopoly. The "star" is coming up and the "Excelsior" appears as another rival. The latter is worthy notice. Dr. Smith of Philadelphia affirms that it is ahead of anything in America or Europe, as a pleasant and efficient saline laxative. An omnibus makes trips to and from the Spring, or Mr. Charles Cooper with his fine open carriage will take parties thither, making a pleasant drive of four miles in all.

The lake is beautiful as ever; we have enjoyed two trips to it and shall carry away pleasant images of its quiet repose and beauty. Omnibuses run for fifty cents, round trip, or a party may charter a private barouche for an afternoon or early morning drive at about the same expense.

We had the pleasure of hearing Drs. Cheever of New York and Green of Toronto preach one Sabbath, and Dr. Cuyler of Brooklyn another. Some twenty clergymen were in Dr. Sawtelle's congregation last Sabbath, whom we were, in his absence, unexpectedly called to face, and that too, without any manuscript weapons.

Saratoga is a study. Though the races are over, the human "race" presents a marvellous picture of ever-varying interest. But of that another time. We are just starting for Lake Champlain and the delightful, though as yet unopened, Au Sable River, near Plattsburg, New York.

MERLIN.

PLEASURE PARTIES. The postponement of the annual visit of the St. Patrick's and St. John's Societies to Abington from last week to the present, was most fortunate; the day selected was one of the most delightful of the season; it was taken from between two showers, the rain of Monday and the heavy storm on Wednesday; their was cool and invigorating—bewitchingly enticing for outdoor pleasures. At a few minutes past nine, the train which was to take them to the grounds came up from Boston, and the large crowd—school children and their teachers, parents, uncles and aunts, maidens and matrons, old and young—stepped aboard the cars, and moved off amid the greetings of friends, stopping at South Quincy, Braintree, and Weymouth, to take up other detachments, which increased their numbers to a very large party—between seven and eight hundred. On the arrival of the cars at the grounds, the company alighted, and with valises in hand, ribbons flying, tripped off to the music of the Band, making the stillness of the Grove vocal, with the hum of merry voices. Abington Grove is certainly a lovely spot; with its tall and majestic pines; no undergrowth—but a soft and natural carpet to walk on; romantic scenery, wild as nature left it—and a silvery lake which washes its shores, no wonder it has become celebrated as a summer resort with the public. The proprietor, Mr. Norris, was present to welcome his visitors; and after a few toilet arrangements, they separated—some to the lake for a sail—others to the dance, the swing, or to promenade, while not a few, the most courageous, to take a rotary turn, mid-air, on the framing. But pleasure will not appear longer, and lunch time having arrived, the viands which had been brought from home, were brought out, and under the shadow of a tree, were discussed with a relish and hearty good will. The amusements closed with the arrival of the six o'clock train, which was the signal for departure. Although the company was large, it was most respectable, and perfect order prevailed. Much credit is due the Committee, and many thanks to the gentlemanly Conductors, for their courtesy—and no small praise to the Band, for the excellent music they discoursed, which dispensed general good humor.

OUT OF SEASON. A day or two since, two ladies from the country on a shopping excursion to the city dropped in to a hardware store where agricultural implements are sold. They had read John's advertisements, and therefore innocently inquired for cradles. The store-keeper said it was rather late in the season for the article, and he had sold all he had purchased. The ladies looked at each other wonderingly, and whispered laughingly when one turning to the blushing John remarked: "Oat of season! I thought that babies were always in season!"

IMPROVED IN VALUE. Thirty years ago a parcel of land in Lynn was appraised for $150. This year the assessors value the same land at $36,500. The Reporter says that other lots of land show a still higher increase in value.

A State convention of the soldiers of this State is to be held in Faneuil Hall on the 25th of September.

UNIVERSALIST PIC-NIC.

The annual summer excursion and picnic by the Universalist Sabbath School and Society of this town, took place on Thursday last, under several unimpaired circumstances.

The sun shone very brightly early in the morning but soon the clouds covered the heavens and the prospects for a beautiful day gradually diminished. The bell however was rung, the school assembled at the church, and the band escorted them to the depot; long long before the cars arrived. Here truly were some of the unpleasant moments of the day. For a tedious half hour did we wait for the cars—each moment seemed an hour. At last the glad sound "They are coming," was heard with pleasure; then the Conductor's voice, "All aboard," and we started merrily.

Everything was pleasant aboard the cars, and after a delightful ride of forty minutes we landed at Island Grove, Abington, ready for fun and frolic. Enjoyment appeared to be the pass-word of the day, and all engaged in the sports with a will. Some were sailing, others singing, swinging, dancing, pitching quoits, rolling ten-pins, playing check, base ball, croquet, and so on.

It began to rain about noon, but the tall thick trees kept the drops from the crowd beneath for an hour or more, then the gathering dampness caused them to stop many games and seek shelter in the dining and dancing rooms.

A large hall which would have given the party good accommodations was refused by the (gentlemanly?) proprietors of the ground because they were afraid that God's sacred soil would be scattered too freely upon the floor. Eliza attempted to run guard but the clown at the door placed his nose in the doorway and prevented her entrance. Great inquiries were made for the washer-woman, but at last account she had not been found, and many thought it would be a long day before the Universalist Society of Quincy, would visit Island Grove again, especially on a rainy day.

ONE OF THE PARTY.

GROWTH OF ST. LOUIS. St. Louis is one of the three great cities of the West. It increased, according to the census, from 1850 to 1860, $2,913, and had in 1860 a population of 77,869, therefore it had in 1860 a population of 100,774, and the present population, including the colored, is not less than 230,000. The increase of Cincinnati, during the same number of years, was only 39 per cent, but St. Louis increased 106 per cent.—St. Louis increased 67 per cent. more than Cincinnati in the same time. St. Louis has added some 70,000 to her population since the census of 1860. These facts speak for themselves. This must be one of the great cities of the world—the point to which great central railroad lines from the Atlantic and the Pacific will converge.

SHAW & CLARKE'S new improved $20 Sewing Machine. These Machines are said to be capable of doing the same work of the high price ones, and very simple in their construction; so simple, that a child or person who never saw a Sewing Machine of any kind can learn to run them in a very few minutes. Its cheapness, simplicity, and adaptation to all family wants as a Sewing Machine, are its great recommendations to public favor. See advertisement.

TERRIBLE POWDER EXPLOSION. At Constantinople, July 19, a large cartridge and rocket factory exploded with terrific force, destroying the workshops and killing 72 of the hands employed on the works. The group of buildings, comprising nine magazines, of which four contained from 800 to one thousand barrels of powder each, the fifth about 1,000 barrels, and the remaining four about 600 barrels each—or a total of about 30,000 barrels of about fifty pounds each. Fragments of the killed were picked up more than half a mile from the scene of disaster; of the laboratory itself not one stick or stone was left upon another, its very site being torn up as if a huge shell had fallen and exploded upon the spot.

THE Petersburg, (Va.) Index gives an account of four Confederate soldiers who came into town last Monday and surrendered, having just heard that the rebel cause had "gone up." They asserted that they had been living on the banks of the river, about seven miles above. Here they lived upon game, and occasional roasting ears of corn, during all last summer, and upon bread made of corn they had gathered from the corn fields, and an occasional pig they found in their rambles during the winter. Their clothing was reduced to rags.

The most important features of the new Canadian tariff, which went into operation last week, are the raising of the duty on spirits of all kinds to 70 cents per gallon, and on tea to 7 cents per lb., and 15 per cent. ad valorem; and the lowering of the duty upon manufactured goods generally from 25 and 20 per cent. to 15 per cent.

OUR LADY READERS should try J. W. Bradley's justly celebrated Duplex Elliptic Skirts, justly pronounced by Fashion Magazines and the Press the most durable, economical and graceful skirt ever produced. The "Empress Trail," the latest fashion, and "Pride of the World" are the most popular styles in use. See advertisement.

IMPROVED IN VALUE. Thirty years ago a parcel of land in Lynn was appraised for $150. This year the assessors value the same land at $36,500. The Reporter says that other lots of land show a still higher increase in value.

Summary Intelligence.

There is an apple tree on the estate of Wyman Fay, Pleasant Street, Worcester, that is now in full bloom, this being the fourth time this year, that it has bloomed; the previous ones being in May, June and July. It also has well developed fruit from the first series of blossoms.

Three hundred dollars was recently paid in Richmond for one hundred pounds of fancy leaf tobacco; the highest price ever paid in Virginia.

The orange trees in Florida look remarkably well, and the indications are that they will yield an unusually large crop this year.

The business men of Houston, Texas, have resumed specie payments. All transactions are based on specie estimates.

Mr. Young of Charlton, Iowa, had a fireing taken from his car a few days since, after it had remained there thirty-six years much to the detriment of his hearing.

In 1785, four shillings and half a pint of rum was allowed by a town for a day's labor on the highway.

A negro quartette club recently serenaded a servant in the house of a gentleman, at St. Louis. Their singing was excellent, and the young ladies of the family deceived by the darkness, thought that the party were their own admirers, and accordingly threw them bouquets and went into a becoming state of excitement. When papa went out to ask the minstrels to refresh themselves the mistake was discovered.

At Manchester, N. H., a boy who was stealing apples fell from a tree and broke one of his legs.

There is every prospect of a mild punishment, or speedy release of the Fenian prisoners in Canada.

In clearing away the ruins of the Canal Bank building, Portland, a few days since, the workmen came upon the remains of the bank watchman's dog. On the night of the great fire, Tray's master being absent, assisting in taking care of the treasure, the dog refused to leave the banking room where he so often kept guard with more than human fidelity. Coaxing and threats were alike unavailing, and the faithful brute perished at his post. His fate can only speaking, was as heroic as that of Cassibaena.

Two wealthy citizens of Pittsfield have each signed a $500 bond agreeing to total abstinence for one year.

The yacht Sent, of Dorchester, made the run from Commercial Point to Billingsgate Light, Wellfleet, on Friday last, in seven hours, which is considered excellent time for a small craft.

A new dwelling house was burned at St. Albans, Vt. last Saturday night. It was owned by a Mr. Maxham, an industrious machinist, who had built the house mostly himself, by working evenings, to make a home for his family. It was nearly ready for occupation. Insured $600.

Hay is selling in Maine from $18 to $20 a ton.

Some Troy scoundrel hired a little boy in Albany recently, and after having his life insured, took him to a solitary locality where he attempted to murder him. The boy broke from him and reached home.

Isabella L. Carlisle, of Plymouth, Mass., only thirteen years of age, was married a few weeks since.

The Wigwam in which the Philadelphia Convention sat cost $15,000.

One of the largest bells in the United States has been cast for the City of Pittsburgh, Pa. The amount of metal contained in the rough casting is 7,200 pounds. It measures sixty-six inches across the mouth, and sixty-two inches in height to the top of the crown.

An elderly lady, aged about 75 years, and two young ladies, belonging in Stratford, (Conn.) recently went into the garden to gather cherries, when it was proposed to find out which of the trio could climb the tree the quickest. The result was that the old lady reached the top of the tree some time before the young ladies got half way up. A smart old lady that.

Two ladies, Miss Charlotte and Miss Lucy Draper, aged respectively 69 and 67 years, highly respected school teachers in Hartford, died on Saturday last, at their residence within an hour of each other. They had been together all their lives and in death were not separated.

By an act of the Connecticut Legislature for the protection of passengers, all railroad cars in that State are protected by a strong canvas from one platform to another over the couplings.

There are said to be now in Philadelphia alone, eight hundred illicit stills, each with an average capacity for making upwards of 100,000 gallons of whiskey per day, the tax on which would be $200,000, or $6,000,000 per month.

Some pleasure travellers at Mount Desert, Maine, captured an eagle on Monday, the bird having become entangled in a tree. They ascertained that he measured seven feet from tip to tip, and then tied him up with a pair of suspenders, and went off after a rope. When they got back, however, their prize had freed himself and flown away.

A little girl near Milton, Pa., was sent to the fields a few days since to carry lunch to the hands. Remaining away longer than was necessary, search was made for her when she was found strangled to death by a black snake. The reptile had coiled itself several times around her neck, and had to be cut in two before he would release his hold.

The prospect of ample fall feed for cattle never was better than it is just now; and farmers say that the quantity of rowen or second hay crop, will go far to make up for deficiency in the yield of hay this season, as compared with mythical "average."

The receipts from internal revenue since the first of July amount to fifty-two millions.

The Hartford Times says there was a light white frost in Glastenbury, on the low lands and at other places along the Connecticut river banks, on the morning of the 17th inst.

While a little girl in New Haven, was playing with a match it ignited and set fire to her clothes. Her cries brought persons to her assistance, but in spite of their efforts the child was so severely burned that she died in a short time.

Tomatoes of a pound weight each, grown on vines from seven to ten feet high, are quite common in Northampton.

There is a barefooted Methodist preacher in Titusville, (Pa.)—an eccentric genius—who declares that he has fasted forty days and forty nights consecutively, and lesser periods at various times, but that being inspired by a spirit from Heaven he never felt any ill effects from this great abstinence. He also says he has had marvellous dreams. He promises to preach regularly in Titusville.

The proprietors of a "great gift enterprise" in Chicago have cleared out with $300,000 belonging to their dupes; and a similar concern in Milwaukee has disappeared with $5,000.

Caroline Poulson, a Norwegian girl of twenty-one, was married at Chicago, Monday, her husband was harsh and unkind to her Tuesday, and she died Wednesday, a heart-broken suicide.

The annual report of the Board of Education of New York city states that the number of public schools in that city to be 258, with 219,000 pupils. This is an increase of 11,665 scholars over last year. The cost of maintaining the schools was $2,377,988.

Horace B. Pratt, died in Oil City a few days since, under peculiar circumstances. Mr. Pratt, in swallowing a lump of sugar, felt something stick in his throat, which was ascertained afterward to be a beard from a wheat stalk. An abscess soon formed in his throat, which finally burst, and he was suffocated before medical aid could reach him.

THE NEW YORK NEGROES in that city, who fill responsible positions, their united incomes amounting to $20,000 per day.

Deaths.

In this town, on the 21st instant, infant son of Mr. J. Davis and Mrs. Maria L. Wilder, aged 7 weeks.

NOTICE.

TO JAMES BARRY, of Quincy, in the County of Norfolk, and to any and all other persons claiming any interest in about fifteen gallons of ale in one barrel and one gallon measure; one gallon of gin in one jug; four gallons of whiskey in one jug, one tin, one decanter and one quart measure; which by virtue of a warrant issued by me, have been seized at the dwelling house, being a place of common resort of said Barry, in said Quincy, on the twenty-first day of August, in the year eighteen hundred and sixty-six, the value of which liquors, with the vessels containing them, does not in my opinion exceed twenty dollars.

You are hereby required to appear at my Office, in said Quincy, at nine o'clock, A. M., on the fourth day of September, in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six, to answer to the complaint against said liquors and the vessels containing them, and for trial, and to show cause, if any you have, why said liquors and the vessels containing them should not be forfeited for being kept for sale by said Barry, in violation of the laws of this Commonwealth.

Witness my hand and seal at Quincy, this Twenty-first day of August, in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six.

The Dorchester Horse Railroad

has been discontinued from Summer to State street, and the track taken up. Broad street is to be repaved.

In conformity with this arrangement the Quincy Horse Railroad, must submit, as they both occupied the same track. But to relieve the community of any inconvenience occasioned by this break, we learn the Quincy Company intend to put on an omnibus to run between State and Summer streets on Monday next.

The Atlantic cable is the fifty-fifth deep sea line now in working order.

There are now eighty distinct manufacturing of paper collars in the United States. From two to three millions of paper collars are consumed every day in the United States alone.

Selected Poetry.

THE GROUND SWELL.

How soft the shades of evening creep
O'er yonder dewy sea,
Whose balmy mist has lulled to sleep
The tenants of the tree.
No wandering breeze is here to sweep
In shadowy ripple o'er the deep,
Yet swells the heaving sea.
How calm the sky! Rest, Ocean! rest
From storms and ruffle free;
Calm as the image on thy breast,
Of her that governs thee!
And yet beneath the moon's mild reign,
Thy broad breast heaves as one in pain,
Thou dark and silent sea.

There are whom fortune vainly wooes
With all her pageantry,
Whom every flattering bliss pursues,
Yet still they fare like thee;
The spell is laid within their mind
Least wretched then when most resigned,
Their hearts thro' silently.

Farmers' Department.

TRIAL OF IMPLEMENTS.

At the great trial of reaping and mowing machines, at Auburn, N. Y., recently, there was one mower in particular, that attracted considerable attention. The Country Gentleman speaks of it as follows:—

"A great novelty is the Eureka Mower of J. D. Wilbur, of Poughkeepsie. The horses go directly in front of the machine, instead of on the left, though by use of a wide whiffletree one of the horses walks outside the standing grass. This machine has been the subject of considerable derision, we were told, but on trial its work was a complete disappointment to all, in a favorable way, for though not properly tightened up previous to starting, and showing other defects of preparation for the trial, its task was well and quickly done. The fact that one horse walked in the grass appears to be no objection; the machine does not go around the field, but turns back on the side on which it begins,—thus going in each direction against the grass trodden over, and cutting it as easily as the rest. The acre plots on which the machines were tried, are each 82½ feet wide on this field. The 'Eureka' machine cuts its plot in thirteen swaths, while the others required from nineteen to twenty-three. The distance the horses walk, is thus vastly diminished, and remains to be seen when the dynamometer is brought into use, whether it does or does not require much more force to cut six feet wide, with a knife directly behind the motive power, than from four to five feet with the side pull of ordinary machines."

THINNING FRUIT.

We might write page on page recounting experiments and results of thinning out fruit, but it would only be to prove that which all good fruit cultivators now concede, viz:—that one-third to one-half in number of fruit, well distributed on the tree or vine, produce at maturity equal bulk, better quality, handsomer appearance, more satisfaction of mind to the grower, and finally yield in the market a greater pecuniary return.

The present and coming months call therefore for attention of fruit growers to this subject. All fruits on young and weakly spurs or twigs should be taken away, and clusters or groups so thinned, that while a supply of foliage assists in maturing each distinct fruit or cluster, they may also be pretty evenly distributed over the tree or vine.—Horticulturalist.

The hay crop in most parts of this State is light. It is generally estimated by observing farmers at about two-thirds the average crop, in some sections three-quarters, but there is no doubt of a large deficiency. New hay is now selling in our inland towns at twenty-five dollars a ton, and the general impression is that it will go much higher before Spring.—Mass. Ploughman.

Anecdotes.

A man who had a cause in court, said, "that if he lost in the Court of Common Pleas, he would appeal to the Supreme Court, and from there to Heaven."
"And there," replied a gentleman, "you would be sure to lose, for you will not be present to answer for yourself, and no attorney is ever admitted there."

Waiter (to party from the country, just seated) Here's a bill of fare, sir.
Zekiel Green, "Now, look-a-here! Do you think I'm going to pay any bill of fare till we've had suthin to eat?"

"Husband, if an honest man is God's noblest work, what is an honest woman?"
"His rarest, dear."

"Ma, I want some liquid generosity on my bread and butter."
"Some what, my child?"
"Some liquid generosity."
"What in the world does the boy mean by liquid generosity? What is it my son?"
"Gosh, mam, don't you know? Why its molasses to be sure."

"Mary, is your master at home?"
"No sir, he's out."
"I don't believe it."
Well then, he'll come down an tell you himself. Perhaps you'll believe 'im!"

At a bigamy suit recently instituted against a young woman, it turned out that one of her husbands was named Little, and the other Long. A waggish young lawyer, on hearing the case, said he could imagine the woman addressing her brace of husbands thus:—
"Love me, Little—love me, Long."

Chlorosis, Want of Blood, Marasmus, Wasting, Liver Complaints, Rickets, Weakness in Children, Debility of Nursing & Pregnancy, Difficult Teething, And all disorders of the Lungs, Nervous and Blood Systems.

The HYPHOSPHITES act with promptness and certainty in every stage of pulmonary disease, even of the acute kind, called "GALLOPING CONSUMPTION," and with INVARIABLE Efficacy in all derangements of the Blood, and Nervous Systems. The cures obtained by this REMEDY are "UNPARALLELED IN THE ANNALS OF MEDICINE," and "present results such as no treatment has ever equalled, or even approached."

WINCHESTER'S HYPHOSPHITES are the most important agents known to the Medical Science for their power to relieve every form of nervous disease. They are not a placebo, a nerve food; restoring the Vital Energy and re-invigorating all the Functions of Life. Their analysis and effect is remarkable—tending to produce the most refreshing and renovating sleep. They should be used promptly, in every case of loss of nervous force, from whatever cause, the easiest, most direct, and most appropriate remedy.

EVERY SUFFERER FROM DEBILITY, or any Chronic Malady, by which the vital energies are depressed, or exhausted; and every woman who is suffering from an Irregular Menstruation, or any other form of Nervous Disorder, should use WINCHESTER'S HYPHOSPHITES. A New Circular, 42 compiled from Dr. CHURCHILL'S Second Edition of his treatise on Consumption, just published. PRICES: 7-1/2 and 15-1/2 cents, $1 and $2 each. Six small or three large, for $5. Poetry.

THE FORSAKEN.

BY F. M. ADELINGTON—WEYMOUTH.

Poor Mary walked along the strand, Where last she saw her lover, As from the deck he waved his hand— "Twas his adieu forever.

No wreck upon the ocean—he Went safe on board the Fairy; But to another bent the knee, And he forgot poor Mary.

She will not heed what others say, That he is hollow-hearted, Her own true heart recalls the day, When with a kiss they parted.

And still she walks beside the wave, Still looking for her lover, And there the maiden found her grave, When her last hope was over.

Interesting Selections. BROWN BREAD PUDDING. Take half a pound of stale brown bread grated, the same quantity of currants and shred suet, and a little nutmeg and sugar; add four eggs, and two spoonful of cream; boil in a basin or cloth full three hours.

Never confide a secret to your relatives—blood will tell.

Words cannot heal the wounds words can make.

RANDOM EXPRESSIONS. "I'm tired to death." So you have said very often, and are still alive, and in very good health.

"I had not a wink of sleep all night." And yet your bed-fellow heard you snore several times.

"I would not do it for the world." And yet you have done many things equally bad for a trifle.

"We were up to our knees in mud." You know very well the dirt was not over your shoes.

Be frank with the world. Frankness is the child of honesty and courage. If a friend ask you a favor, you should grant it if it is reasonable; if it is not, tell him plainly why you cannot. You will wrong him and wrong yourself by equivocation of any kind.

"I see you have, sir," replied the owner, a little abashed.

"I will take that carriage, sir," and to the astonishment of the other, he pulled out an old wallet, well stuffed with bills, and deliberately counted out two hundred dollars.

The owner was completely staggered. Here was something new. A cabman with so much money! He took the money, looked at it, and then at the stranger—eyed him from head to foot, and then examined his boots attentively.

Then he counted his money over and held up each bill to the light to see if it was counterfeit. No, all was good. A thought struck him; he would find out his name!

"I suppose you would like to have a receipt?" said he at length to the stranger.

"It may be as well."

"Yes, sir. What name?"

"Washington Irving."

"Sir," said the other, actually started back with amazement. "Did I understand your name was—"

"Washington Irving," replied the other, an almost imperceptible smile hovering round his mouth.

"Washington Irving, sir,—my dear sir," stammered the owner, confusedly. "I—I really sir, beg ten thousand pardons, sir, but I mistook you for a cabman, sir. I did indeed."

"No excuse, my friend," replied Irving. "I am no better than you took me for. You acted perfectly right," and having at length succeeded in getting his receipt, amid a host of apologies, he politely bade the humble carriage-maker "good-day," and left him to the chagrin that he had mistaken for a cabman, a man whose lofty genius had commanded the admiration of the whole world.

The friend who related this anecdote asserted that it was a fact—and was told by the veritable owner himself. It doubtless proved a lesson to him not to judge men by their dress.

Miscellany.

I'LL CALL TO-MORROW.

It is never quite safe to be churlish or impolite. A Philadelphia manufacturer once lost some extensive orders from Russia by a want of attention to visitors, and the following incident, said to be literally true, is told of another Philadelphia trader, who subjected himself to great mortification by impoliteness to Washington Irving. He had been annoyed by many idle calls, and became a little crusty.

About this time the owner was one day standing in the door, when up came a rough looking man, in well bundled overcoat, wearing coarse, unpolished boots, and carrying in his hand a whip, which she accosted him:

"Good day, sir. Are you the owner of this establishment?"

"Well, I am," replied the other, with a look which seemed to say,—"now you want to try it, don't you?"

"Have you any fine carriages for sale?" inquired the stranger, apparently not heeding the boorishness of the other.

"Well, I have."

"At what price?"

"Different prices, of course."

"Ah! yes. Can I look at them?"

"You can do as you please, stranger. They are in there."

The stranger bowed politely, and passed in, examined the vehicles for a few minutes, returned and said:

"There is one I think will answer my purpose," pointing towards one: "what is the price?"

"Two hundred dollars."

"Is that the lowest?"

"That is the lowest."

"Well, sir, I will call and give you my decision to-morrow; and the stranger walked away.

"Yes, you'll call to-morrow! O, yes, certainly," replied the owner, in a tone of irony—not so low but the stranger heard him; but he kept on his way, taking no outward notice of it.

"Fool me, will you!" and the owner commenced whistling.

The next day came, and with it the stranger, also.

"I have come according to promise," said he.

"I see you have, sir," replied the owner, a little abashed.

"I will take that carriage, sir," and to the astonishment of the other, he pulled out an old wallet, well stuffed with bills, and deliberately counted out two hundred dollars.

The owner was completely staggered. Here was something new. A cabman with so much money! He took the money, looked at it, and then at the stranger—eyed him from head to foot, and then examined his boots attentively.

Then he counted his money over and held up each bill to the light to see if it was counterfeit. No, all was good. A thought struck him; he would find out his name!

"It may be as well."

"Washington Irving."

mother's place? If spirits are permitted to hold communion with their friends on earth, it must be a mother will watch over her little ones she left behind. Her last prayer on earth is for the welfare of her children, and with that bitter anguish does she bid them the last farewell, as her spirit is about to take its flight into the untried world. Then for the sake of her who is gone, be kind to the motherless little ones. "For a mother lost in childhood, grieves the heart from day to day."

Or, even if her days be prolonged till the "evening of life," how hard it is then to give her up. That dear form, once erect, is now bent over with age, her step is faltering, still we can hardly believe her growing old, or think we can ever part with her. But ere we are aware of it, she is gone forever from us. Yes! those dear hands are folded peacefully across her breast; those eyes, whose delight it was to gaze at the flowers she loved so well, are closed in death. And now as we visit the sacred mound, where repose the remains of a dear mother, may we try to follow in her footsteps, to be guided by her example, we may then rest assured that when we are done with this world it will be well with us.

A WITTY REPLY.

Two young ladies gently dressed were riding in a street car. One of them remarked for an excessive prominence of nose exhibited to the other a photograph of herself, and they were engaged in discussing its merits, when an elderly lady reached out her hand, and said to the lady who had the picture:

"Please let me look at it."

Her modest request was met with an indignant frown, and the reply as it was returned to the pocket of the lady:

"It's none of your business."

The old lady settled back in her seat very complacently, when the companion of the one with the picture asked:

"What do you wish to do with it?"

"O, nothing," replied the old lady. "I only want to see how successfully the artist put such a nose on so small a card?"

The car was full, and the shouts of laughter could have been heard a square, the stranger, also.

THE ADVANTAGES OF BOSTON FOR HEALTH AND BUSINESS.

Boston enjoys unusual advantages for a city. It is beautiful for situation. Built upon three hills, looking upon the Bay, with varied and picturesque surroundings, the advantages of wealth, elegance, and refinement, there is no place on this continent that offers such attractions to men of taste, culture and leisure. All the advantages of an European capital are found here, united with advantages that such a capital knows nothing of. We have elegant scenery, the most delightful drives, populous and attractive villages, places of historic note, and beaches open to the sea to attract the tourist and interest all institutions unsurpassed in their completeness, libraries unrivalled for variety and extent, and collections which have no equal in the country.

In addition to these advantages, natural and acquired, Boston is a place where health has taken up her abode. We dread here no cholera invasion; no season of the yellow fever, or other contagious disease, because we take measures in advance against them,—not spasmodic measures prompted by a near approach of some disease that is making a tour of the world,—but regular and thorough sanitary regulations, which look to cleanliness as a high duty not to be neglected on any account, and exercise a careful supervision over every thing in and about the city that may have a tendency to breed or nurse an epidemic infection. Hence our city is as healthy as the most salubrious village in the land. Its bills of mortality preserve the same equitable average throughout the year. They are rarely, if ever, swollen in proportion as the mortality bills of New York and Philadelphia have been this season. With the most thorough physicians in the world, these, with pure air, clean streets, clean houses and yards, pure water and an abundance of it, our citizens feel, and strangers may feel, as much safety at their own homes, when fears of pestilence fill the land, as though they were seated upon mountain-tops breathing the purest air the heavens own.

Boston is as favorable for business as it is for health; for enjoyment as for recreation. Our port, second only in the amount of its business to New York, is filled with ships of all nations; our vast manufacturing establishments make Boston their depot and warehouse, and here may be found at first hands, goods in unlimited amount, of unlimited variety, and held at the best terms that are offered in any part of commerce. Our merchants are noble, large-minded men, with broad liberal views, and their reception of, and dealing with customers, are both courteous and agreeable. They are not, as a rule, imbued with the strange, narrow, sectional and bigoted views that characterize the politics of Massachusetts; and merchants from the South and West, who visit us, need not fear they will meet with offensive radical men, whose utterances do not reflect the conservative views of the Boston merchants. Their open liberal hand is shown in the prompt manner in which every claim of humanity, of sorrow and of loss that is made upon them, is met. None show more readiness or munificence than they in this respect. Witness, Ireland, in her year of famine, Norfolk in her season of pestilence, Tennessee in her appeal for help, and Portland in her great suffering. We state these things not for boasting, but because there may be found many who point to us as money-getting Yankees. If Boston merchants get money with the exercise of heads and hands, through their energy, intelligence, perseverance and industry, they are ready to part with it at the call of suffering, and misfortune. We are glad to know that our city is visited this year by an unusual number of purchasers from the West and South, and trust that it is but an earnest of an AMBITION.

Upward, onward to the goal,
Shining in the waste afar,
Bend thy path, ambitious soul,
Hail the bright and rising star.

See, its beams illumine thy brow,
Though thy course is just begun!
And a star enflames thy brow,
Next thy aim will be the sun.

'Tis a thorny path ye tread,
But like all upon the earth,
Where the thorns are thickly spread,
Here and there a flower has birth.

Check ambition e'er it mounts
O'er each holier desire;
Draw from Charity's sweet fountains
Draughts to quench the wasting fire.

Farmers' Department.

NEW HAY LOADER.

One of the most exhausting labors of the farmer is that of hay-loading, when prolonged day after day as is the case on a large farm or when help is scarce.

Charles Gibbs, of Pittsfield, Vt., has recently obtained a patent on his new invention, which is worthy the attention of the farming community. A large rack of peculiar shape is attached to the right-hand side of the cart, having a combined horizontal and rotary motion, so that it gathers up and deposits the hay in the wagon with no assistance more than is afforded by the horse and driver. It is easily adjusted, simple in action, durable and economical. Its practicability has been tested during the present summer, and by high authorities pronounced a perfect success. Farmers will welcome this new and most desirable labor saving machine.

CARE OF COWS.

In the discussions at the Annual Fair of the New York State Agricultural Society, Geo. A. Moore gives his method of caring for his cows as follows:—

"My best cows do not go dry over six to eight weeks. The best cow I have, was milked at night and had a calf by her side the next morning. Cows must be sheltered, groomed, well fed and cared for. A cow should go in the barn when the first cold weather comes on in the autumn and stay there till it is over in the spring. Of course the stables should be well ventilated. I have found that cows kept in the barn through the winter, do just as well as those which are let out. Air, light, good water and good food are essential. With these provisions, cows are kept in good health, there are no miscarriages, and the general effect upon the health and usefulness of the animal is good. Cows come in with us when twenty-four months old, and we breed and milk them right along. Three years ago I picked the poorest and oldest cows from my herd, kept them housed from Christmas to March, loosed them from the ties and turned them out, and they played like calves. They gave more milk and did better the following season than they did the year before. I have kept cows in stables from November to May, caring for and grooming them well, and they bred better, there were fewer losses, and they were healthier, and did better the succeeding season, than if they had been left out, or allowed to run out in the usual way. I prefer to tie the cows for winter feeding, but use stanchions in my milking stables."

Salting down Cucumbers for Pickles.

Leave half an inch of stem on the cucumber—wash them in cold water—immediately pack with salt in alternate layers, salt next to wood—one barrel of salt to five of cucumbers. Fill the barrel full putting salt on top—put a wide board so as to just fit inside of the barrel—bore half a dozen half inch holes through—place it on the pickles with a stone on, which should weigh at least twenty-five pounds, so as to keep the pickles always in brine. Take off all the scum which rises to the surface. Keep the barrels in the shade, and in four weeks take off the stone and fill to the top as they will settle some. Put more salt on, then head them up, and they are ready for market. It is best to have two sizes of pickles.—Country Gentleman.

Anecdotes.

The love of fun is not unknown among the serious-looking Chinamen. An English store-keeper, wishing to advertise his articles in the Chinese language, engaged a Chinaman to paint him a sign. It did not answer expectation, for the only perceptible effect it had on the Chinese was to excite a grin. By a bribe he obtained a translation in English, and found it to be as follows:

A young wife remonstrated with her husband, a dissipated spendthrift, on his conduct.

"My love," said he, "I am only like the prodigal son; I shall reform by-and-by."

"And I will be like the prodigal son, too," she replied, "for I will rise and go to my father," and accordingly off she went.

A stout but distinguished lady went to a fancy ball dressed as a shepherdess.

Her mild husband, on seeing her thus attired, said:

"Sarah, dear, you look like a shepherdess who has dined on her flock."

"What is that, Sambo, what goes from Boston to New York without movin'?"

"My giv' dat up, Pompey?"

"Why, nigga, it's a railroad."

THOUGHTS OF THE SEASON.

Summer is over and gone—
The bloom of the year is past—
But it teaches a lesson of wisdom,
That pleasures of youth will not last.

Autumn comes in with its sadness,
The leaves fall away in decay—
Like our friends, once the source of our gladness,
They are silently passing away.

Stern Winter soon closes the scene,
And drops its white curtain o'er us,
The gay laughing carols of Spring
Then change to a dismal chorus.

But thanks for the wisdom of God,
Our life endeth not in a gloom—
Bright Spring shall again follow winter,
And happiness outlive the tomb.

SORE THROAT. For the first symptoms of sore throat, swallow one drop or more of the spirits of camphor, and immediately inhale strongly from the vial until irritation is produced, and relief will be immediate.

A drunkard is the annoyance of modesty the trouble of civility, the spoil of wealth the destruction of reason. He is the thief of his subsistence, the beggar's companion, the constable's trouble. He is his wife's woe, his children's sorrow, his neighbor's scoff, his own shame. He is the spirit of unrest, a thing below a beast and a monster of a man.

Among the addresses presented upon the accession of James 1. was one from the ancient town of Shrewsbury, wishing his majesty might reign as long as the sun, moon and stars endured—"Faith, mon," said the king to the person who presented it, "If I do, my son then must reign by candle-light."

A clergyman of Meriden, Connecticut, it is said, preached from the text, "Adam, where art thou?" and divided his discourse into three parts—first, all men are somewhere; second, some are where they ought not to be; and third, unless they mend their ways they will eventually find themselves where they'd rather not be.

A church in Baltimore has as its motto upon the outer wall, "To the poor the Gospel is preached." One morning these words were written under it, "Not here, though."

Good manners are a part of good morals, and it is as much your duty as your interest to practice in both.

TRUE LOVE. True love is based on a sound personal esteem—not on a gay and dashing freak of the imagination. It is only the ripe fruit of an admiration for another's excellent qualities, and once established, lasts forever amid storms or sunshine, joys and sorrows, augmented by the one perhaps, but never diminished by the other.

IMPATIENCE. In all evils which admit a remedy, impatience should be avoided, because it wastes that time and attention in complaints, which, if properly applied, might remove the cause.

Thought often engenders thought. Place one idea on paper, another will follow it, and still another, until you have written a page. You cannot flatter your mind. There's a well of thought there which has no bottom. The more you draw from it, the more clear and more fruitful it will be.

It is said that the English doctors have for some time past been engaged in an interesting series of experiments with a view of testing the poisonous qualities of the flesh of cattle who have died of the rinderpest. The doctors collected a number of dogs and fed them on this meat exclusively, in some cases giving them the most diseased portions. The dogs like it, and have got fat on their generous diet, and the doctors are completely nonplussed.

THE DIAMOND BREASTPIN.

"MY DEAR BILL:—Take the horse at two hundred dollars. It is below his worth—but I must have the money. I want to buy a diamond breastpin for the prettiest woman in Boston. Say nothing to my wife about this—it must be kept a secret—especially from her."

Yours truly,
DASHER.

The above note was addressed to Mr. William Graves, a malicious bachelor of a certain age, by Mr. Augustus Dasher, a friend of his who had been married some two years to a very charming woman, and was supposed to have won his wild oats. But of this Mr. Graves had his doubts. He had no faith in the reformation of fast young men, and moreover he had no wish that Dasher should become a model, because he had courted the young lady he had married, himself, and had been disdainfully rejected, and if he now kept up his intimacy, with the young couple, it was in the benevolent hope of finding some means to annoy and make them unhappy.

Hence Mr. Graves very readily commended the bargain, and sent his friend two hundred dollars for his horse, reserving his secret to be used to his disadvantage as occasion might suit.

Soon after this transaction, Graves was invited to spend the day with his friend. "My dear boy," said Dasher, when they met, "I want you to do the amiable to my wife this afternoon. Get her out to ride or walk with you—keep her out of the way for an hour or two. I am expecting a person to see me, and I don't want my wife to see the person."

"Is the person a lady or gentleman?" asked Graves.

"A lady," replied Dasher; "but not a word of this to my wife. Here she comes. Get her out of the way as quick as you can, for I expect my visitor every moment."

Mrs. Dasher entered the drawing-room a moment afterward. She was a beautiful creature, and very fond of her husband, and for this reason predisposed to jealousy. After some indifferent conversation, Graves invited her to go to the Athenaeum Gallery, and though she seemed not much inclined to accept, her husband urged her very vehemently to go.

"You seem very anxious to get rid of me," said she somewhat pettishly. "Are you going with us?"

"No, my dear—I have something to occupy me at home."

Here Mrs. D. detected a wink passing from Graves to her husband, and became yet more disinclined to the proposal. "I believe I shall stay at home," she said, throwing herself into a rocking-chair. "I have a headache."

"The best thing you can do is to take a little walk," said her husband eagerly. "Let me ring for your hat and shawl."

But before she could reply, a footman entered, and said in a mysterious way to Mr. Dasher:

"Sir, a person is inquiring for you."

"Show the person into my study," said Mr. Dasher. "I will join the person, directly."

The servant bowed and left.

"My dear," said Dasher, nervously, "you must excuse me. A—a person is—is waiting to see me in my study—Graves' remember!" and with these words, the gentleman followed the servant.

"A person! a person in his study! Who is this person, sir? Can you enlighten me?"

"I don't know, indeed, madam," replied Mr. Graves with a hypocritical sigh. "Mr. Graves," said the lady, "I am convinced that you do know more than you are willing to tell. You are a friend of the family, and we have no secrets from you. I am free to confess that I am jealous of Mr. Dasher—but I must own that he has never given me cause. Still his conduct to-day has been very strange. And now this mysterious visitor! What am I to think of it?"

"Indeed! my dear madam," said Graves, "I don't know her name any more than you do."

"Her name!" shrieked Mrs. Dasher. "It is a lady, then. My worst fears are confirmed. My husband cares for me no longer! and she burst into tears."

"My dear madam," said the old bachelor, "I never could bear to see a woman in distress. Augustus is my friend—but you too, are my friend. I cannot bear to see deception practiced. And perhaps—perhaps this note may throw some light upon the causes of your sorrow."

Mrs. Dasher read the private note of her husband which Graves handed her. "I thank you, Mr. Graves," she said, with forced calmness. "Nobody must witness either my struggles or my interview with that man—that—that lecher! Leave me. Mr. Graves, to deal with him alone. Another time, I shall know how to thank you."

Mr. Graves wended his way, rejoicing at having thrown a firebrand into his friend's household. The poor lady, after a hysterical burst of weeping, succeeded in calming herself and preparing to meet Dasher the perfidious.

"My dear," said Dasher, "do you remember what day this is?"

There was no reply.

"It is the anniversary of our wedding day."

Why do you remind me of it?" asked Mrs. Dasher.

"Because," said Dasher, "as it was the happiest day of my life, I think it might not be indifferent to you. And here Helen, is a slight token of my remembrance."

He handed her a small case—she opened it. It contained a diamond breastpin.

"Is this for me?" cried Mrs. Dasher in astonishment.

"Certainly, I wish it were handsomer. But I am rather short, just now. But where's Graves? I wanted to have some sport with him. I wrote him that I designed this breastpin for the prettiest woman in Boston. It would have been egotistical, you know, to have confessed to him that I thought my wife the prettiest woman in town—ay, in the world, as I do."

Double Action Force Pump,

For Wells, Cisterns, Railroad Stations,

Factories and Vessels, has no equal for power, ease of workmanship, and durability.

It has a powerful air chamber, will throw

SIXTY FEET, after raising it out of a SIXTY

FOOT WELL, and never can freeze. It is the most successful deep well pump on this continent, and the only one that will do what it is advertised to do, and is fast growing into public favor.

See well to your interests by investigating the merits of this Pump, or you may have to say, as others have, "Had I known of this Pump before I bought mine I should certainly have had it." Call and see it, or send for circular containing all particu-

LOVE'S MORNING.

The dew-drops were sparkling on the bosom of Morn,
The larks gaily singing, to welcome the dawn,
A carpet of blossoms, lay thick on the ground,
Where the gems of the forest, were scattered around;
I brushed from my pathway, the diamonds bright,
My heart with joy bounding, my footsteps as light,
To welcome my loved one, who under the tree,
Stood blushing and beautiful, waiting for me.
O, nought but the rapture of angels above, Surpassed the bright hour, of fond plighted love,
When the rich golden light, of morning's first ray,
Filled with radiant beauty, life's long summer day.

No clouds gathered o'er it, no shadow or gloom,
Each fair bud of promise, then burst into bloom,
And the voices of nature, sang loud at their birth,
And music and fragrance filled all the glad earth.

Now the sun is descending, the shadows are long,
All faded the blossoms, and hushed the lark's song.
The night-shades are gathering—now, only a ray,
Of moonlight, so feebly, illumines my way:
I am waiting, O yes, I am waiting the dawn,
To welcome with rapture another bright morn.
When in robes, white and shining, of glory I see,
My beautiful angel, now, waiting for me.

A BRAVE LITTLE GIRL.

"I am glad I ain't a girl, any how, for girls are always cowards," said Harry

Anderson, drawing himself up and looking every inch a hero.

"Are you sure of that," responded little Annie, looking up from the floor where she had been chasing kitty to get back a spool of cotton. "Do you remember the story mamma read to us, out of the book its waning years the glory of a completed task? Beautiful as is childhood in its freshness and innocence, its beauty is that of untold life. It is the beauty of promise, of spring, of the bud. A holier and rarer beauty is the beauty which waning life of faith and duty wears.

"It is the beauty of a thing completed;

and, as men come together to congratulate each other when some great work has been achieved, and see in its concluding, nothing but gladness, so ought we to feel

when the setting sun flings back its beams upon a life that has answered well life's purpose. When the bud-drops are blighted and the mildew blasts the early grain, and there goes all hope of the harvest, one may well be sad; but when the ripened year sinks amid garniture of autumn

flowers and leaves, why should we regret or murmur? And so a life that is ready and waiting for the "well done" of God, whose latest virtues and charities are its noblest, should be given back to God in uncomplaining reverence, we rejoicing that earth is capable of so much sadness, and is permitted such virtue.

VALUABLE TABLE LEGS.

A young man went from New York city to the West, where he commenced business on his own account, and married.

His friends in the city were interested in his welfare, and when a merchant was about to journey to the place where the young man had located, he was requested to visit the emigrant and ascertain how he lived, and what sort of a woman he had chosen, his prospects, etc. Accordingly

the New Yorker ascertained the residence of his young friend and called upon him quite early in the morning. He found him in a small, neat cottage, and just taking his breakfast. The introduction of the New Yorker to his wife was quite off hand and unceremonious, and he was requested to be seated and partake of the morning meal. The young wife had prepared the steak, biscuit and coffee with her own hands, and for a table had used her kneading board, over which a napkin was spread, and the "board" placed on her lap. The New Yorker declined a seat at the table and took his leave. On making the report to his New York friends as to how he found his young friend living, he described the style as "magnificent!" and if he were the owner of the young man's furniture he would not take ten thousand dollars for the legs of his table!

SIT FACING THE LIGHT.

We do much injury to our eyes by sitting sideways by the lamp, so that one eye is in a strong glare of light while the other is in the shade. The optic nerves, which transmit light to the brain, unite before they reach it. A strong light vibrating through one nerve, and a dim one through the other, will impair their perfect unity, and the custom followed night after night for years, will by thus destroying the harmony of the delicate nerve, result in damaged eyesight. The woman who works at night by her table loses her sight early. Some evening when you have thus sat for an hour, go immediately into a partially dark room—a blur will be before the light-scattered eye, while the other will be clear. The contraction of the iris has something to do with this; but the jarring, discordant action of the nerves is the same. They are designed to act as one; if they act

as two there is wear and tear. Eyesight will fail with the decline of the body, but people that can't read and won't keep their sight longest. Avoid this "strain" on the sister nerves by facing the light.

LEARNING A TRADE.

It was a wise law of the ancient Jews,

that the sons of even their wealthiest men should be obliged to serve an apprenticeship to some useful occupation, so that in case of reverse of fortune they might have something to "fall back upon." The same still exists in Turkey, where every man, rich or poor, even the Sultan himself, must learn a trade. How fortunate would it be now, had it been a law in this country. "Would I had a trade!" is the cry of thousands, of returned soldiers,

North and South, who find themselves ruined in pocket, with no immediate prospect of gaining a livelihood. It should teach parents that whatever else they may give their sons, they should give them a good trade. One of our conten-

and catalogued with the names of donors, and collected into a free department, which is to be maintained by the Company, at their own expense, and by the profits arising from the other departments. Contributions to this department have been commended by many gentlemen of distinction; and it is believed that not only ambassadors, consuls and commercial agents, as well as American ladies and gentlemen travelling abroad, will gladly send some interesting contribution to this free National Museum, but that foreigners, and their governmental museums, will furnish some memento, so that king, queen, and pope will be in some manner represented among the articles of interest therein deposited for public gratification.—Frank Leslie's Illustrated.

REPUBLICAN MEETING. In pursuance to a call, the Republicans of this town, who are opposed to the policy of Andrew Johnson, assembled at Lyceum Hall, on Saturday evening last, to choose delegates to the Republican State Convention. Charles Marsh, Esq., was chosen chairman of the meeting, and E. E. Williamson, Secretary. The following gentlemen were chosen delegates:—H. Farnum Smith, George H. Arnold, Wm. S. Morton, Josiah P. Quinn, Wm. Ditson, E. G. Pratt, Henry Barker. An eloquent and patriotic speech was delivered by Mr. Foster, who has travelled through the greater portion of the South since the rebellion. He gave some very interesting and striking incidents, which had come under his personal observation, showing that an unbroken rebellious spirit still existed at the South. He also briefly adverted to the late New Orleans Convention, inferring by his remarks, his belief that the President was in collusion with the rebel portion of the population during the late riot and massacre. His remarks were exceedingly well received. After a few brief remarks by Mr. Quincy, the meeting adjourned.

BASE BALL. A game of Base Ball was played on Saturday afternoon last, on the grounds of the Active Base Ball Club, between the ALBERTS of South Quincy, and the UNION of West Quincy. The result of which was a victory for the ALBERTS by eight runs. (We shall have to omit the score for want of room.) Both Clubs played well, and everything passed pleasantly.

Mr. C. Brown of the Mechanics acted as Umpire, William C. Mitchell and Edward Baxter as Scorers.

A Match Game is to be played this afternoon between the ALBERTS and QUICKSTEPS, on the grounds of the former at South Quincy.

SALE OF REAL ESTATE. We would call the attention of our citizens to the sale of valuable real estate on Spear Street on Tuesday next at four o'clock. There is a good two story house, with about ten thousand feet of land, pleasantly located near stores, school houses, horse cars, railroad depot, &c., making it very desirable property.

Also, to the sale of land and building belonging to Charles Lewis Badger, at West Quincy, on Saturday next, at four o'clock. For further particulars see our advertisements in to-day's paper.

NEW PAINES HILL ROAD. A Sheriff's court has been held in the Town Hall, three days the present week. It appears that the damages determined by the County Commissioners for land, moving buildings, &c., on the new road, were thought by some of the owners to be insufficient. It has been left to twelve men, who were appointed by Sheriff Thomas. The amount awarded to Hon. Charles P. Adams was $790; to Major Thomas Adams, guardian of the estate of Harvey Field $1500. What damages the jury decided upon we are unable to ascertain at present as they are obliged to deliver it under seal.

THE TEACHERS AND SCHOLARS OF THE Sunday School, connected with Christ Church, enjoyed a social gathering last Saturday. After a ride in Mr. Perry's convenient carriage to several places of interest, they were taken to the villa of Robert Codman, Esq., where they partook of his elegant hospitality.

CATTLE SHOW. The eighth Exhibition of the Hingham Agricultural and Horticultural Society, will be found advertised in our columns to-day. The beautiful season will then and there be represented in luscious fruit and substantial vegetables. We cannot doubt but the forth coming exhibition will be well attended by our citizens; as those on former occasions have given great pleasure and satisfaction to those who avail themselves of the enjoyments offered by this Society.

STATE CONVENTION. The State Republican Convention met in Boston on Thursday last. Tremont Temple was crowded. Gen. B. F. Butler was elected President, with numerous Vice Presidents and Secretaries. After an able speech from the President, Gov. Bullock was nominated for re-election by acclamation, with loud cheers. All the other State officers were also nominated by acclamation. The meeting was very harmonious and everything appeared to pass off very satisfactorily.

DAILY PAPERS. It will be seen by a notice in our columns to-day that our townsman, Chas. A. Follett has become proprietor of the literary depot in the square. We are happy to say he intends keeping all the principal daily and weekly papers; magazines, novels, &c., that our citizens may desire.

RATIFICATION MEETING.

The first meeting of the National Union party was held at the Town Hall, Wednesday evening last, for the purpose of endorsing the principles of the Philadelphia Convention. The meeting was called to order by Dr. William S. Pattee, and the following gentlemen were selected as permanent officers of the meeting:

President: Jeffrey R. Brackett.
Vice Presidents: Lewis Bass, Esq., S. Fellows, Jacob F. Eaton, Dr. W. S. Pattee.

Secretaries: John B. Bass, Geo. Cahill. Mr. Brackett with a few appropriate remarks then introduced John Q. Adams Esq., who was received with great applause.

He said he did not desire to make a speech but to have a quiet talk with his fellow townsmen. He then said he justified the course of the Republican party during the war; eulogizing their bravery and endurance, but now it appeared to him that the party was seized with madness and had abandoned the principles which they pretended to act upon during the war. The war was fought as he had supposed for the purpose of restoring the Union, but now after the rebellion has ceased, Congress is laboring and endeavoring to put ten States out of the Union; and that their position to-day is where the secessionists of the South was in 1861. He then spoke of the Committee of fifteen which were appointed by Congress, to examine into the condition of the people of the South, and to report upon their right to representation in Congress, showing the unconstitutionality of such a proceeding, and proving it to be revolutionary in its character;—a mere dodge to keep the South from being represented in Congress, and themselves in power. He then spoke of the finances of the country,—how much money had been uselessly expended, and how speculators desired this state of things to continue; how Congressmen were implicated in the scheme, and filling their own pockets, while the country was growing poor, and the mechanic and laborer were the only sufferers. He then spoke of the tariff, showing the injury of Congress in placing a high duty on certain articles, in order that certain Congressmen might grow rich in manufacturing goods without competition. He then spoke of the relations of the North and South, of the duties devolving upon each, and proved, by logical and clear reasoning, that the Republican party to-day, was doing the very worst thing they could toward reconciling the Northern and Southern portions of this great Republic. Mr. Adams spoke about one hour and a quarter, in a clear and logical manner, and was appreciated by a large and intelligent audience.

After which, a motion was made to form a NATIONAL UNION CLUB, and a Committee was appointed for that purpose to report in one week, when a Club will be formed. The following are the names of the Committee:

James E. Tirrell, Joseph A. Bass, James T. Pennington, Jacob F. Eaton, J. H. Mundy, E. W. Underwood, J. H. Vezie and Noah Curtis.

The Committee request that there may be a full attendance next Wednesday evening, at the Lyceum Room, of all who desire the speedy restoration of the Union, and the supremacy of the Constitution.

HARVEST PROSPECTS. A correspondent, who has recently travelled in various parts of Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Vermont, New York and Connecticut, reports the hay crops to have been a full average. In some places the grass was light, owing to the severe drought of last year, which killed the roots, but the deficiency in quantity was more than made up by superior quality and the excellent condition in which it was put upon the scaffold. The frequent rains since hay-making in July have given a rapid growth to the grass and the second crop will be large. Corn and potatoes are everywhere luxuriant and promise abundant harvests. New potatoes are now selling in Vermont for fifty to seventy-five cents per bushel by retail, and forty cents per bushel is looked upon as the maximum price when the winter crop shall be gathered. The pastures have furnished luxuriant feed for cattle through the entire summer, and the richness of fall feed has never exceeded the present autumn. The pastures are now as verdant as in June. The season has been highly favorable for butter and great quantities have been made. Butter of the finest quality in appearance and flavor sells for thirty-five and forty cents per pound. From all that has been seen and learned, it seems unreasonable that the exorbitant prices which have ruled with us for two years past should long continue.—Providence Bulletin.

THE STATE CONSTABLES were quite busy during the month of August. They report 537 prosecutions for violating the liquor law, 90 for transgressions of the Sunday Statute, and 111 for other offences. Fifty-six liquor dealers not heretofore reported have been unearthed, and 49 have discontinued the traffic, in compliance with notifications to that effect.

AN EVENTFUL DAY IN HINGHAM. Friday, the first instant, was crowded with events, so says the Journal. One death by suicide—two from natural causes—two accidents from the use of axes—one highway robbery—the loss of a hoghead of molasses—and the detection of the last train on the South Shore road, occasioned by the engine giving out at East Weymouth. Some folks have a mortal antipathy to Friday, and say it is an unlucky day, and will never commence any undertaking at that time. Others consider it a very fortunate day, and select that of all other days to commence a new enterprise. But such is life; it is but a series of events, and happy is that man, who, observing them, can improve them by learning some good lesson of the hour.

THE ELECTION IN MAINE. On Monday last, was carried by the Republicans by a very large majority.

INDUSTRY OF MASSACHUSETTS.

The volume of Statistics of Industry of Massachusetts, prepared under direction of the Secretary of the Commonwealth from returns made from the several towns and cities, last year, has recently been published. It makes 800 pages, one-fourth larger than that of the statistics of 1855. On a comparison of the several reports, the Secretary states that the first, published in 1838, exhibited an annual amount of industrial products of $85,000,000; that of 1845, $124,000,000; 1855, $295,000,000; 1856, $517,000,000. This shows an increase in the last ten years of seventy-two per cent, while the population during the same period increased only three per cent.

These returns must necessarily be imperfect in many respects, and the probable greater accuracy will account for some of the increase. Several more efforts will be required, and much more care on the part of persons obtaining the statistics before the returns reach that point to make them of an essential value.

The aggregate amount of products of $517,240,613, employs a capital of $174,499,550, giving employment to 271,421 persons engaged in manufacturing, and 68,636 in agricultural pursuits. In the number engaged in manufacturing, it is supposed are included 34,396 employed in the whale fisheries, 11,518 in mackerel and cod fisheries, 1178 in shell fish, 463 in alewives, shad and salmon, and 9428 seamen in the coastwise carrying trade. In agricultural pursuits the number returned is but an average of one and one half for each farm, the number of farms being, 46,904. In many cases, doubtless, persons are returned as engaged both in manufacturing and agriculture, a combination of industry very common among small farmers in some sections of the State.

POLITICAL. There will be a Grand Republican Rally at the Town Hall, on Monday evening next. Mr. Foster of Kansas, now residing with us, is full of the western zeal and earnestness, and has had an experience which enables him to speak with eloquence on political questions.

TWO NEW IRON LAMP POSTS with gas fixtures have been erected in front of the Unitarian Church during the past week.

DEMAND ON ENGLAND. There is a rumor, with apparent authority to it, that Secretary Seward sent out a letter to Minister Adams, just previous to leaving Washington with the President, making a formal and final demand on Great Britain for damages by the Alabama. It is known that the latter Government has been industriously trumping up all the claims it could for damages and losses to her commerce by our blockading squadron; but it is not so plain how such claims, if well based even, could be in equity set off and allowed against those which arise from piratical and predatory excursions that were winked at again and again by England. It is not unlikely that this question is to be soon disposed of, as it certainly should be.—Mass. Ploughman.

ARREST OF A HORSE THIEF. Deputy State Constable, George W. Boynton, of Georgetown, last Saturday happened to see a young man at the National stable on Friend street, offer to sell a fine horse and wagon for the small sum of $150. Being suspicious all was not right, he arrested him and brought him to the headquarters of the constabulary, where the fellow stoutly protested his innocence, even to tears, declaring that he owned the team which he had bought for $325 about eight months ago of Mr. W. Perkins of Bridgewater, from money which he earned as a substitute in the army. He was committed, however, and a telegram sent to Mr. Perkins, with, however, no reply. Monday he was put in charge of officer Warriman of Randolph, and taken to Abington, where he was recognized as a shoemaker named Wm. E. Sturtevant, and the team as belonging to a stable in that place. He was committed to the jail at East Abington to await trial.

RANDOLPH STATISTICS. Polls in 1865 1,415. Polls in 1866, 1,503. Increase, 88. Personal Estate in 1865, $1,415,880. Do. in 1866, $1,436,620. Increase $20,740.

In 1866, $1,436,620. Increase, $20,740. Real Estate, $1,379,130. Increase, $43,420. It is estimated that nearly $1,000,000 worth of Government securities are held by citizens of Randolph and are not taxed. About $125,000 is owned in Railroad and other stocks, which is taxed by the State.

THE LETTER LIST. The Postmaster General has given notice to all postmasters of towns and small cities not to advertise, in newspapers, unclaimed letters, after Oct. 1st, but to post up a list of the same in their respective offices. The public are the only ones that will be the losers by this bold stroke of economy on the part of the new Post Master General. They have been the gainers by it, as the small compensation allowed for advertising, has been scarcely enough to pay for the type-setting, to say nothing of the space the list occupied. As a matter of news, and a sure proof that the paper publishing it had the largest local circulation, publishers throughout the country have accepted the terms; and we venture to assert that not one of them is sorry that the list is to be discontinued under a better price was paid. Mr. Randall may think that he has cut off, to an alarming extent, the resources of such papers as have heretofore published the list, but in this he is greatly mistaken.—Cape Ann Advertiser.

THERE WILL BE A MATCH game of Base Ball between the first nine of the Actives of this town, and the first nine of the Winthrop Club of Boston, this afternoon on the grounds of the former, game called at 2-1-2 P. M.

Quincy, Sept. 15. 3w

ANOTHER CABLE. We have already another telegraph line across the Atlantic in full operation, as we learn by a despatch from Heart's Content. Since Sunday morning the second time, when the cable last year was raised and the new cable attached, uninterrupted success has followed the Great Eastern, and she laid the shore end of the cable of 1865, on Saturday evening last, under a salute from the ships of war in the harbor, and cheers from a large crowd of enthusiastic spectators, who had assembled from all parts to witness this second triumph of ocean telegraphy. The electrical condition of this cable is perfect, and messages are sent and received over it.

PERSONAL. Mr. Calvin Thayer of South Braintree, was thrown from a wagon one day last week. One of his ribs was broken, and he was otherwise severely bruised.

Marriages.

In this town, on the 5th inst., by the Rev. E. P. Thwing, Mr. David H. Greeley to Mrs. Mary A. Dyer.
(Incorrectly inserted last week.)

Deaths.

In this town, on the 10th inst., Levi French, Jr., aged 58 years, 5 months and 10 days.
On the 14th inst., William H., son of Mr. Henry G. and Mrs. Eliza M. Roche, aged 2 years and 9 months.
In Vinal Haven, (Me.), on the 6th inst., Mr. Samuel Clay, formerly of this town aged 49 years.
In East Boston, on the 10th inst., Mary A., youngest daughter of Mr. William and the late Mary A. Hodgkinson, aged 7 years and 10 days.

For the Patriot.
THE DONKEY'S RIDE.
BY F. M. ADLINGTON—WEYMOUTH.
A Donkey found a Lion's skin,
And snugly fixed himself within;
He called a Jackal to his side,
And off they went to take a ride.
A Bull and Bison went also,
To have some sport, and see the show;
The Jackal took his usual place,
And putting on a sober face,
Announced to all who came to see,
That 'twas his royal majesty;
The King himself—the great king cat—
And mighty wise and brave at that.
Commanding all their gifts to bring,
And humbly bow before their King,
And threat'ning all who dar'd offend,
His majesty the Jackal's friend.
At length the King attempts to speak,
But oh! how slow a time to tell,
A voice came from the Lion's skin,
But sure a Jackass prayed within.
My loving subjects he exclaimed,
Your mighty King has been defamed,
Strange things in fact have come to pass,
They dare to call your King an Ass.
Have I not borne great burdens well?
How many there's a time to tell,
But the I'd have you understand,
From a great A to impend.
And now I fill a mighty throne,
And mean to rule the roost alone;
If any dare dispute my will,
I call on you to catch and kill.
If any dare my stat to flout,
With you to help, I'll kick them out;
And let it now be all known,
That I, great A, am in the throne.
The word 'ring crowd' approached him near,
They thought a Lion's voice to hear,
But soon discovering and old,
That they were not completely sold.
For tho' they saw the Lion's skin,
They heard the Jackass brag within,
And plain it was that such a threat,
Could issue from no other throat.
And some were glad that voice to hear,
And welcome'd with kindred cheer;
For blood is blood, and all his kin,
Cheer'd him who wore the Lion's skin.
His paw upon his Jackal's ear,
The braying of the King's roar,
In spite of it—he'd had his way.

So on they went from place to place,
Alas for kingship and disgrace,
No record of the serfdom trace,
But donkeying the Donkey race.
Meanwhile the Bull and Bison stood,
Chewing the cud of meum food,
But now and then their barking sides,
Would start the hair upon their hides.
And once or twice they gave a roar,
That echoed to the farthest shore,
The crowding thousands knew the sound,
And shook the firmament around.
With joyful shouts, with cheer on cheer,
The King though loth to force to hear,
The Jackal hung his head in shame,
He envied homely its name.

And wished the Bull and Bison too,
Were drunk as any other too;
Still on they went through thick and thin,
Respect still paid the Lion's skin.
The Jackal yelled, the monarch brayed,
The ride was up, the game was played,
But his'ry will record their deeds,— Astonishing whoever reads.
And 'graven on the rock of fame,
Will be the forgotten name,
Of him who raised a mighty din,
Enveloped in a Lion's skin.
Yet spite of Jackal, steam and gas,
The skin could not conceal the Ass,
Alas, for decency! Alas!

Interesting Selections.
TOMATO CATSUP. Loil one peck of tomatoes (cut in slices) till soft; put them through a sieve, pouring one quart of vinegar over them; put the pulp without skins or seeds over the fire and boil till thick—then add a tablespoonful of cayenne pepper, one of black, one of cloves, one of mace, two of mustard, and three of salt—cork tightly. This will keep.
THE BEAUTIFUL. Never lose an opportunity of seeing anything beautiful—Beauty is God's hand-writing—a wayside sacrament; welcome it in every fair face, every fair sky, every fair flower, and thank Him for it, the fountain of all loveliness, and drink it in, simply, earnestly, with all your eyes; 'tis a charmed draught,
a cup of blessing.
Opposites frequently go together,
chill and fevers are generally associated.
Rulers wield the people, but schoolmasters wield the rulers.
Scraps of rusty iron are said to improve water that is used for irrigating gardens, vegetables, flowers and vines.
Hens are fond of coarsely broken oyster shells, and it is said that they prevent them from eating their eggs.
Let no one count the number of his friends till they have been boiled in the sieve of his own adversity. There is much brain in prosperous friendship.
There are four things that look very awkward in a woman, to see her under take to whistle; to throw a stone at a hog; to smoke a cigar; and to climb over a garden fence.

Miscellany.
THE WIDOW'S MITE.
It was the last night of the year. The widow Burgess sat alone in her apartment, for she rented but one, and that was a small and scantily furnished room, though she managed to make it look quite spacious and comfortable by the disposition of its furniture—gazing into the embers, which, though they were fast expiring,
still sent out a genial warmth.
Her work—a bit of nice embroidery—had dropped into the clean white handkerchief which was spread over her lap, and her head was resting on her hand; her task was so near completed that she indulged herself in a luxury she was but little accustomed to—a moment's cessation from toil. The light of the lamp which fell partially on her face revealed a countenance deeply marked with sorrow and care; and that face was youthful still, and grief had not banished beauty from those features—it had but thrown over them a veil which concealed their sparkling brilliancy, while it made their loveliness more charming. The pensiveness and quiet submission revealed in the depth of those large, lustrous black eyes, the calmness and deep thought of that white brow, and the smile of benevolence which played around that mouth—it was hard for those features to learn thus to look; the soul was almost crushed before it would forget its pride; but now heaven's seal was impressed upon that countenance so deeply that it could never be obliterated.
Alone! no, the widow was not alone in her apartment. On the humble couch lay a child of seven years, slumbering. The little girl did not much resemble her mother in her features, though to the heart of her parent she was only the more dear for that; for in that sweet, little face, she had ever before her the perfect miniature of him whom she loved so well, but unwisely.
She loved her the more fondly for that;
for though there had been moments when she invoked heaven's bitterest curses on him who had squandered her wealth at the dram shop and the gambling table, and had cruelly neglected, and finally deserted her and her babe—she had long ago buried the remembrance of his years when they were together.
The widow sat resting her head on her hand, and gazing into the dying embers.
The night was cold, the snow lay thick on the earth, and the wind was sweeping about her dwelling. She thought of the hundreds in that great city who were that night suffering from hunger and cold, and her heart went up to heaven in grate-tude for the mercies with which it had surrounded her. It was true, it was true, she possessed on earth was a bit of silver lying on the table beside her, and that she had promised little Annot should purchase her, on the morrow, a New Year's gift. But then her rent for the next fortnight was paid; she had fuel and provisions enough to last her for the next fortnight, and the work she had so nearly completed would bring her a scanty but a sure pay. The widow was thankful, for she knew what utter destitution was.
The wind moaned more loudly and sadly about her dwelling.
"Heaven have mercy on the poor tonight, and may not the cry for charity fall upon a deafened ear!"
As her lips murmured the prayer, there was a heavy footfall behind her window, followed by a quick rap at the door; and as the widow opened it, a man wretchedly and thinly attired, and with an old hat drawn down over his eyes, stood before her, and begged for a night's shelter, or something which would procure him one.
The former Mrs. Burgess could not give the latter—she looked up to the wide street which ran along at its head. The dwelling of the wealthy were there. She saw the costly edifices, through whose richly curtained windows the brilliant light was gleaming; and thought how easily the dwellers beneath those roofs could make the poor creature comfortable. But she hesitated only for a brief instant, and then, stepping back into her apartment, she picked up the bit of silver lying on the table.
Poor little Annot, she had fallen asleep while talking of the pretty present mamma would buy for her to-morrow; she could not remember ever having received one before, and she had kissed the piece of silver a thousand times during the day in anticipation of what it would bring her.
The widow glanced on the coin which the child had with a sharp-pointed instrument scratched her name in quite legible characters; and she brushed a tear from her eye as she thought of the disappointment in store for her.
The hand that was outstretched to receive the pittance sensibly trembled.
"It is the poor widow's mite," said Mrs. Burgess; "do not spend it for what will make you more wretched than you now are."
The fingers closed over it, and the man turned away and walked rapidly down the street, though now and then he checked his speed for an instant and muttered indistinctly to himself. At the end of a few minutes he stood before the door of a miserable runshop and looked through the torn window curtain into the room, where a drunken, half-diot group was gathered around an old rickety table, busied with a game

THE AGRICULTURAL FAIRS.

The annual fairs at Dedham and Hingham will take place the coming week—at Hingham, on Wednesday and Thursday; at Dedham, Thursday and Friday. Both of the shows are worthy of the attendance of our citizens. Hingham being nearer and having a direct communication by the cars, offers an inducement to those not having horses and carriages of their own. While Dedham, although further off, holds out numerous attractions. A distinguished orator has been engaged, and Gov. Bullock, and Ex-Govs. Andrew and Boutwell have promised to be present. The horse department will certainly be far ahead of any previous exhibition of the Society.

Let our readers peruse the following paragraphs, which we copy from the Ploughman, and govern themselves accordingly.

"The season of agricultural fairs is already at hand, and we hope they will be largely attended, as they doubtless will be. Indeed whether they have been growing in usefulness or not for the last few years, it is certain that they have been growing in interest, if we may judge from the popular attendance upon them. Every year has witnessed largely increasing numbers of visitors, whenever the weather and other circumstances have been favorable, till they may be fairly styled, as they often are, the great farmer's festivals."

"An agricultural exhibition properly conducted is always productive of good in many ways. It not only offers the means of extended social intercourse, generally too limited among farmers, who from necessity are a good deal isolated, but the means of extending our practical information in regard to the business of the farm. A man who seldom leaves his own acres to mingle with his fellow men is not in a position to enlarge his view or cultivate the general social qualities. He does not put himself in the way to improve as a practical farmer for it is seldom that a fair is held without presenting some new idea, some new fruit or vegetable or animal, to any one who goes with his eyes open. Some people go to find fault, rather than to get the greatest amount of information. We want to have every farmer not only to go to the fair in his neighborhood, but take hold and help by taking something to exhibit."

GEORGIA MINSTRELS. A genuine black minstrel troupe is announced to perform in the Town Hall on Monday evening next. An exchange thus speaks of the Georgia Troupe: "Sixteen men, who, previous to April 15th, 1866, were slaves upon a plantation near the city of Macon, Georgia. A performance by such a band is a return to first principles, sure to command patronage, for the original success of the disciples of burnt cork was owing to the close imitation of the Darkey songs and dances, not to the sentimental ballads and operatic burlesques that have now usurped the stages of the Ethiopian Opera houses. The Georgia Minstrels are the real things; they will give the true blue and plantation songs, the banjo music, the break-down, and drolleries seen and heard of old in the Sunny South. There will be no want of variety in the programmes, and, as the negro race is noted for its natural musical gifts, the performances will doubtless prove enjoyable in all respects."

PLEASURE TRIPS. The pleasant season of the year for excursions has now arrived. One now can visit New York, Philadelphia, or Washington, with pleasure. The weather is mild and delightful. The best route for convenience and comfort to New York, is the Old Colony and Newport. The steamers are elegant and commodious, and the officers are gentlemen who understand their business. After a short and pleasant ride in the cars you find yourself at Newport. On stepping aboard the boat, a hot and inviting supper is ready for all who wish, with attentive waiters. After enjoying a rich repast, and a pleasant conversation for an hour or two, you can retire and have a good night's rest; only waking in the morning to find yourself at the pier in New York. By all means take this route if you wish for enjoyment, there is no other conveyance that furnishes so much comfort and pleasure as the Old Colony and Newport.

BASE BALL. There was a match game of base ball played on Saturday last, between the Active Base Ball Club of Quincy and Winthrop Base Ball Club of Boston, on the ground of the former, the latter club winning by a score of 43 to 25; some very fine play was made—especially Hayden's triple play on 2d base. Many ladies were present and at the next match game we hope to see many more. There will be a match between the 2d nine of the Mechanics and the 2d nine of the Actives of Quincy, to-day; game called at 2 1/2 P. M.

The 1st nine of the Mechanics and the 1st nine of the Actives play a match game on Saturday, Sept. 29th, 1866; game called at 2 1/2 P. M.

REAL ESTATE. Ebenezer Adams, Esq., sold at auction on Tuesday last, the estate belonging to the heirs of the late Lemuel Dwell, on Spear Street. It was purchased by John Mackenzie for $2,925.

WE are pleased to announce that Mr. Nathaniel Nightingale is once more able to attend to repairing boots and shoes. His card will be found in our columns to-day.

REPUBLICAN MEETING.

The meeting called by the Republican Town Committee, to inaugurate the present political campaign and ratify the nomination and address of their State Convention, was largely attended at the Town Hall, on Monday evening last. The hall was filled even to the remotest corner of the galleries. The meeting was called to order by E. Granville Pratt, who, by direction of the Committee, announced the organization as follows, viz:

President, William S. Morton.
Vice Presidents, Josiah Brigham, Israel W. Munroe, Jabez Bigelow, Charles Marsh, Capt. Edward A. Spear, Charles Hardwick, Wyman Abercrombie, Lieut. T. H. Newcomb, Josiah P. Quincy, Wm. Dison, William Curtis, S. T. Aldrich, William Pratt, John D. Wells, E. C. Sargent, Lieut. Jonas Shackley, E. G. Pratt, Joseph W. Robertson, Henry H. Faxon, G. S. Coffin, Henry Littlefield, Edw. P. Thwing, John H. Gilbert, Henry Barker, Ebenr. Adams, Geo. H. Arnold, Samuel Crane, John J. Glover, John D. Wheeler, Noah A. Glover.

Secretaries, Lieut. Geo. A. Barker, Chas. A. Howland, Geo. Randall, Wm. W. Pratt, Horace B. Spear, William F. Whitney, Edward Southworth, George A. Brackett and John O. Holden.

The President on taking the chair made an eloquent and touching address. His allusions to the fallen soldiers, (made doubly pathetic by the speaker's recent bereavement,) were feelingly received. His references to the present and former opinions of President Johnson were pungent in the extreme, and the reasons which he supposed influenced those members of the party who have "struck hands" with traitors, and endorsed "my policy," seemed to meet the views of the audience, as indicated by their rapturous applause. After further references to the present aspect of affairs, and to the President's political tour, Mr. Morton concluded as follows:

"Mr. Johnson's design seems to be to put rebels back into power, and to give them the control over the resources of the government, which they in a great measure had possessed before the breaking out of the war,—and the question now before the people of this country is, whether his plan shall succeed. Vermont has spoken from her green valleys—and the sound of her voice has leaped over the mountains, and has been echoed back from the pine forests of stately and liberty-loving Maine."

"Massachusetts will be soon called upon to speak; and then, people of Quincy, let not your voices be unheard, but send out a shout of remonstrance against the reinstatement of rebels, in our halls of legislation, that it shall be heard from the North to the South—from the East to the West,—till it is only lost in the far off waters of our Pacific Slopes."

"I would never be vindictive against a man characteristic of New England,—a man of high principle, and a man of high virtue. I would bear with his waywardness, while forbearance was a virtue. For the sake of restoration and peace, I would pardon much. When they repent of their crimes—the iniquities they have perpetrated—and manifest a submission to the government and the laws, I would permit them to return. Let their hands be made clean of the blood of our starved and slaughtered boys before they receive from us an invitation and a welcome."

"Keep them back from our legislative halls, till time shall in some measure assuage our grief for the loved and lost—till we can have dried our tears and removed the outward insignia of woe—till then keep them back; and when we are ready to receive them, let us do it freely and willingly, so that we may ever afterwards become a great, happy, and united people."

The President then introduced the Hon. Charles A. Foster, formerly of Kansas, now of this town. Mr. Foster's experience and sufferings in the early struggles of that State, and as a member of the Topeka Convention, together with his extensive travel through, and his acquaintance with the Southern States, both before and since the rebellion, enabled him to speak authoritatively of the views and feelings of the great majority of that people. His remarks were characterized throughout with great energy and eloquence, and he occupied the earnest and appreciative attention of the large audience for one hour and forty minutes. His exposition of the difference of political power between the citizens of the former free and slave States was clear and conclusive, and showed the absolute necessity of the adoption of the proposed amendment to the Constitution. In review of the speech of Mr. Adams lately made in this hall, Mr. Foster exposed in keen, satirical language, the fallacious reasonings and misrepresentations of the speaker to the manifest satisfaction of the audience. He was frequently interrupted by outbursts of applause. The exercises were interspersed with music by the Quincy Brass Band.

THE SANDWICH ISLANDS. Mr. Stephen H. Phillips of Salem, formerly attorney-general of this State, has received and accepted an appointment as attorney-general in the government of the Sandwich Islands, with a salary of $5000 a year in gold and the privilege of practicing in the Admiralty courts. From the character and attainments of Mr. Phillips this appointment is regarded as an important advantage gained by the American interest in the islands.

We learn that the Weymouth Agricultural Fair has been postponed on account of the very unpleasant weather the past week.

A fortnight ago, Miss Lottie Beddeman, of Chillicothe, Illinois, lost her speech in consequence of excessive tickling under the arms. She can now speak only in a whisper. Her husband will take notice.

BOSTON CORRESPONDENCE.

BOSTON, SEPT. 20, 1866.

POLITICAL.

Politically, we live in perilous times. It is true that slavery is abolished forever; the National debt must be paid and the right of secession is disproved, including the utter repudiation of the rebel debt. Strong as the political caldron is boiling, these are not party issues, for all agree on them. Nay more, the adherents of the President's policy and those opposed to him, all claim to be union; aiming, as they say, for the speedy and complete restoration of the States upon just principles. We humbly believe that nothing is gained to the argument by one party denouncing the other as traitors, and the other retorting with the cry of disunionists. The antecedents of President Johnson as a public man are honorable to him. We do not forget his loyalty to his country, when it was no small sacrifice to be loyal. We voted for him as Vice-President, and so far as he has been identified with that glorious party, with Abraham Lincoln as the standard bearer, that completed the rebellion, we have been permitted in the columns of your paper to sustain him. We understand the restoration policy of President Johnson to be a return to Congress without further amendments to the Federal Constitution. His theory therefore simple, direct, and superficially attractive. With no disrespect to President Johnson, the reconstruction plan and platform of Congress now offered to the American people in the shape of Constitutional Amendments meets our views squarely. I quote them entire as follows: Let them be carefully read.

"First. That all persons born or naturalized in the United States are citizens thereof and of the States in which they reside, and on a footing of equality in regard to their civil rights.

"Second. That the enumeration of the people for representation in Congress shall be abridged in proportion to the abridgement of the right of suffrage—males above the age of twenty-one years—in any State on account of race or color.

"Third. That a large schedule of persons, civil and military, engaged in the late rebellion, shall be ineligible to any Federal office hereafter until absolved by a two-thirds vote of each House of Congress.

"Fourth. That the national war debt shall be held sacred, and that all rebel debts and obligations shall be utterly repudiated and held illegal and void.

"Fifth. That Congress shall have power to enforce the provisions of this article."

It will be recollected that this is not the platform of Thaddeus Stevens, Sumner and other extremists in Congress. On the contrary, it embodies in a great measure the President's original programme, which in deference to the will of the people, he has adopted. The amendments if enacted upon the Constitution will be simply sufficient for the restoration of the Union, internal peace and all danger forever from sectionalism. We have always said the President's quarrel with Congress was a sad blunder. Let him harmonize with Congress on the constitutional amendments, and let him reconstruct his Cabinet, and adopt a policy foreign and domestic to meet the business exigencies of the day, and the developments of public opinion, and his Administration may still be successful.

LOCALS.
With the return of Autumn, Boston has become lively and business in all branches wears an encouraging aspect. The tendency of the gold market is downward, and the supply of currency continues abundant to meet all the wants of good business paper. In spite of our political warfare at home, Government securities continue in good demand abroad, and higher prices are generally realized. The lecture season will soon commence in this modern Athens, but for some weeks past there has been no want of political convocations; all professing to be union to the hub, and those differing in opinion with them traitors,—but neither "like angry lover believe not half they say."

THE BOOT AND SHOE BUSINESS with us appears to be prosperously progressing. Our large establishments, are all under a business pressure, and we learn with a full complement of men. The Curtis's, T. Curtis & Co., besides their store in this place, and a heavy retail one at 108 Hanover street, Boston, have recently taken another, at 62 Milk street, as a wholesale depot for the merchandise turned out at their manufactories at Weymouth and at this place. Here, heavy jewelry, in domestic and foreign goods—French and other markets, will be carried on. This firm has now facilities to serve the public, in all that comes within their line of business, furnishing goods, etc. which commends them to their favor.

We would call the attention of our readers to the change in the running time on the Old Colony and Newport Railroad, which will take place on Monday next.

DEAD. The ostrich recently sent by Professor Agassiz from Brazil to the city of Boston, died last week Friday.

Summary Intelligence.

The Hartford Times says that the barns for miles around that city are stuffed with tobacco, worth more than a million of dollars.

The crop of apples in New York this season will be an average one, all reports of speculators to the contrary notwithstanding.

The town of Ashford, in this State is in the hands of a few families, who have enough to make them comfortable without depending on business; and desiring to live quietly and not to be troubled with new comers, they are pretty sure to buy any real estate in the town offered for sale. The consequence is that the population of the town has decreased from 120 in 1790 to 178 in 1865.

Since the 1st inst., five millions of dollars in gold have been disbursed from the Treasury, four and a half millions being for interest on ten-forty bonds.

Mr. Baneroff has completed the last of his History of the United States, and it will be published in a few weeks.

The great ram Dunderberg went on a short experimental trip down New York harbor Wednesday. Her immense size and tremendous power were very conspicuous. Prussia is desirous of acquiring this formidable vessel, but it is not likely the government will part with her.

North Carolina has rejected her revised Constitution by a majority of nearly 3000.

The oldest living graduate of Harvard is said to be Hon. Samuel Thacher of the class of 1793.

A man in South Carolina sends a boy thirty miles on horseback every day to get his daily paper.

Ten years ago there were fourteen daily papers in Boston, but now there are only seven.

It is stated at the Treasury that the conversion of seven-thirties into five twenties during the month will amount to about sixteen millions of dollars.

Chang and Engarecoming North again. They are the strongest union men in the country.

The seats in the new Jewish synagogue at Cincinnati were sold by auction on Sunday, and brought extraordinary prices. The gross receipts were about $200,000 and some premium of over $3000 were paid for the choice of first class seats.

An iron mine has lately been discovered at Grotton, (Conn.) The mine in question, it is said produces ore which will yield seventy per cent. of iron.

The Harvard Register chronicles the decease in West Sandwich, on the 26th ult., of Paul Croell, aged 88 years, leaving to honor his memory four sons,—four daughters,—forty-three grand-children,—fifty-seven great-grand-children, and one great great grand-child.

AGENTS will find this a book of real merit and intrinsic value—SUBJECT NEW—intensely interesting and exciting. No work ever attracted and engaged the public mind like this. Everybody wants it, and thousands will purchase it as soon as an opportunity is afforded them. Read what Agents say:—

One experienced agent writes: It is the easiest and pleasantest book to sell I ever canvassed for, and says people are delighted with it, the Ladies especially. Another says:—Women of the War is the book of the season. Another, 137 ORDERS in FOUR DAYS. One reports 17 orders the first day of canvassing. Intelligent, active MALES or FEMALES will find the sale of this work a pleasant and lucrative employment. This Book has NO COMPETITOR. It comes Fresh and New to the people. The territory is clean and clear. Agents understand the advantages in this particular. For full particulars send for circular.

For the Patriot.

KANSAS SHRIEKS.

"He who would these boots displace, Must meet Bonapartes face to face."

There are times in the events of men, which seem to denote great epochs. When a stake is driven down that marks some tremendous affair, and all creation takes a fresh start; such was the case in our usually quiet and orderly village, Monday evening, when the hosts of the Republic assembled at the Town Hall, to hear the Band play, and listen to a flaming spread-eagle, blood and thunder essay on gun powder, gun cotton, nitro-glycerine, steel, lead and ropes, as applied to the noble purpose of putting out of existence a conquered people. A fit subject for a man to talk upon—who never loved his country well enough to take up arms in her defence in the time of her greatest need. A fit theme for one who cried Amen! when Jim Lane in cold blood shot his neighbor; and cried Glory!—glory! when Jim Lane, whose sins were more than he could bear, blew his own brains out. A fine talk for one who, when the 1st Kansas Regiment was formed took care not to join it, and always during the war, took the same good care of himself.

The gentleman who addressed the meeting, Mr. Foster, has left poor bleeding Kansas to her fate,—but the latest news from there, is to the effect that the sun rises and sets on that beautiful land just the same as it used to. He chewed our townsmen, Mr. J. Q. Adams, (much to the delight of his old Republican friends,) all into mince meat, so that we shall never see his smiling face again. His friends will offer a reward for the recovery of all or any portion of his remains. If you see any laying round loose, please return them to his sorrowing friends. Alas! John, the Kansas man howls in agony at your doings; he sayeth with the rest, big dog and little, that you don't amount to a hill of beans; but even that don't prevent them from talking about you; thus giving the lie to their words. Well, let 'em howl; the work you are doing hurts 'em 'enough! But I guess they will get over it in time, or die in the attempt.

Keep poking it at them,—the more you stir up the foul nest the sooner it will be purified. Tread on their corns all you want to,—it serves them right,—they ought not to have corns. They think that Sumner and Pompey, Phillips and Dinah, Stevens and Clem, are better than white folks now, but they will think differently one of these days, when the great National Union Party has had a chance to show its goodness by its works; for so sure as time goes on, the people will get their eyes open to see the sin and wickedness of the present Republican party, and will wonder that they groped in darkness so long.

AGENTS WANTED.

$2000 a Year and Expenses to Male and Female Agents to introduce a new and useful invention, absolutely new in every household. Agents are selected to work on commission, from $20 to $50 per day. For particulars address W. G. WILSON, Cleveland, Ohio.

Important to the General People.

Next to the common articles of daily food, fruit, &c., there is nothing more universal used than "condensed" and "milk" there is nothing more subject to adulteration as they are by the adoption of the use of deleterious substances destructive to health. An agent is wanted to introduce and sell the purest and most valuable milk made in this country, which is pure and healthy, and does not contain any of the deleterious substances which are so common in the milk sold in this country. The knowledge that they are thus pure is what has made Southern Condensed Milk so popular, and has enabled it to sell at a higher price than any other milk. It is a standard for the world. Price $1 per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

Selected Poetry.

INDIAN SUMMER.

"Till Autumn, and the fading leaves,
Sail slowly down upon the wind,
Leaving like Death when he bereaves
The living germ of hope behind;
Till Autumn, and the sun is dim,
His summer fire is nearly gone;
The breeze wafts out a mournful hymn
And all the earth is sad and lone.

"Till Autumn, over land and main
A veil of azure haze is thrown,
As if the parent heaven again
Had claimed our planet as its own,
And the vast rest of the sky
For garniture of glory given,
Till scarcely can the straining eye
Tell which is earth and which is heaven.

Farmers' Department.

DECORATE THE HOMESTEAD.

Next to wholesome food, home pleasures are necessary to enliven our spirits, promote our good health, and give a zest to rural life. What can give greater satisfaction to a family of refined taste than to have the grounds around the homestead decorated with the beauties of nature so bountifully furnished us? The species and varieties of trees, shrubs, roses, vines, &c., are now so numerous that a choice selection can be made to suit every climate, soil and exposure, and to bloom and fruit all the growing season. See them tastefully arranged and gorgeously decked with foliage of various colors, and the most costly jewelry in brilliancy, and performing the air with their fragrance. In windy days they gracefully bow, prance, and whirl around like sprightly youth in the dance, and the melody of the breeze serve them for music. How beautiful the picture and great the enjoyment, to those who can appreciate it. It makes a cot a palace, and a home a paradise; it imparts a dignity to the manly graces of sons, and lustre to the beauties and virtues of daughters. The passing wayfarer is delighted with the scene, and sets it down in his mind as the abode of the great and good in heart, and the virtuous and wise in notions.

After planting climbing vines to clothe the veranda, and a few deciduous trees around the house for shade in summer, all the other trees, shrubs and roses, should be so arranged over the lawn that all will be seen at one view. Set the more dwarf nearest the house, and the taller farther off, and they will appear to rise in graceful folds as they recede from the eye, and the contrast of size, form and color, of the various individuals will show to great advantage.

HINTS TO FARMERS.

Timber cut in the Spring and exposed to weather with the bark on, decays much sooner than if cut in the Fall.

Experiments show apples to be equal to potatoes to improve cows, and decidedly preferable for feeding cattle.

A bare pasture enriches not the soil nor fattens the animals, nor increases the wealth of the owner.

One animal well fed is of more value than three poorly kept.

Ground once well ploughed is better than three poorly.

Bountiful crops are more profitable than poor ones. Make the soil rich; pulverize it well, and keep it clean, and generally it will be productive.

POTATO ROT. The Canadians are complaining, in several instances, of a sweeping potato rot. This is unfortunate for them, but will not prejudice us on this side of the line, as we will have plenty and to spare. The story that the tubers were "small and few in the hill," is not well founded. The vines are very prolific and the product of unusually large size.—Ploughman.

Anecdotes.

By a steamboat explosion on a western river, a passenger was thrown unhurt into the water, and at once struck out lustily for the shore, blowing like a porpoise all the while. He reached the bank almost exhausted, and was caught by a bystander, and drawn out panting.

"Well, old fellow," said his friend "had a hard time, eh?"

"Ye-yes, pre-pretty hard, considerin'." Wasn't don't it for myself, though; I was working for one of them insurance offices in New York. Got a policy on my life, and I wanted to save them. I didn't care."

A man came home drunk on a cold night, and vomited in a basket containing goslings, which his wife had placed before the fire, upon seeing which, he exclaimed:—

"Goodness gracious, wife, when did I swallow them?"

Uncle made Jimmy a present. Proud and grateful mother:—

"What's Jimmy going to say?"

"Innocent child responds:—

"Uncle, give Jimmy some more."

The Bishop of Wurtzburg once asked a sprightly clergyman:—

"What are you doing here, my lad?"

"How much do you get?"

"One florin a week."

"I also am a shepherd," continued the Bishop, "but I have much better salary."

"That may all be, but then I suppose you have more swine under your care," innocently replied the boy.

Why is swearing like a ragged coat? It is a bad habit.

Poetry.

SPEAK GENTLY TO THE LITTLE ONES.

Gently, mother, gently,

Chide thy little one,

'Tis a toilsome journey

It hath just begun;

Many a vale of sorrow,

Many a rugged steep,

Lieth in its pathway—

And full oft 'twill weep;

Oh! then, gently—gently.

Kindly, mother, kindly,

Speak in tender tone;

That dear child, remember,

Echoes back their own;

Teach in gentle accents,

Teach in words of love;

Let the softest breezes

Its young heart-strings move—

Kindly—mother—kindly.

Would'st thou have the setting

Of a gem most fair,

In a crown of beauty

It were time to wear!

Mother! train with caution

That dear little one;

Guide, reprove, and ever

Let the work be done

Gently—mother—kindly.

Interesting Selections.

BROWN BREAD. One quart of rye,

two of Indian meal, sifted together; one pint maple molasses, one quart good buttermilk, not old and bitter; two teaspoon-fuls soda; water sufficient to make a batter that can be stirred easily with a spoon.

If baked from two to three inches thick,

in shallow pans, bake two hours.

CHLOROFORM. It is suggested in the London Chemist and Druggist, that chloroform is an excellent medium for the removal of stains of paint from clothes, etc.

It is found that portions of dry white paint, which resisted the action of ether,

"But there are domestic women, who order a house, and are not mere drudges, adorn it, and are not mere dolls, but women. Some of these—a great many of them—enjoy the useful of the drudge and the beauty of the doll, into one womanhood, and have a great deal left besides. They are wholly taken up with their functions as house-keeper, wife and mother."

The Quincy Patriot.

SATURDAY, SEPT. 29, 1866.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We."

FATAL ACCIDENT. A most melancholy accident occurred at the Railway Quarry in West Quincy, on Monday afternoon, about four o'clock, while Mr. Elias Williams was engaged in moving a large block of Granite, the stone suddenly tilted or slipped, and caught him between it and another mass of rock, crushing the ankle joint and lower part of one leg, and the whole upper part of the foot, and a part of the ankle of the other; completely severing both from the limbs. He was conveyed to his home and Dr. Stetson, his family physician, and Dr. Underwood, of this town, were soon in attendance. Dr. Stetson taking charge of the case. Dr. Underwood was anxious to operate at once, to prevent loss of blood, and as soon as possible to make him comfortable in his own home, but those more nearly interested concluded to wait the advice of Dr. Holmes of Milton.

Dr. Holmes arrived just at dark, several hours after the accident, and after consulting with Dr. Stetson, they concluded to send Mr. Williams to the Mass. General Hospital, Boston. Without doubt all that skillful surgeons, and kind attendance could do, then was done, but the terrible shock of the injury, the loss of blood, and the fatigue of so long a ride, were too much for him. He died there Tuesday morning, about four o'clock. Mr. Williams was foreman at the quarry and a man much beloved and respected—one of our best citizens. He has left a family who share with him the esteem of all. We most sincerely sympathize with them in their irreparable loss.

FIRE AT WYOMOUTH. Early last Sunday morning fire was discovered issuing from a building adjoining the store of Capt. Eldridge G. Threlk, corner of Washington and Broad streets, which, together with the store, dwelling house and stable, were entirely destroyed.

The fire began in the rear of the store, whence it communicated itself to the other buildings. The furniture in the house was saved, but the goods in the store valued at from $50,000 to $60,000, upon which there was no insurance, were consumed. The entire loss is estimated at from $100,000 to $150,000, the buildings being insured to the value of about $82,000 in the Dedham and Hingham offices.

At one time the new Baptist church was in great danger, but fortunately escaped with slight damage.

The fire is supposed to be the work of an incendiary.

There were two engines from this town present, the Vulture and Tiger—but they arrived too late to be of much service.

HOUSE KEEPING GOODS. It gives us pleasure to call the attention of our readers to the bargains now offered at E. F. Cushman's 90 and 92 Tremont Street, Boston. He is selling flowers, laces, gloves, &c., at astonishing low prices. Also, new Straw Goods, new styles, very beautiful and cheap. See notice in another column.

AUCTION. We would call the attention of our readers to the sale of Asaph Faxon's residence, on Granite Street, near the railroad bridge. It is to be sold at four o'clock this afternoon; and is worthy the attention of capitalists, or of those in want of a pleasant place of their own, as it is near the depot, also stores, churches, &c.

NEW LINE OF RAILROAD. A new line was opened to Newport on Monday last, by the way of Randolph, Southport, North Easton, Raynham, Taunton, Dighton and Somerset. This new route will furnish accommodations for business and travel to a large population not so well served by other lines of communications.

DANCING SCHOOL. Our young readers should not forget the Dancing School to be opened on Monday next, by our townsman, Mr. Benjamin Watson. This school is the place for enjoyment.

NEW RAILROAD PROJECT. The Old Colony Sentinel has a rumor that a route is to be surveyed for a railroad between Bridgewater and Taunton, with a view to a direct route to New York for the inhabitants of that part of Plymouth county. The movement grows out of the dissatisfaction caused by the transfer of the steamboat train to the Dighton and Somerset Railroad.

The Springfield Republican says the lady whom Senator Sumner—now for over fifty years a bachelor—is about to marry, is Mrs. Sturgis Hooper, daughter-in-law of Representative Hooper of Boston, a beautiful and accomplished lady.

THE NEW BOOK—"SHERBROOK." The new novel from the press of Appleton & Co., New York, which has been large sale. It is one of the most interesting, and at the same time, one of the most high-toned books which has appeared for many a day.

"Hope" and "Aunt Lydia" are characters which will not soon be forgotten by those who have ever read the work. It is very fascinating in plot and style, and so charms the reader, that he is obliged to discontinue his other duties until the book has been finished.

Hingham Agricultural & Horticultural So.

This Society, under the enlightened and energetic direction of its President, Hon. Albert Fearing, assisted by earnest and willing coadjutors, has had an encouraging, not to say conspicuous history. Its exhibitions have been growing in interest and importance year by year, and the citizens who have contributed had the satisfaction of beholding, this year, a very great improvement over all previous exhibitions.

The weather, so gloomy and wet, rendered it anything but a gratification to walk among the cattle; but in the hall of exhibition there was attraction enough to compensate for any disappointment. The display of the substantial fruits—apples, pears and grapes, was very full, choice and fine.

The cultivation of pears in Hingham, is very extensive.—E. C. Sargent of this town, exhibited forty-eight varieties, receiving the first premium.

Of grapes there were one hundred and one dishes, embracing all the choice sorts, by twenty-seven contributors, and the display of apples was exceedingly fine and large. Chas. W. Cushing, who exhibited 30 varieties and Fearing Burr, who exhibited 30, being the heaviest contributors.

Of vegetables there was a generous and attractive display, no way inferior in quality, though less in quantity to the exhibition at the Horticultural Hall, in Boston, last week.

To make good bread is one of the principal among household accomplishments, and we would give more for the chances of some of the Hingham misses, who have received premiums for their skill in bread-making, to get good husbands, and get them, too, without being frightened with the dream of old maidism, than we would for the chances of the most fashionably accomplished miss in the most fashionable circle. And why? A girl who shows that she can make good bread has given security that she will make a good wife.

The floral display was full and attractive.

There was one feature in the department of domestic manufactures that was replete with interest,—the contributions of articles useful and ornamental by children of tender years. There were many articles of this class.

The various specimens of Hingham manufactures that were exhibited, speak well for Hingham skill and industry. Of course the "Hingham Bucket" was on exhibition, with other articles of wooden ware, willow baskets in great variety, a table top, very curious, containing 5,300 pieces, all of native wood.

But we must pause in our enunciations. We have given enough to show that the entire exhibition was full and a credit to the town.

During the days the visitors were entertained by music of the highest order from the Weymouth Band.

THE NEW POSTMASTER. About two years ago, the friends of Mr. John B. Bass, who had become a cripple for life in the service of his country, obtained the signatures of several hundreds of our citizens, of all parties, urging his appointment as postmaster in this town. The papers were put into the hands of Mr. Ames, our Representative in Congress from this district, with the expectation that he would immediately attend to the appointment in accordance with Mr. Lincoln's intentions, that wounded soldiers should be preferred for all Federal appointments. The long delay had led many of our soldiers to believe that their sacrifices were to be forgotten; it is therefore, we believe, with peculiar satisfaction, the public learned that their wishes were at last gratified.

Mr. Bass has been fortunate in securing a location in Mr. Yeazie's store, John's Building, which is without doubt, the most convenient for the purpose of any in the town.

APPLES. The Lebanon, (N. H.) Free Press, says it is all back, the cry of a short crop of apples, and that whatever is lacking in numbers is made up in size. The crop in that vicinity, it says, must at least be an average one, and the same is true of other localities. Other New England contemporaries speak much more favorably of the prospects of this season's apple crop than they did two months ago.

AMERICAN GOLD AND SILVER. The gold and silver products of the United States for the year 1866 have been estimated at from eighty-two to one hundred and six millions; California produced twenty-five millions; Montana, eighteen millions; Nevada, sixteen millions; Idaho, seventeen millions; Oregon, eight millions; Colorado, seventeen millions; other sources five millions.

WOOL. A recent letter from Michigan says that merchants are offering fifty to fifty-three cents per pound for wool. The average price paid for 510,000 pounds purchased, was fifty-five cents per pound. The quality of the wool now held by growers, consisting principally of large clips, is said to be very good.

Mr. Alexander T. Stewart of New York's return of over four millions of dollars is probably the largest annual business income in the world. If the Rothschilds, whose wealth is more that of a family than of individuals, are excepted, no uncorrupted man has an income approaching Mr. Stewart's.

On the 4th inst., a package was received at the Treasury, postmarked, Urbana, Ohio, 1st inst., containing sixteen seventy-dollar bonds of $1,000 each, and $775 in legal-tender notes. These bonds were of the issue of August 15th, 1864, and had all the numbers cut out. There was nothing accompanying the package to show by whom or for what purpose they were sent.

BLACKGUARDISM.

QUINCY, SEPT. 25th, 1866.

To the Publisher of the Patriot.

In your issue of last week, I noticed an article headed "Kansas Shrieks." The person who took the pains to write it was evidently devoid of all ideas of political questions, and destitute of any culture or refinement or even a sense of decency. The article, was simply a repetition of slang phrases, yet it has its significance. One would quickly surmise the political proclivities of the person who penned it. There are no arguments worthy of notice which can be adduced either by Mr. Adams or those who are so eager to defend his inconsistent course, in support of the apostasy of the President and his coadjutors (witness the election returns in Vermont and Maine). If Mr. Adams or the writer of the "Kansas Shrieks" article would like to meet Mr. Foster in the Town Hall to discuss the political questions of the day, no doubt that honorable gentleman would be most happy to meet them. But neither Mr. Adams or any of his friends felt disposed to discuss matters in that manner.

They prefer to make a few simple assertions without any arguments to support them, as they have none. If the person who penned such blackguardism is a friend to Mr. Adams, the time will soon come when he will pay to be delivered from the hands of his friends.

SAGE SUGGESTIONS FOR THE PEOPLE.

Feeling desirous of having my Republican friends enjoy as much good reading as possible, I have selected from the city papers the following extracts for their perusal, hoping they may put one side all prejudices and unchristian feelings of hatred towards a repentant people who ask forgiveness for their past follies, and promise once more in good faith to support the Constitution, the laws and the good old flag with its thirty-six stars. My friends read, mark, learn and inwardly digest, and see if it is not possible you may be mistaken holding to the political opinions you now think right. Try and exercise a Christian spirit of forgiveness instead of a devilish one of hatred. "Do unto others as you would be done by."—Remember that "To err is human, to forgive Divine." Have some faith in your brother man, and by kindness try and lead those who have strayed back to the paths of political rectitude, until all shall once more and make this a great and happy nation.

LETTER FROM PITTSFIELD.

SEPT. 26, 1866.

The old Indian town Pontoosuc was named Pittsfield, in honor of the great statesman William Pitt. For a hundred years it has been a farming community. Its location in a charming valley between the Taconic and Green Mountain ranges along the Hoosatic river is adapted to promote agricultural interests. Latterly, however, it has become a great manufacturing community. The Pontoosuc mills and the excellent blankets, plaids and balmorals here are of almost world renown. The population is about ten thousand. There are three Congregational churches, and five other denominations, one Episcopal, one Methodist, one Roman, one German, and one Baptist.

The American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions is holding a three days' session here. Upwards of two thousand strangers are entertained. Surrounding towns bear the burden. One hundred and fifty are sent to lodge at North Adams twenty miles distant. The Board is in a prosperous condition, employing in all 1127 missionaries and native preachers, male and female in 325 various stations and out stations. About half a million of dollars is required to meet its annual expenditures. The sessions are held in Dr. Todd's large and elegant sanctuary opposite the Park. Although very spacious, the edifice is crowded every day. A beautiful flag hangs over the pulpit with the words "Morning Star" in red letters on white ground, a gift from a sabbath school in Rochester, N. Y., to the new ship launched at East Boston, last Saturday, which sails in November for the Pacific missions.

Mr. Whipple has large photographs of this beautiful vessel that form pleasant souvenirs of the launch, which was a most successful one witnessed by several thousands.

The departure of the mail requires an abrupt close of this missive.

THE NEW POSTMASTER.

It is with much satisfaction and pleasure that we learned the past week of the appointment of Mr. John B. Bass, as Postmaster of this town. The more so on account of his having taken an active part in the late war,—until having been wounded—then suffering for months—resting on the verge of death; finally, leaving him as a cripple, with no other means of a livelihood but the offices which a generous Government have bestowed upon those who helped to save it from destruction. And it seems to us that humanity and justice would require that such offices as this should be bestowed upon those, who, like him, are left upon the dependence of others. Yet how small the recompense for the trial and suffering borne by him for month after month.

It is only those who at the commencement of the late war—in public and private, and at all times, being pledged themselves to the sympathies of the soldiers, to their benefit, and to all and every thing for their aid. And who have more lately used every and any means in their power to thwart this appointment of a worthy man to an office capable of every capacity to hold; but the public will be pleased with the change. Men of these advanced principles and ideas are now and have been daily heard, calling others of different principles, "bread and butter men," "traitors," &c.

This appointment adds but another instance of the high esteem in which our soldiers are held by our worthy President, and who means by right and justice to secure for those like our worthy townsman, the gratuitous gifts at the disposal of our Government.

Let us all go on in every way we can to second every act like this, and do all in our power to uphold that of repeated sentiment heard so often from men of these advanced ideas, "Support the President."

Selected Poetry.

SOMEWHERE OR OTHER.

Somewhere or other there must surely be
The face not seen, the voice not heard,
The heart that not yet—never yet—ah me!
Made answer to my word.

Somewhere or other, may be near or far;
Past land and sea, clean out of sight;
Beyond the wandering moon, beyond the star
That tracks her, night by night.

Somewhere or other, may be far or near;
With just a wall, a hedge between;
With just the last leaves of the dying year
Fallen on a turf grown green.

Farmers' Department.

HOW TO MAKE BOTH ENDS MEET.

John Johnson says that he has noticed that those farmers who have the most difficulty to make both ends meet, always plough the most, and keep the most stock. Now these men take the true plan to keep themselves always poor, and bring in little. It is a good profit to raise three hundred bushels of wheat from ten acres. But when it takes thirty acres to raise that amount, it is raised at a loss. So it is with cattle and sheep. You will see the thinking farmer making four year old steers worth from $50 to $80 each, and his neighbors at the same age, not worth over $24 to $40. If his land is exhausted—and a great many farms are—then he should plough no more than he can thoroughly manure. Seed with clover and grass, and let it rest for even two years, and that field will not only pay well for tillage, but will furnish manure, (if rightly managed,) to make another field of the same richness also. It is bad policy, when a field is once highly manured, to continue cropping it with grain until the manure is used up. The latter end of that land will be worse than the first. But let the land lay in clover, even one year, but two are better, after it is manured then it will stand perhaps six good crops before it requires manuring; if clay sub-soil it certainly will.—Ed.

SAVING MANURE.

Twenty hens will furnish enough excrement in a year, if well cared for, to give an acre of corn a good start, equal to a liberal supply of the patent materials. The privy for six in a family, if well tended, will produce enough for the hill for two acres of corn. And then, if more is needed, clean up all the fine manure in the yard and in the barn cellar, mix three bushels of ashes to a cartload of thirty bushels, and immediately use it, putting a pint in a hill. It costs no money, but needs a little time and attention. I have never found the farmer yet who did not acknowledge that $10 is better used in making manure at home, than in buying of others' manufacture. I believe this rule may generally be applied. Some exceptions exist. But that it is bad policy to waste fertilizers at home and buy foreign ones, is a fact too plain to be disputed.—Cor. Mirror and Farmer.

REMOVE FALLEN FRUIT. No fallen unripe fruit should decay on the ground under or about the trees. Fruit that drops before it is ripe does so because diseased. Insects mature in the fallen fruit, and rise to infect the trees. Fruit growers cannot be too careful in gathering the fallen fruit, that the grounds beneath their trees do not become insect nurseries—that their orchards do not become swarming households for tribes of insects. Orchards should be guarded against insects.

A red string should be tied around the earliest ears of corn and kept for seed. Try it, boys, and see if your corn next year, is not earlier than your neighbors.

BORERS. It is said that tanzey planted around an apple tree, will drive away borers.

To put buttons on the horns of cattle, place a large sized baked potato on the horn when hot, and in a few moments it may be taken off and the button screwed with a common wrench.

Tomatoes make excellent preserves.

Anecdotes.

One day at the table of the late Dr. Pease, Dean of Ely, just as the cloth was removed, the subject of discourse was that of an extraordinary mortality among lawyers.

"We have lost," said a gentleman, "not less than six eminent barristers in as many months."

The Dean, who was quite deaf, rose as his friend finished his remarks, and gave the company grace:

"For this and every other mercy, the Lord's name be praised."

A gentleman offered a horse several months ago to a friend for $300.

"I'll buy him," said the friend, "with these conditions. I shall pay you two hundred dollars cash, and owe you the rest."

The offer was accepted, but tight times coming on, the seller called upon the purchaser for the old hundred.

"I shan't pay you," said he, "for it would be a violation of the contract. I agreed to pay two hundred cash and owe you one hundred, and if I paid that, the bargain would be broken."

A man much addicted to snoring, remarked to his bedfellow in the morning that "He had slept like a top."

"I know it," said the other, "like a humming top."

JOHN PATTEN, Jr., Proprietor.

THE Pacific Hotel, is well and widely known to the traveling public. The location is especially suitable to merchants and business men; it is in close proximity to the business part of the City—in the highway of Southern and Western travel—and adjacent to all the principal Railroad and Steamboat depots.

The Pacific Hotel, of accommodation for over 200 guests; it is well furnished, and possesses every modern improvement for the comfort and entertainment of its inmates. The rooms are spacious and well ventilated; provided with gas and water; the attendance is prompt and respectful; and the table is generously provided with every delicacy of the season.

The proprietor, who, for the past few years has been the lessee, is now sole proprietor, and intends to identify himself thoroughly with the interests of his house. With long experience as a hotel-keeper, he trusts, by moderate charges and a liberal policy, to maintain the favorable reputation of the Pacific Hotel.

N. B. To prevent overcharge by Hackmen, the coaches of the Hotel are owned by the proprietor.

HELMHOLD'S BUCHU.

DIABETES,

IRRITATION OF THE NECK OF THE
BLADDER, INFLAMMATION OF THE
KIDNEYS, CATARRH OF THE
PAINFUL URINATING.

For these diseases it is truly a sovereign remedy, and too much cannot be said in its praise! A single dose has been known to relieve the most urgent symptoms.

Are you troubled with that distressing pain in the small of the back and through the hips? A tea-spoonful a day of Helmhold's Buchu will relieve you.

Physicians and Others
PLEASE NOTICE.

I make no secret of ingredients. Helmhold's Extract Buchu is composed of Buchu, Colaba, and Juniper Berries, selected with great care, prepared in water and according to rules of

PHARMACY AND CHEMISTRY.
These ingredients are known as the most valuable Diuretics afforded.

A DIURETIC
Is that which acts upon the kidneys.

Helmhold's Extract Buchu
ACTS GENTLY.

Is pleasant in taste and odor, free from all injurious properties, and immediate in its actions.

OF THE U. S., of which the following is a correct copy:

"Buchu.—Its odor is strong, diffusive and somewhat aromatic, its taste bitterish, and analogous to that of mint. It is given chiefly in complaints of the Urinary Organs, such as Gravel, Chronic Catarrh of the Bladder, Morbid Irritation of the Bladder and Uterus, Diseases of the Prostate, and Retention or the Incontinence of Urine, from a loss of tone in the parts concerned in its evacuation. It has also been recommended in Dyspepsia, Chronic Rheumatism, Cutaneous Affections and Dropsy."

FROM THE LARGEST
IN THE WORLD.

I am acquainted with H. T. Helmhold; he occupied the drug store opposite my residence, and was successful in conducting the business where others had not been equally so before him. I have been favorably impressed with his character and enterprise.

Wm. WEIGHTMAN, (Firm of Powers & Weightman), Manufacturing Chemist,
Ninth and Brown Streets, Philadelphia.

[From the Phila. Evening Bulletin, March 10th.]
We are gratified to hear of the continued success, in New York, of our townsman, Mr. H. T. Helmhold, Druggist. His store, next to the Metropolitan Hotel, is 25 feet front, 230 feet deep, and five stories in height. It is certainly a grand establishment, and speaks favorably of the merit of his articles. He retains his Office and Laboratory in this city, which are also model establishments of their class.

The proprietor has been induced to make this statement from the fact that his remedies, although advertised, are
